SEES TRUST SUITS AS GALLERY PLAY.

Charles Gates Dawes Causes a Sensation in Evening Session of Civic Federation Conference.

SAYS JUSTICE IS MISUSED.

Other Speakers Besides the Former Controller of the Currency Attack the Sherman Law.

A sharp attack upon the federal department of justice—an arraignment which charged the attorney general's office under President Roosevelt with "making gallery plays"—startled the delegates to the National Civic federation trust conference last night at Music hall.

Charles Gates Dawes, controller of the currency under McKinley, and now president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, was the man who thus awakened the delegates with a vitriolic attack upon the department of justice and its methods of dealing with trusts. He ripped the Sherman anti-trust law up the back and roasted the "muck raking" magazine writers.

Several Attacks on Sherman Law.

The day at the trust conference had been marked by a variety of attacks on the anti-trust act, and Mr. Dawes' slap at it was a climax.

Frank B. Kellogg, special attorney for the government in the Standard Oil cases—one of the men Mr. Dawes struck at later in the day—said the Sherman act ought to be amended.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said unkind things about it. Allen R. Foote, president of the National Tax association, had other criticisms.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit court, in a lengthy address urged the creation of a national commission to reform the "bad" trusts. A business men's association of St. Louis came forward with a plea for a joint national and state convention under the auspices of President Roosevelt and the governors of the various states for the consideration of the trust subject.

Dawes' Speech Gives a Sensation.

Mr. Dawes' speech, containing, as it did, a reflection on the administration's policy in trust prosecutions, furnished a sensation.

"Of course, I can't say it is intentional on the part of the department of justice," he declared, "but some of its actions look remarkably as if favoritism was being displayed in the selection of the combinations to be investigated and in the manner of attack.

"It is inevitable that the man who does things is the man who is in the public eye, and to attack upon him always will win publicity. It is remarkable that the cases handled by the department of justice always are tried in the newspapers long before they get into the courts.

"Take the Northern Securities case, for instance. In that case the department prosecuted only the corporation. In the case of the Chicago packers who were prosecuted the department aimed its blow not only at the corporation, but at its officials as well.

Wants Honesty of Purpose.

"Give us honesty of purpose and we will be satisfied. Put men in charge of the department who will take no action that is merely for the sensation that will follow, but will act in the interests of the general public.

"Let us take, for instance, the career of James J. Hill, who began life handling freight on a river boat—handling freight. He shared his room with Philip D. Armour that he might save money. Then he turned his eye to the great northwest. Eventually he created a system of railroads that opened up a great country—made thousands of prosperous cities possible.

"Now, I want to ask, where, from the freight jerking boy to the head of the great railway system, did James J. Hill become a menace to the prosperity and peace of this country? When did he become an adjudicated criminal?

"Who, I ask, are the men who are criticising and tearing down the work of these men who are doing things? I would rather have a dozen of these men who do things than a country filled with such magazine writers as I have referred to."

Mr. Dawes declared the American business man was honest and that all he wanted was plain laws that would not make it possible for a law abiding citizen to be indicted at the whim of a department of justice.

Defends New York Financiers.

Then he got down to the defense of the New York financiers.

"In New York City some of the men who for the last four years have borne the lash are doing a work for their country the value of which is hard to estimate, however extravagant might be our language. As you and I sleep in peace and quiet tonight devoted men will work until the morning hours, seeking to hold values, seeking to prevent the destruction of confidence, seeking to uphold credit upon which the nation's prosperity depends.

"Are they seeking to depress values, as our friends, the critics, would have us believe, to reap the benefit? No. They are seeking to uphold the credit upon which prosperity exists. They are seeking to save employment for the thousands of men whom you, Mr. Gompers, are representing.

"They are seeking to save the opportunity for the profitable continuance of you who are in merchandise, of you who are in manufacturing, of you who are in any of the walks of business life.

Wants Sherman Law Amended.

"The American business man wants the Sherman anti-trust law corrected because he believes in obeying his country's law. He has accumulated his property under this country's laws, and I repel the assumption of so many in these days that the American business man is a man who must be watched—watched—watched.

"What the business man wants to do is what you are doing [turning to Mr. Gompers]. You, who represent the laboring men of the United States. You are seeking to prevent that kind of competition which crushes out life. You are seeking to bring about cooperation and better understanding between those who employ and those who are employed. You have a singular

SENATE BALLOON SHOOTS SKYWARD

Ascent Begins When House, by Vote of 102 to 27, Passes the Oglesby Direct Primary Bill.

COME DOWN FOR CAUCUS.

Leaders Confer Long on Way to Take Away 'Radical' Features of Measure; Action Is Due on Friday.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—There was a balloon ascension in these parts today which modestly would bid for a small share of the public attention.

The house passed the Oglesby direct plurality primary law with the emergency clause by a vote of 102 to 27, and the esteemed senate immediately ascended.

It was followed instantly by a "flock" of political balloons carrying agitated party leaders who were not prepared to go up just at that time. Some of them did not have time to crawl into the baskets, but were carried up on the guide ropes and by the anchors. The prevailing emotion in Springfield is one of great anxiety for the participants in the "flight." The senate returned to earth this evening, but none of the politicians have been able to send back any reassuring tidings as to their condition.

Too High for Real Work.

It is not expected that any of the ascensionists will rival the distances of the St. Louis racers across the country, but it is a certainty that the Springfield balloons have attained an altitude not attempted by the international balloonists.

It further is expected that all parties concerned will alight some time tomorrow, and that immediate steps will be taken to eliminate some of the desperate radicalism of Mr. Oglesby's first performance in the direction of primary legislation.

Already it has been decided that the Oglesby bill will be taken as the ground work for senate legislation on the subject, but the conservatives expect to be able to amend it so as to preserve the convention idea, either by requiring majorities or a 35 per cent vote for direct nominations.

The house bill was received by the senate at its evening session and sent to second reading. It will be taken up tomorrow for amendment and the senators have decided to attempt its passage in amended form on Friday.

Both Houses Pass Bills.

Altogether it has been a busy day in legislation, as may be indicated by the following summary of measures passed:

BY THE SENATE.

The wheel tax bill wanted by the Chicago city officials to enable the licensing of vehicles to provide a fund for street repair, introduced by Senator Allison for Mayor Busse, and passed by vote of 37 to 0. It is an amendment to the cities and villages act, empowering all cities and towns which care to use the power conferred to tax vehicles and regulate the width of tires.

The international improvement commission bill providing a method for making the improvements needed for the protection of Ohio river towns, introduced by Senator Bartley.

An appropriation bill for the East St. Louis free employment agency.

A bill authorizing the trustees of state institutions to contract to give public service corporations right of way over state grounds.

BY THE HOUSE.

The Oglesby direct primary bill putting all nominations directly in the hands of voters.

The Allen bill declaring the Desplaines and Illinois rivers navigable streams, and ordering the state authorities proceed by law to remove obstructions from them.

The cocaine bill prohibiting the sale of narcotic drugs except on a physician's prescription, and providing a fine of $1,000, or one year's imprisonment, for violation. The measure was backed by John L. Whitman and some of the Municipal court judges.

BY BOTH HOUSES.

A joint resolution providing for the appointment of a joint committee of both houses to report to the next legislature on the outer park belt and forest preserve project in Chicago.

House Vote Shocks Leaders.

In spite of the fact that the purpose of the house to pass the Oglesby bill seemed pretty plain, the action came as a distinct shock to the senate leaders and to the numerous politicians gathered to watch the battle.

Members of the upper house have become accustomed to seeing the house perform what they consider to be wild and dangerous tricks, but they never have felt particularly alarmed. They always have regarded the house as a giddy young thing that would have its fling, but which never would carry anything too far. Therefore when Speaker Shurtleff announced the vote of 102 to 27 on the Oglesby bill, showing that it had the necessary two-thirds to carry an emergency clause, the senate, realizing that the house had gone the limit, immediately ascended, as has been related.

Hold Council of War.

As soon as a return to earth had been negotiated a conference of republican senators was called to frame up a program of action.

The discussion is said to have been warm, interesting, and picturesque. Four propositions were submitted to the gathering. One was the Oglesby bill itself. A second was the Gardner bill, providing merely that all primaries shall be held on the same day.

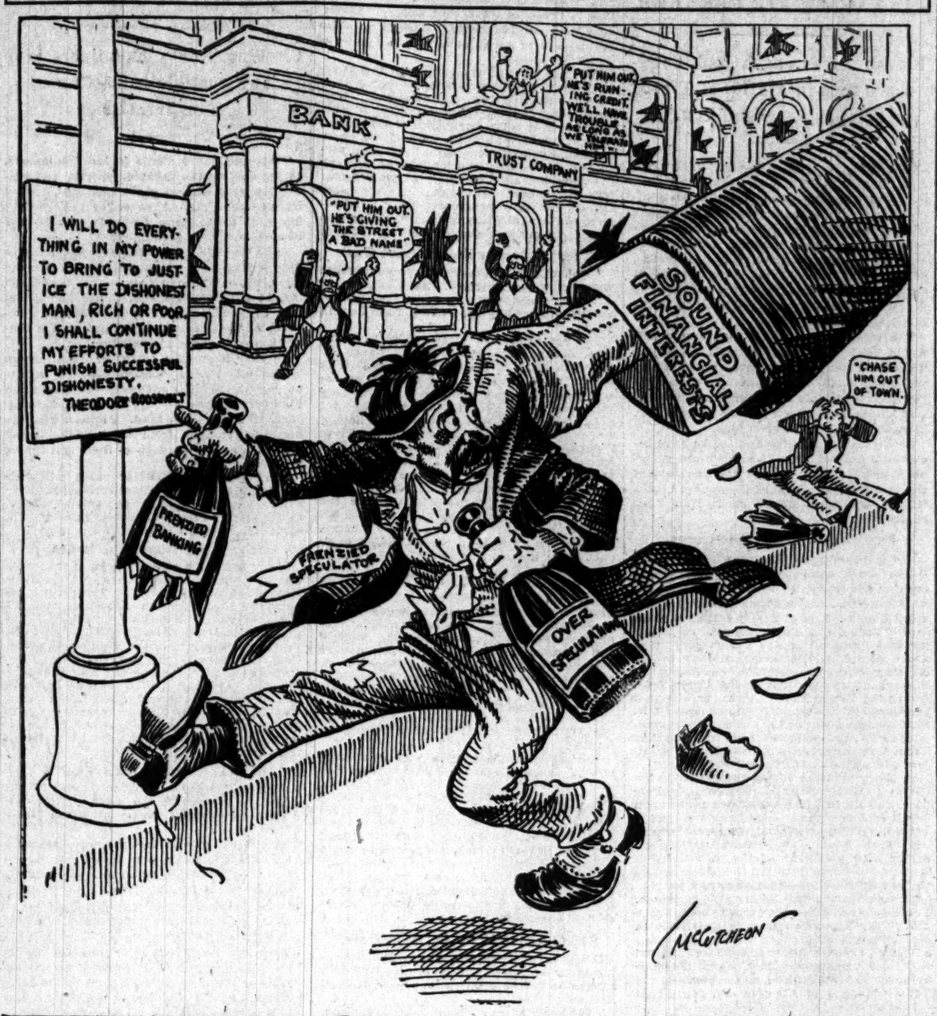

A third was submitted by Senator Jones, providing that the recent state law should be amended to remove the defects because of which the Supreme court held it unconstitutional. The fourth was presented by Senator Dunlap, who wanted a law framed which would allow some nominations by plurality vote, but which would retain the county and state conventions.

By far the most interesting utterances during the debate came from Senator Henson, according to all reports. Mr. Henson is said to have expressed himself to the effect that the Supreme court and the legislature were filled with "undesirable citizens." He allowed that if the senate really wanted to do anything with a primary law it could find a way in about an hour, and he also said that once he had regarded it an honor to be a member of the Illinois upper house, allowing his fellow members to guess how he has now come to regard it.

After a couple of hours' talking the four

AIR SCANDAL OF ROYAL CABAL

Charges Against Berlin Court Clique Revealed at Trial.

KAISER CALLED 'LIEBSCHEN.'

Handkerchief Episode Sheds Light on Vices of Erotic Circle.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The action of Count Kuno von Moltke, former military governor of Berlin, against Maximilian Harden, publicist and editor of the Zukunft, for defamation of character, came up for trial this morning. Von Moltke is an intimate friend of Prince Eulenburg, who formerly was German ambassador to Vienna, and a kinsman of the present chief of the general staff, Lieut. Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke, and of the governor of the province of East Prussia, Frederick von Moltke. These three Von Moltkes are nephews of the late great field marshal, Von Moltke.

Harden, in a long series of articles in the Zukunft, attacked a court camarilla, headed by Prince Eulenburg, who was then a personal friend and confidant of the kaiser. The allegations represented Count von Moltke as belonging to this camarilla, which was described as a group of mystical and spiritualistic members of the court circle, who secretly sought to influence the kaiser in political matters and were guilty of abnormal immoral practices among themselves. Von Moltke challenged Harden to a duel, but Harden refused on the ground that a duel would close the entire episode.

Kaiser Furious at Developments.

According to report the Crown Prince Frederick William made an inquiry into the charges in May and went to his father with the result of his investigation, which caused Count Eulenburg, Von Moltke, and Lieut. Gen. Hohenau suddenly to resign.

The kaiser is said to be furious, not only at the state of things that has been disclosed, but also that the case has been allowed to come into court and thus bring odium on the monarchy.

The trial is chiefly of interest as revealing that such men and such conditions could possibly exist within a civilized court of almost puritanical tendencies. Berlin opinion so far is that Harden is showing himself to be a good patriot as well as a strong personality.

Few of the 10,000 applicants for cards of admission to the courtroom were able to get them, and these largely were lawyers, witnesses, and reporters.

Among those summoned to testify were Maj. Prince Biron von Kurland, belonging to a regiment of the guards; Count Edgar von Wedel, Count Otto von Moltke, Herr Paul Liman, author of a life of the emperor; Baron Alfred von Berger, director of the Hamburg theater; Frau von Elbe, the divorced wife of Count Kuno von Moltke, and many others well known in Germany but less known abroad.

Chancellor Unable to Be Present.

Chancellor von Bülow's chief clerk notified the court that the chancellor, who had not yet returned to Berlin, regretted that he could not be present. Field Marshal Count von Hulsen-Haesler, chief of the emperor's military cabinet, could not be reached by subpœna, as he was traveling, and Prince Eulenburg's physicians sent a certificate saying he was in Berlin, but too ill to attend the court, and willingly would make a declaration if called upon to do so.

After the clerk of the court had read all of Herr Harden's articles on the subject the defendant rose and said:

"I have followed political aims alone in my articles, and in so doing have been compelled to mention Count von Moltke's name. I did not say he had practiced disgraceful vices, but said he was abnormal in temperament."

Harden said he had never written a word more than was necessary.

Count von Moltke said such a circle as the "Round table," which, as the defendant alleged, had sought to influence Emperor William's political actions, often in a sense contrary to the views of his constitutional advisers, never had existed and could not exist in the entourage of the emperor. The count added that his old friendship with Prince Eulenburg was "wholly without ulterior significance."

Heard Disgraceful Reports.

Herr Harden's counsel, Herr Bernstein, asked Von Moltke if he had not heard disgraceful reports about M. Lecomte, the ex-first secretary of the French embassy, who was transferred in June, and the plaintiff replied:

"I did hear them, but I did not believe them. I met M. Lecomte many years ago at Starnburger [a watering place in upper Bavaria], and I saw him once or twice with Prince Eulenburg."

Herr Harden questioned the plaintiff about the testimony presented at the time of his divorce from his wife, Frau von Elbe, and said he had heard things about the plaintiff five years ago which if he had told of them would have caused the count's uniform to be torn from him, but he had kept silent. Continuing, Herr Harden declined to withdraw anything he had written, but admitted frankly that he had twice been imprisoned for insults to the sovereign, each time for six months, and that he had also been fined several times for the same offense.

Regards Friendships Erotic.

At the afternoon session of the court Harden said he did not accuse Von Moltke of criminal acts, but he regarded his friendship with Prince Eulenburg as erotic in character, for the plaintiff, he said, had once pressed the prince's handkerchief to his lips and cried: "My Philip, my soul, my beloved."

Harden went on to testify that Von Moltke's friends had admitted to him that Von Moltke and Prince Eulenburg had, when conversing together, referred to the kaiser as "Liebschen" (little darling).

In reply to this the defense promised to show that the word was used of the old Emperor William by the aged Countess Fourtales, and that the epithet had been inherited, as it were.

Epithets on Married Life.

Frau von Elbe, the divorced wife of Kuno von Moltke, testified to the gross epithets that her former husband had applied to married life. She then described the handkerchief incident, which she said she saw from an adjacent room. She declared also that Prince Eulenburg at once knelt to her and begged her to give up her husband. Referring to her divorce Frau von Elbe said she had asked Von Moltke:

"What will his majesty say to our divorce?"

To this Von Moltke replied: "His majesty only hears what I allow him to know."

These words created a great sensation in the courtroom. Continuing, the witness testified that Von Moltke had once written a letter to her mother, in which he said they had formed a circle about the emperor which nobody was able to break through. Answering a question from Harden, Frau von Elbe said Von Moltke once had told her that he often had to make a daily report to Prince Eulenburg of the happenings at court.

The handkerchief incident was confirmed by Lieut. von Kruse, Frau von Elbe's son by a previous marriage.

HUSBAND KNOCKS OUT COPPER.

Policeman Johnson Insults a Wife and His Star Is Taken from Him.

Policeman George Johnson of the Attrill street station, who was off duty but wearing a uniform, met a Mr. and Mrs. Smith, 47 Fullerton avenue, at Elston and Fullerton avenues last night. The policeman is alleged to have made an insulting remark to Mrs. Smith, and the husband quickly knocked him out.

The Smiths departed before other policemen reached the scene and before their full name was secured.

Lieut. Meagher arrested Johnson, stripped him of his star, and placed him in a cell.

Johnson, who has been on the force six months, will have to face the trial board. It is said he was intoxicated.

He denies that he insulted Mrs. Smith, but admits becoming involved in a quarrel with Smith.

DEFY TORREY: 'PROVE A HELL'

Religious Independents Demand Debate with Evangelist.

CHALLENGES TURNED DOWN.

Preacher Refuses Discussion with Mangasarian and Baker.

Two challenges asking that he participate in a public debate upon the existence of God, heaven, and hell were sent yesterday to Dr. R. A. Torrey, the evangelist conducting a series of services in a large tent at Clark and Chestnut streets. One he already has declined, and it is expected that, as the second was issued by a member of the same sect, it will meet with similar treatment in a "private reply" today.

Both originated in the Independent Religious society, which holds its meetings Sunday mornings in Orchestra hall. M. M. Mangasarian, head of the society, in response to an advertisement in which Dr. Torrey asked all skeptics to "meet" him, requested a public discussion rather than a private interview. A brief reply setting forth the evangelist's reasons for declining the invitation will be read to the Mangasarian congregation on Sunday.

The second challenge, forwarded by H. H. Baker, 337 East Ohio street, a member of the Independent society, mentioned several of the subjects which should be discussed.

"Would Be Printed in Papers."

"If Jesus whom you worship is a God," read the letter, "it is incredible that he would not come to greet us and say much that would be interesting not alone to us but to the whole world, who would hear of what was said in the next day's press. Paul likewise would surely accept the offer and meet us. That is what their mission was, that is what your mission is. That is the mission of the clergy who turned tail heretofore.

"We wish to impress upon you that we are just as sincere as you in our belief that Jesus (the God) is a myth; that prayer is a superstition; that God (he, she, it, or them) is a possibility but in any case beyond human comprehension; that the bible was invented by clergy; that it is idle to try to pick out the true Christian religion or any other true religion, because all religions and many of the Christian religions have fought each other like hawks in midair.

"You hold your own religion sacred, but scoff at, ignore, or denounce the religion of others—as they do yours. Here is an opportunity to meet a vast, friendly, calm, kind, considerate, truth seeking audience, well versed in history, science, and logic, which would gladly listen to your side of the problems we study, without hysteria, self-hypnotism, collective hypnotism, or suggestion."

Dr. Torrey stated his reply to this letter would be private.

Torrey Describes Hell.

During his evening address the evangelist followed up his assertion that "there is a hell," with an expression of his conception of the infernal regions.

"Hell is a place of insatiate desires and appetites," was his definition.

"For you who have cultivated appetites for which there is no gratification in heaven," he continued, "heaven would be hell. There is nothing there you could desire and everything is there that you dislike. Hell is a place where all are dishonored and disgraced, a world of vile companionship, endless, absolutely without hope."

He closed his address with a figure, comparing those who would not repent with men who, through false ideas of bravery and cowardice, would not leave a burning building or jump from a railroad track as a train approached.

"The building's afire! Save yourself while you may!" he shouted as he asked the repentants to stand. The effect of his call was shown by the presence of several score of people who at the close of the meeting went to the front benches to pray with him.

FINANCIAL GALE FLATTENING OUT.

Situation Takes On Hopeful Attitude Despite Crashes in Pittsburg Early in the Day.

RECEIVERS FOR 5 FIRMS.

Four Westinghouse Concerns and One Trust Company Go Under Before Situation Is Controlled.

The financial and banking situation in New York, which has created some excitement in the east, and has occasioned a little uneasiness in other sections of the country since the beginning of the week, lost its alarming aspect yesterday, and the consensus of opinion in every financial center last night was that the critical period had been passed and that the outlook for the future was entirely reassuring.

Yesterday morning the trouble that started in New York spread to Pittsburg, but prompt and effective action taken by the clearing house association and the directors of the stock exchange there coped with it effectually and before the close of the business day the atmosphere had cleared.

The trouble in Pittsburg was precipitated by the announcement of four concerns in the Westinghouse string of interests, which were unable, owing to the abnormal stringency of the money market, to secure sufficient liquid collateral to meet maturing loans.

Pittsburg Concerns Go Under.

The difficulties of these concerns were brought to the attention of the Pittsburg Clearing House association, which advised the directors of the stock exchange to suspend operations for the day in order to prevent the needless sacrifice of security values in an excited market. This action was taken, and later in the day receivers were appointed for the embarrassed Westinghouse concerns. It was stated that these concerns are entirely solvent, and that creditors would be paid in full.

The action of the clearing house association and stock exchange of Pittsburg is regarded as having brushed aside the danger of the situation that suddenly developed there, although before the day was over the Iron City Trust company had gone into the hands of receivers. Its assets are estimated at $4,000,000 and liabilities at $1,700,000.

New York Quiets Down.

The transition from unrest to reassurance in New York was due to action taken by J. P. Morgan, James Stillman, and a number of the most influential financial interests in the city, who cooperated in an effort to bring order out of the chaotic condition into which the financial community had fallen. A committee was formed to protect trust companies and unlimited assistance promised to the Trust company of America, which during the day withstood a $12,000,000 run.

After a thorough canvass of the situation Secretary Cortelyou pledged government assistance to the extent of $25,000,000.

John D. Rockefeller entered into the day's developments as an ameliorating influence, arranging to loan large sums to financial institutions in need of temporary assistance.

West Solid as a Rock.

Financial conditions in Chicago, which have remained practically unaffected by the scare in the east, showed up stronger than ever yesterday. During the day financiers connected with the leading institutions in the city gave out statements declaring that the flurry had not and would not be felt to any appreciably serious extent by the banks here, which are conducted on basic principles radically different from those in New York.

Conditions similar to those existing in Chicago were reflected in every important financial center throughout the west. Reports from over a large area yesterday say that not only have conditions not been disturbed by the excitement in the east, but that large and important offers of assistance have been made by western bankers to their troubled confrères in the east.

PITTSBURG OVER CRISIS SAFELY.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—After a morning of some alarm and excitement caused by the announcement of the embarrassment of the Westinghouse companies and the decision of the stock exchange to suspend operations until the financial atmosphere had cleared, the closing hours of today brought relief and assurance that Pittsburg had passed through a critical period with comparatively little damage.

A late echo of the day's excitement, however, was heard in the announcement that receivers had been appointed for the Iron City Trust company.

The Iron City Trust company was established in 1901 with $2,000,000 capital. It has deposits of $2,168,893, according to a recent statement, and a surplus of $728,561. It was stated that while the institution has assets of $4,000,000 and liability to depositors of only $1,700,000, it was thought best to ask for receivers, because of the company's inability to call loans and realize on securities.

Westinghouse Concerns Hit.

Tonight the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Machine company, and the Security Investment company, a holding company for the Westinghouse interests, are in the hands of a receiver appointed by Judge Ewing of the United States Circuit court. A fourth concern, the Nernst Lamp company, will be turned over to receivers in the morning.

The Pittsburg stock exchange, which decided to close when informed of the Westinghouse situation by the Pittsburg Clearing House association, probably will remain closed tomorrow. This action is taken solely for the purpose of preventing unnecessary sacrifice of values by heavy liquidation of stocks.

Statements issued late today by George Westinghouse, prominent bankers, officers of the stock exchange, and the clearing house committee declare Pittsburg's financial condition is sound despite today's development, and there is no danger.

Money Tightness Causes Action.

The applications for receivers were filed by Attorneys George Gordon and Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal in behalf of H. H. Westinghouse of New York and the Atha Steel Casting company of New Jersey, the applications being made by residents of other states, giving the United States court jurisdiction. The allegations in the bills were that owing to the stringency in the money market it was found impossible at the present time to secure the money with which to carry on the business of the companies.

It was stated that it was deemed for the best interests of the stockholders of the companies, the employés, and the creditors that the court appoint receivers to carry on the business of the companies rather than close down.

The bill sets forth that each of the companies is solvent and has large orders. The court made an order that the companies be operated under receivers and that they be authorized to purchase such material as might be necessary to carry on the business of the companies. It was explained that the Security Investment company was a purely Westinghouse concern, being practically owned by George Westinghouse, and that the company has been advancing money to the two industrial companies until its resources had been exhausted.

News of the embarrassment of the Westinghouse concerns reached the business district of the city simultaneously with announcement of the decision to suspend dealings on the stock exchange. The decision to close the stock exchange was made shortly after it opened in the morning. Secretary C. F. Holman announcing:

"At the request of the Pittsburg clearing house, and at the suggestion of the members and board of directors, the Pittsburg stock exchange has been closed for the day."

Reassuring Statements Issued.

Immediately following this, President R. O. Hall issued a statement reading as follows:

"The Security Investment company finds itself involved. This will necessitate a temporary suspension or receivership of the Westinghouse Electric company and the Westinghouse Machine company and the Nernst Lamp company. The manufacturing companies are in an absolutely solvent condition. The condition of the Security Investment company will in no way affect the Union Switch and Signal company and the Westinghouse Air Brake company. I would like it explicitly understood that it was at the request of the Pittsburg clearing house that we have suspended trading temporarily."

Bankers Reassure Public.

A little later the Clearing House association issued this statement:

"The clearing house committee, on behalf of the association, begs to announce to the public that, owing to the heavy liquidation of stocks necessitating an unnecessary sacrifice of values, it has requested that the stock exchange suspend its operations for the present. The committee also desires to say that it has received no application for aid from any banking institution, but should such application be made it is prepared to take immediate action to protect the interests of the city and no alarm need be felt."

No More Trouble, Bankers Say.

Following the close of the stock exchange the Clearing House association held a meeting for the purpose of making a full investigation of the financial affairs of the Westinghouse companies to ascertain whether or not the local banks are warranted in coming to their assistance. When the meeting adjourned at noon Chairman Andrew Long, cashier of the Exchange National bank, said:

"So far developments indicate no trouble in the situation here. We have received no application for assistance, but the members of the association have agreed to stand together for mutual protection. There has been no development which would indicate that any action is necessary beyond that already taken.

"We realized that the Westinghouse Elec-

"The Westinghouse Air Brake company and the Union Switch and Signal company are not affected by the present difficulties, nor are the personal affairs of Mr. George Westinghouse."

Westinghouse Explains Action.

Later in the afternoon, when the situation had been straightened out, George Westinghouse issued the following statement:

"When the Pittsburg clearing house committee, after full investigation and conference with me, concluded that, although the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the Westinghouse Machine company were solvent, receiverships were advisable as the best means of protecting the interests of all concerned, it was clearly our duty to follow its friendly advices.

"The necessity for the receiverships is due solely to the acute financial stringency and consequent inability to renew our maturing paper. Both the electric company and the machine company are solvent and are doing the largest and most satisfactory business in their history, and each company is earning liberal dividends on its stock and has quick assets substantially equal to its liabilities.

Says Creditors Will Be Paid.

"I most confidently believe that every creditor of each company will be paid in full, and that with wise management under the direction of the receivers appointed by the court the properties will soon be restored to the stockholders.

"The loans to the Security Investment company and myself are secured by the stocks of the Westinghouse manufacturing companies, chiefly stock of the electric and machine companies, the sudden decline in the market value of which on Monday and Tuesday of this week has made it impossible for us to margin our loans.

"I strongly advise all holders of such loans to hold their collateral, the value of which, I am confident, will in time be sufficient to pay the loans. The sacrifice of the collateral in the present condition of the market can benefit no one. A policy of patience and forbearance is what the situation requires."

Stocks' Decline Prophetic.

The severe decline in Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing second preferred from 54⅝ on Monday morning to 36 yesterday, forecasted some important developments. It had been known for several months that the electric company was in need of funds. The failure of the stockholders to take up the $5,000,000 new stock at $75 per share a few months ago naturally disarranged the plans of the management for financing its requirements.

It had been expected to pay off maturing loans with the proceeds and the exigencies of the situation in New York prevented the company from making such loans that would carry it over a period of several months. The situation became acute within the last few days and it is understood that large loans were called, which, when unpaid, were liquidated yesterday.

The receivers appointed for the embarrassed companies of the Westinghouse interests by Judge Ewing are:

For the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, T. H. Given, H. S. A. Stewart, and E. M. Herr.

For the Westinghouse Machine company, William McConway, W. H. Donner, and E. E. Keller.

For the Security Investment company, the Fidelity Title and Trust company.

The petition for receivers for the Nernst Lamp company will be presented tomorrow.

PLANS OF ALLIS-CHALMERS.

Present Officers to Be Re-elected—Finance and Executive Committees to Be Abolished.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—At the annual meeting of the Allis-Chalmers company at Jersey City, on Thursday, the present officers of the company, headed by President W. H. Whiteside, will be re-elected.

The executive committee and the finance committee probably will be abolished, and the entire management of the company will be placed in the hands of the board of directors and the executive officers. This means that in the future the extensive business of the company will be directed from Milwaukee.

FINANCIAL AIR CLEARER.

Return to Strength and Confidence Seen in Ability of Trust Company to Stand Run.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The muddled financial situation of the last few days in trust company circles was cleared tonight by conferences among trust company officials, clearing house bankers, and members of the private banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. at a meeting in the uptown office of the Union Trust company and at a meeting between some of the bankers and Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou in the Hotel Manhattan.

The trust companies, it was announced, would henceforth stand unitedly behind the Trust Company of America, which today withstood a $12,000,000 pounding, a substantial and responsible trust company organization having been effected in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the afternoon.

Both trust companies and banks have besides the support of the clearing house prominent private bankers and the secretary of the treasury, who tonight announced his intention to deposit $25,000,000 in New York banks forthwith.

Sky Cleared at Big Conference.

The conference at the uptown office of the Union Trust company began early in the evening and continued until midnight. There were present J. P. Morgan, George W. Perkins, Charles Steele, James Stillman, Oakleigh Thorne, and the members of the clearing house committee and a newly appointed trust company committee, similar to the clearing house association, consisting of Edward King, president of the Union Trust company; Edward F. Marston, president of the Farmers' Loan and Trust company; J. N. Wallace, president of the Central Trust company; J. W. Castle, president of the Guaranty Trust company; John I. Waterbury, president of the Manhattan Trust company.

At the conclusion of the conference in the Union Trust company Mr. Morgan, Mr. Perkins, and Mr. Stillman and others called upon Secretary Cortelyou at his rooms at the Manhattan. While an official statement was in the course of preparation, Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank, came down from Mr. Cortelyou's room and summarized the situation as follows:

"The situation has been met, gentlemen. The trust companies are going to come to the aid of the Trust Company of America. In Mr. Morgan's office this afternoon there was a sort of clearing house committee for trust companies appointed. That committee made a thorough examination of the books of the Trust Company of America and found that their securities were good and ample. This decision in connection with what Mr. Cortelyou has to say will absolutely assure ample cash coming into New York banks and clear the situation."

Banks and Trust Companies United.

Mr. Vanderlip subsequently reiterated his statement with greater emphasis. The trust companies would pour in money, he said, until the run which started today on the Trust Company of America had stopped, and Secretary Cortelyou would aid in any manner the banks assisting the trust company.

This was the first time, he said, that there had ever been united action on the part of the trust companies of this city, but they were together now for business. Both the old line companies and those of the later development had met and agreed. The Knickerbocker Trust company, whose directors gave up hope today, was not mentioned at the meeting, Mr. Vanderlip said.

The Trust company of America, President Oakleigh Thorne said, will open for business tomorrow with resources sufficient to meet any emergency.

Cortelyou Issues Statement.

It was midnight when the big conference finally ended and Secretary Cortelyou issued his statement, which follows:

"Those familiar with the facts have known that the situation was made serious largely because of the circulation of unfounded rumors and the unreasoning anxiety of many who thought only of the moment. To pass safely through such a day as this, one of most unnecessary excitement, as it has been, is the best evidence of strength and support on the part of those who have undertaken the difficult task of reëstablishing public credit.

"Wherever there is weakness, and it has been in but a comparatively few instances, strong and able men are rendering aid, and in behalf of the treasury department I may say that I believe it my duty to do, and I shall do, in the largest way possible whatever may be necessary to afford relief.

"If the press of the city will continue its coöperation and if the public on its part will reflect upon the natural strength of our banking institutions there will be a prompt return of the confidence which their condition warrants. As evidence of the treasury position, I have directed deposits in this city to the extent of $25,000,000."

Crisis Over, Secretary Believes.

It is the belief of Secretary Cortelyou that the crisis of the situation passed with today. The secretary felt much more strongly tonight than he did the preceding night that the worst was over and that tomorrow would see better conditions. The secretary is convinced that a panic has been averted.

It is authoritatively stated that the $25,000,000 of treasury money which will be deposited in New York banks is to relieve the general situation. The distribution of this money is in the hands of the banks, and out of the hands of the secretary, he having, of course, received collateral to secure the amount.

It is understood, however, that a considerable proportion of the $25,000,000 will be turned over by the banks receiving it for the relief of the trust companies.

Cortelyou's Hand on Throttle.

Altogether this probably was the most strenuous day which the financial community of New York has experienced in many a year.

Secretary Cortelyou remained in the subtreasury from long before the opening of the banks until long after the close. He had no conferences throughout the day, but kept in close touch with the situation through bankers who called upon him and otherwise gave assistance to the amount, it was estimated, of about $7,000,000. This money was placed in national banks for one specific purpose, and the banks held it in support of the Trust Company of America or turned it over to that institution.

The secretary did not concern himself with the stock market operations, the scarcity of money on stock exchange loans, or the condition of the general money market. Apparently his work was directed effectively toward "assisting in every proper way legitimate business interests," to quote the language of his statement the night before.

Across the street from the subtreasury, at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., arrangements were made for putting into effect the agreement made the night before to support the Trust Company of America in case that institution, on examination, was found solvent. These arrangements were carried out through the two principal banks of the so-called Morgan interests and the two principal banks commonly associated with the Standard Oil interests—the First National and Chase National of the Morgan group, and the National City and Hanover National of the other.

Market Raiders Are Warned.

Out of the conference in the Morgan offices early in the day, it was reported, there was sent to prominent stock market operators and brokers fair notice that the day was no day for bear raids or speculative operations for a decline. The work of solving the perplexities of the situation must not, it was well understood, be made more difficult by ruthless attacks upon prices.

The most important conference of the day in Mr. Morgan's office was held immediately after the close of banking hours. There were present a large number of the most prominent bankers of the city. The conferees remained together until after 6 o'clock. The work of the conference was presented in the following statement:

After discussing the situation it was decided that a committee of five should be appointed similar in its character to the clearing house committee of the banks, to which application for assistance from trust companies may be referred, and that this committee should have power to call for information from the various trust companies and to report to meetings of the presidents to be held from time to time or at a fixed time, which might hereafter be agreed upon, the result of any investigation accompanied by advice as to what had better be done in the matter.

The personnel of the committee is a guaranty of ultra-conservatism, including as it does the few old line companies which have steadfastly opposed the methods of the trust companies of later growth. The committee, it is presumed, will coöperate with the clearing house committee, and on the formal perfection of the organization will have much the same powers. Not only as an alleviant for the present situation, bankers were agreed, but as a permanent measure of reform the organization of the committee was one of the healthiest developments of the day.

Trust Company Stands Hard Run.

Every minute of the time these conferences were in progress the Trust Company of America was standing up under the heaviest run experienced by any bank in New York in years.

The company was attacked in the front, rear, and on both flanks. To have seen the crowd in front of the main office at 37 Wall street, or at the Colonial branch, at the southeast corner of Ann street and Broadway, one might almost have imagined that about all the persons in New York having money on deposit were depositors of the Trust Company of America. Depositors began to form lines at the doors at 37 Wall street and at the Colonial Trust company, in the St. Paul building, Broadway and Ann streets, at 9 o'clock in the morning. Before the opening of the doors the lines and the attracted crowds had so grown in size that police were sent to keep the sidewalks clear enough for normal traffic.

Tellers Pay Till After 3.

About the only people who made any real profit from the day were messenger boys or unemployed men who foresaw what was coming and got places in the line early in the morning on speculation. Ten dollars was several times paid for a place for an anxious depositor. Of course, as the day went on and 3 o'clock got closer and closer, the price went up, and not long after 1 o'clock a messenger boy sold his place, about twenty feet outside the main entrance, for $30.

The outside doors were closed at 2:30 o'clock, because it was plain that there was not time before closing hours for anybody still in the street to get to the tellers' windows. At that time there were about 100 people outside the main door.

After 3 o'clock the paying tellers still kept handing out cash, though payment could have been stopped promptly at that hour had the company's officers so willed it. As it was, they kept pouring out cash until 3:08. At that moment the paying tellers shut the windows.

$12,000,000 Paid to Depositors.

The run had been anticipated and here is the story of one of the trust company's directors as to the preparations made to meet it:

"We knew when we went to bed last night, almost as sure as shootin' there'd be a run on the company in the morning. We knew that we had between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 that was payable to depositors on demand. We knew that we had a little over $12,000,000 to begin business with in the morning. We concluded that $12,000,000 would hold 'em for awhile.

"It had been arranged before we went to bed on Tuesday night that Mr. Morgan and his associates should send their expert accountants to look over our books early this morning. And those expert accountants were on the job a-plenty early to suit me. They began at our books, in the main office of the Colonial branch at 6 o'clock this morning and they made a preliminary report at 11. Neither Mr. Morgan nor any of his associates has told me what kind of a report the experts made, but I am informed that we were tried in a mighty delicate balance and were not found wanting. In other words, I am told that Mr. Morgan and his associates were satisfied with the report of the experts.

"The last depositor to be paid this afternoon got her money at just 3:08 p. m. Up to that time we had paid out close to the $12,000,000 with which we started business in the morning. If the run continues tomorrow we shall require about $15,000,000, and when that $15,000,000 has been paid out every man, woman, and child who has any money in the Trust Company of America payable on demand, will have been settled with."

It was learned that all but a small part of the collateral of the Trust Company of America had been approved by those who had examined it.

Lincoln Trust Has a Flurry.

Heavy withdrawing of deposits which could not at any time be dignified with the name of "run," maked the afternoon's business at the Lincoln Trust company's main office, 208 Fifth avenue. There has never been any question raised as to the solvency of the institution nor, so far as can be learned, as to the conservatism of its management. The president of the Lincoln Trust is Frank Tilford, practically sole owner of Park & Tilford, and in the directorate are names well known to the business world.

The institution, so far as is known, has never had any connection with the speculative crowd. The only reason that officials of the bank could ascribe for the uneasiness of depositors was the fact that the main offices are at Twenty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, while the headquarters of the Knickerbocker Trust company are only eight blocks farther up the avenue.

The morning's business was not particularly heavy until well toward noon, when indications were that the published reports of the run on the Trust Company of America were making depositors uneasy. The officers immediately called loans to the amount of about $2,000,000 and sent down to the First National bank, which clears for the Lincoln Trust, for $500,000 help until the loans could be called in.

Knickerbocker Gives Up Hope.

The directors of the Knickerbocker Trust company have given up hope of being able to resume payments, and the attorney general will probably apply for a receiver tomorrow morning. The only thing that prevented this action today was the difficulty of selecting a thoroughly competent man to handle the millions of assets. It is understood that the attorney general consented to recommend to the court any man suggested by the Knickerbocker directors, provided he is satisfied of his competency.

The state banking department refused today to discuss the quality of the Knickerbocker's investments and the big list of loans which it was carrying. From other sources, however, it was learned that among the assets of the company are $25,000,000 of underwritings, upon which the company has advanced $20,000,000. These underwritings include all sorts of enterprises and are largely for undertakings in which Charles T. Barney was interested in one way or another, notably real estate propositions. They include also some of the Barney enterprises in Cuba.

Loans Good, Directors Say.

Directors and officers of the company insisted today that all of the loans or underwritings for companies with which Mr. Barney's name had been connected were good and would pan out for full value.

Acting Superintendent Skinner, upon assuming charge of the Knickerbocker's offices, sent out this statement:

"Under the advice of the attorney general I have taken possession of the Knickerbocker Trust company and its branch offices. The support to this institution which was expected yesterday has not been furnished. A bank examiner is in charge of each office. Payments will be received on obligations due to the trust company, but no payments will be made by the examiner in charge. Payments should be made in cash. Collateral will not be surrendered until it is shown that it is not pledged for other indebtedness to the institution."

WESTERN BANKS ON A SOUND BASIS.

Chicago Loans Are on Tangible Assets, Not Stock Exchange Values.

FLURRY NOT FELT HERE.

Clearing House Examiners Stop Any Possible Infraction of Conservatism.

Continued investments in tangible assets, as opposed to the inflated variety, and precautionary measures of the Chicago Clearing House association have saved the western financial world from so much as a tremor because of the eastern upheaval.

Daily reports from bank examiners whose duty it is to ferret out any weak places in the local financial structure have convinced members of the clearing house committee that there not only is no cause to worry because of the local situation, but, on the contrary, much cause for satisfaction.

Another important factor in the situation is the widespread distribution of stocks among the smaller investors—an indication that farmers are placing their wealth in securities of the safer kind. Farmers also are borrowing money from local banks, using the money in increasing their producing ability.

One bank has $7,000,000 invested in the cotton crops. The same institution has large sums of money loaned to cattle raisers. Other banks have equally large sums out, secured by similar "tangible" property.

Optimism All Over the Country.

There is not the slightest sign of trouble in any of the large cities of the country outside New York and Pittsburg. Telegraphic reports to The Tribune last night from all the centers of importance reported the financial institutions as perfectly sound and in no way involved in the Wall street situation. Conservative business methods, apparently, have been the rule all over the country, and the wisdom of this policy has been demonstrated in the most gratifying manner. Bountiful crops and plenty of money for loaning purposes to move them generally are reported, and a spirit of optimism pervades all the reports.

Why Chicago Banks Are Solid.

Chicago financiers in close touch with the situation summarize the matter in the following reasons for the security of local banks:

Chicago banks have not been and are not speculating in real estate. Any money put into real estate is on safe loans, which will more than pay out on short notice.

There is no stock or grain speculation of the sort that is held responsible for the troubles in New York.

Western farmers and manufacturers are wealthy beyond the dreams of this class of workers ten years ago. Their wealth is of the real tangible sort that cannot be affected by a stock flurry, and it is in this wealth that the interests of Chicago banks are centered.

A corps of special bank examiners employed by the Chicago Clearing House association keeps the association's committee informed of possible irregularities in the city's banks at their inception. Thus, no costly deception could long continue in any bank.

Clearing House Examiners.

The most important of the safeguards under which Chicago banks are operating, as well as the most recently installed, is the bank examiners who work under the clearing house committee. This makes it possible for the clearing house, independent of state or national bank examiners, to know at all times just what the standing of each bank in the city is.

It was at the time of the Walsh failures, less than two years ago, that the necessity for some such check was seen by the banking association, and the corps of examiners was agreed upon almost immediately. The plan has been in operation ever since.

Another feature of the situation which is not overlooked by financiers is the great increase, especially within the last two years, in the number of stockholders of the big western corporations. The stock lists of some of the most important of these corporations have grown to twice their former proportions because of the distribution of stock among the smaller investors.

This change, to a great extent, is laid to the increasing wealth and importance of western farmers and small business men. The big stock speculators, it would appear, are being forced out by the industrious farmers and manufacturers. The stockholders of one of the Hill railroads have increased in number by 100 per cent in little more than a year.

Small Investors Buying.

Statements of Chicago brokers indicate that many of the small investors have seized upon the present depreciation in stocks as a favorable time for buying securities in which they have faith. Many of the local firms are flooded with orders of this sort. Incidentally, they expect this will have a quieting effect upon the superheated brain of the eastern buying public.

Chicago's stronghold, according to local bankers, is in the produce of the soil and in necessary manufactures, such as shoes, clothing, and food products. These staple products, they say, will not and cannot be affected to any marked degree by the most serious financial storms.

James B. Forgan, president of the First National bank as well as of the Chicago Clearing House association, was firm in his faith in Chicago financial institutions. The difference between the Chicago and New York investments is such, he said, that there can be little comparison between them.

Chicago Loans on Tangible Assets.

"Men who borrow money from Chicago banks use it for increasing their products," said Mr. Forgan. "They put it in tangible investments that are sure to make good returns on the money. For this reason the strength of local banks is growing.

"This is different from the foundation upon which the New York banks stand. They depend, to a great extent, upon stock values. When these stocks drop, as they just have done, the banks cannot but feel the effect of such a depreciation in values.

"But there is another reason for the strength of Chicago banks. Each bank has in its vaults at all times 25 per cent of its deposits. This bank, for instance, has deposits which, in round numbers, amount to $100,000,000, and it keeps in reserve $25,000,000. This amount of money is locked up in its vaults at all times.

"Besides this we have another reserve in outside banks which amounts to 15 per cent of the entire deposits. Thus, we have a reserve which amounts to 40 per cent—a feature which New York banks do not have."

"What of the operations of the Clearing House association's bank examiners? Are they keeping the association in close touch with the local situation?"

"They are working and making reports every day. These reports are another cause for the general feeling of security," said Mr. Forgan. "In short, I may say that there is no cause for alarm and, on the contrary, much cause for satisfaction."

Producers of Wealth Prosperous.

Other bankers shared the opinions of Mr. Forgan. They all were of the opinion that the high prices of grains and food and clothing necessities all were making for the general prosperity of the producers of wealth.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental National bank, also a member of the Chicago clearing house committee, said that there was not the slightest indication that confidence—that subtle something so necessary in the business world—had been shaken in the west because of the New York conditions.

"If you drop a pebble into a pond the ripples will extend to the farthest banks of the body of water," said Mr. Reynolds. "If you watch the ripples closely, however, you will notice that they become invisible a short distance from the spot in which the pebble fell.

"It is just so with the present financial situation. The pebble that has caused the New York trouble has made the ripples fly, but they disappeared before they reached Chicago. I do not believe that any effect of the eastern commotion has been felt here at all. At any rate, there is no conceivable reason why there should be any lack of confidence in Chicago.

Local Banks Well Secured.

"When the fact is taken into consideration that local banks are loaning their money to manufacturers, stockmen, and producers it is plain why we have no cause for worry. I will say, for instance, that this bank has large sums of money loaned on the cotton crop. This is a staple investment and there is no chance for reverses that would impair the value of the security.

"There are many jobbers, such as shoe houses, clothing houses, and other such firms, who find it necessary to borrow money at this time of the year to carry on their business. This money, of course, is borrowed from local banks and is on ample security. Besides these people there are a large number of western cattle raisers who make a practice of borrowing money to feed their stock during the winter. This amounts to no small item in the business of Chicago banks.

"All of these loans are of the conservative sort that are not touched by passing squalls. Together they furnish the most important reason for the soundness of local institutions."

"This flurry is getting to be a stale topic of conversation," said John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank and a member of the clearing house committee. "The subject is almost too shoppy for discussion. Locally we have not been touched or even singed. Confidence and security are everywhere in evidence. I do not believe that we ever were in better condition.

"The secret of the situation is that we have no promoting schemes here. Ours is the solid business variety of investments, and there is no occasion for worry about them."

Situation Well in Hand.

C. L. Hutchinson, vice president of the Corn Exchange National bank, said:

"I believe that the eastern situation is well in hand, and it appears they have done everything to guard against serious trouble. No matter what happens there, however, there is no fear for Chicago or the west. Our business here is too far removed from the Wall street investments."

"If we are to judge the prosperity of the country from the conditions in the middle west there is no need for alarm," said Orson Smith, president of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company. "Chicago is strong and tranquil as ever."

Far from any possible evil results of the present flurry, the local bankers predicted that the city's financial institutions would profit by troubles of the eastern dealers in "inflated" values. It is predicted that the conservative nature of the city's business will be seen and understood by western banking institutions and corporations, with the result that Chicago will receive deposits which it might otherwise never have been given.

No Wall Street Here.

Frederick H. Rawson, president of the Union Trust company, expressed the conviction that the Wall street panic will pass without affecting Chicago credit in the slightest degree.

"There has not been the slightest indication of alarm over the situation anywhere in Chicago today," he said. "It simply shows what has long been an established fact—that Chicago banks don't go in for speculation. That's the reason Chicago banks are not affected by the ups and downs of the stock market. Chicago credit is as solid as ever—there is no Wall street in Chicago."

MORE HOPEFUL AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—In spite of the run today on New York trust companies and the suspension of the Security Investment company, which handles Westinghouse interests, the treasury department takes tonight a more hopeful view of the financial situation than it did yesterday. President Roosevelt, who arrived in Washington late this afternoon, was in telephonic communication tonight with Secretary Cortelyou, and also talked with some of his callers in regard to the condition of the money market. He unreservedly has approved of the measures taken by the secretary of the treasury and proposes to support him in his policy.

The basis of the confidence felt by administration officials tonight rests upon reports received from all over the country as to the condition of the national banks and industrial establishments generally. Controller of the Currency Ridgely telephoned today to all cities within reach of Washington and ascertained the exact situation of the banking interests in each. The result is highly satisfactory. This information was communicated to Secretary Cortelyou and by him to financiers in New York who are coöperating to prevent further trouble.

Prosecutions in Prospect.

In the statement he gave out today Mr. Ridgely said the trouble is limited to a few concerns, which were discredited by operations of their officers. Just who these officers are the controller declines to say. There is a possibility that they may be prosecuted if it should be discovered that they have violated the national banking laws. It is doubtful, however, if they can be reached by the government because the concerns Mr. Ridgely has in mind are not responsible to the national authorities. The facts undoubtedly are known to Gov. Hughes, and it is presumed that he will not fail to act with a view to the punishment of the men who have conducted the affairs of public institutions in a way to benefit themselves and injure their depositors.

BANKS OF COUNTRY UNSHAKEN.

Reports from the leading cities of the country are of uniformly favorable tenor, the banks are unshaken by the New York financial situation, and the feeling as to the future is one of confidence.

New England reported conditions about as before the collapse of the Heinze copper corner and the changes in the official heads of several New York banks. In Boston rates between banks remained at 5 per cent.

Philadelphia financial institutions are not affected, according to their officials, who say no alarm is felt in any quarter. It is learned from a clearing house official there that Quaker city banks will do all they can to aid legitimate business propositions, but are not prepared to aid speculation.

Ohio Never in Better Shape.

Ohio is looking ahead with serenity. Cleveland bankers say that the banks there never were in better shape than now, and Cincinnati comes forward with a statement that the fifteen national banks there have a surplus of $14,000,000.

Indiana banks are able to supply the legitimate wants of their customers. Because of the general stringency rates of interest have advanced, but no apprehension of trouble is felt at Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute, Evansville, or other cities of size.

News from St. Louis is to the effect that heads of financial concerns there are so little concerned over the future that they are daily going out to see the balloon and airship races. "There is not a cloud on the local financial horizon," says Kansas City.

"Sound" is the keynote of the situation in Milwaukee. "To be concise," said Fred Vogel Jr., president of the First National bank, "the Milwaukee banks carry a large reserve at the present time and are in a position to meet almost any emergency which may concern them. I look for a big improvement in all the banks in the course of thirty days." La Crosse and Superior report no stringency and a large surplus.

Minneapolis sends the good word that conditions are "firm and stable" there. The remainder of Minnesota and the Dakotas say "we are in fine shape."

Dixie Is Not Gloomy.

There is no gloom over the prospects of the morrow in the south. Atlanta says bank withdrawals are nowhere above normal. New Orleans sees no special significance in the situation beyond a drop of $1 a bale in cotton, and Memphis is ready to meet any emergency that may arise.

The Rocky mountain states give no sign of any disturbance. Denver chortles gleefully: "The crops of Colorado are being moved with Colorado money, and the national banks of this city keep their reserve above 50 per cent."

San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Portland are "standing pat," according to dispatches, and say they are in condition to lend money to the east if needed.

LONDON BANKERS ARE REASSURED.

Times Correspondent Cables New York Situation Is Well in Hand.

CHICAGO'S POWER SHOWN

Message Sent from This City Declares Conditions Here Are Perfect.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 24, 3 a. m.—The Times prints the following under a Chicago date line, it being sent by one of its financial editors, who is now in that city:

When I left New York Monday confidence in financial circles apparently had been restored. Information here from inside sources this afternoon indicates the situation is well in hand and prominent and conservative bankers, members of the Clearing House association of New York, are telegraphing bankers here to this effect.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, which has deposits of nearly $100,000,000, in discussing the situation, said:

"Chicago banks at the present time are not affected. There is no lack of cash for legitimate purposes and no promotion of trusts here or in the west generally. The Chicago banking business is mainly confined to money loaned on grain, provisions, or substantial collateral securities. Hence we apprehend no trouble except that New York, being the financial center of the country, such a disturbance makes other banking centers watchful.

Western Cities Not Alarmed.

"This appears to be the situation here at this time. Other cities in the west, except Pittsburg, are not alarmed. St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha, and Denver today report conditions good. This is equally true of Tacoma, Seattle, and San Francisco. The time is past when 'a cyclone in Wall street' could mar the financial fabric of their section."

The closing of the Pittsburg stock exchange and the temporary receivership for the Westinghouse Electric company are due to the fact that the Westinghouse is largely a local concern, needing a great deal of money to conduct and extend its business. The condition of the security investment company in no way affects the Union Switch and Signal company or Westinghouse Air Brake company.

The general belief is the action of the clearing house committee is wise, and the effect will be beneficial throughout the country. What may develop tomorrow, where so much manipulation and unexpected development are always possible, I don't know, but at this writing the opinion of the entire west is that New York's and Pittsburg's troubles are largely local and readily will be brought under control by the great conservative banking interests east with the prompt assistance of Secretary Cortelyou.

One eminent New York financier has just answered an important offer of assistance with: "Not necessary. Situation well in hand."

Buying of stocks for investment is reported strong throughout the west. Orders heavy here.

Telegraph Blames President.

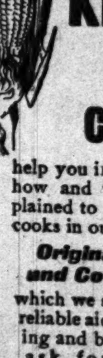

The Daily Telegraph, discussing the circumstances which led to the present financial crisis in America, says: "Among the other special causes which helped to shatter confidence in the United States must be included the president's anti-trust speeches.

"Mr. Roosevelt's object is beyond reproach. He desires to strike at the guilty and dishonest in high places, at those who break the laws on a colossal scale and wield power antagonistic to the highest interests of the state.

"But is it absolutely necessary that the sky should be dragged down in order to catch the few larks which Mr. Roosevelt is bent upon netting? Could not the guilty parties be brought to book without involving scores of thousands of investors in their punishment? A criminal prosecution or two, if the laws have been broken, with imprisonment as the penalty, would not have caused the panicky feeling that has been aroused by the president's repeated oratorical onslaughts.

"He told his audience at Nashville that all he had done was to turn on the light, and protested that he was not responsible for what the light disclosed. Others may prefer to say that he has been looking for a pronounced escape of gas with a naked light. The violence of the explosion is beyond dispute, and the innocent will suffer, we fear, much more seriously than the guilty relatively to their means and what they can afford."

WALL ST. HUNTS IN VAIN FOR CASH

Not Since Jay Cooke Panic Has Money Been So Scarce or Rates So High.

GRAB IT AT 125 PER CENT.

Brokers, Driven Desperate by Stringency, Willing to Pay 1,000 Per Cent for Loans.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Not since the famous panic of 1873, precipitated by the failure of Jay Cooke, when the stock exchange suspended for a week, has money been as scarce in Wall street as it was today.

Brokers discussed this all but unprecedented situation excitedly and nervously after the close of the market. There were brokers, some of them members of the oldest and best known houses of the street, who were unable to secure money on stock exchange collateral at any price. The situation, it was agreed, must be relieved in the first hour of business tomorrow to prevent the failure of a large number of stock exchange houses.

The demand for money on the part of brokers was all the more urgent today for the reason that most of those with outstanding contracts covered their shorts on the preceding day in the crash in prices.

Rate Soars to 125 Per Cent.

There was no time money market whatever, either for loans secured by stock exchange collateral or for loans on commercial paper. For call loans there was practically no market in the last hour of the stock exchange trading. The last loan of the day was made at the extraordinary high rate of 125 per cent, and according to the most conservative estimates the market closed with an urgent and unsatisfied demand for loans aggregating $5,000,000.

At various intervals in the morning Kuhn, Loeb & Co. put out money in $50,000 lots at rates ranging between 40 and 70 per cent. This house loaned altogether, it is estimated, not more than $250,000. The City bank came in subsequently with lots of $50,000, which, according to its custom, it loaned at 6 per cent, and put out an aggregate of probably $2,000,000. The First National, as on the previous day, made by far the largest loans, an instance recalling the fact that this bank showed the largest reserve in the bank statement last week. The First National loaned $5,000,000 at an average of about 50 per cent.

In the last hour of the session the loan crowd was the most excited on the floor of the exchange. In the first few minutes of this hour there were a few small offerings of money. Never, so loan brokers said, have they seen such frantic struggles to get near the bidder and such a tremendous babel of voices as one broker after another tried to secure portions of the offerings. A few minutes after 2 even the scanty offerings ceased, and from that time until just before the close there was the singular condition of an active and fairly strong stock market and no loan market at all.

Lenders Could Get 1,000 Per Cent.

In the last few minutes the Bank of Montreal sent a broker with an offer of $20,000 into the loan crowd. He offered it at 125 per cent, and he was all but torn apart by brokers anxious to take the offer. The Bank of Montreal could as easily have secured 1,000 per cent for its money as the 125 per cent it got. The 125 per cent rate, the high rate for actual business, was the highest since the December crisis of 1899, when 180 per cent was charged for one loan. That was the time of the Boer war slump and the flurry lasted for only one day.

The time money rates were quoted today, but the quotations represented just as much actual business as the transactions in copper on the metal exchange, and no more. The market was entirely nominal.

A banker said tonight that one of the callers at the subtreasury was a man who had been trying to borrow $100,000 on $800,000 of city bonds. He could not do it, and went to the subtreasury to see if he could get an idea of relief measures.

Exciting Day in Exchange.

Most of the early trading on the stock exchange was on a parity with closing prices on Tuesday or at slight concessions from those prices. The market plainly showed the effects of the heavy crash the preceding day, and there was more or less demoralization in evidence. Nevertheless the market held fairly well and seemed much more substantial than on Tuesday.

A degeneration into the half panicky conditions of the preceding day followed the announcement of the Westinghouse failures. The stock of the Westinghouse Manufacturing company, which up to recently has been considered a high class industrial investment security, led the decline naturally enough, on the announcement of the failure the stock broke on two occasions ten points between sales. There were transactions in 32,700 shares. The low price of the day was 34½ and the closing 35, the latter figure showing a net loss of 44½ points on the day.

General Electric was sold by some holders as no better grounds presumably than that General Electric is a kindred industrial. At the low point of the day this stock showed a loss of seventeen points. It later rallied to 99, a net loss of ten points.

List Breaks with Westinghouse.

The entire list broke with the break in Westinghouse. Again new low records for the year were scored all across the board. Only in the steels was there at this time a pronounced resistance to the selling movement. Both the common and the preferred declined, but a comparison with other issues they held up firmly. Apparently they were receiving support from banking interests, and presently it began to be noted that other issues, particularly the Harriman's and the standard railroad stocks were making a gradually better showing.

Delaware and Hudson, which lost 6¼ points on the day, was a conspicuous exception to the recoveries in the old line railroad stocks. Since the failure on the previous day of the brokerage firm of Marcus Mayer & Co. was attributed to a too long account in that stock the decline in Delaware and Hudson was associated with the failure. It sold way down to 156, the lowest price in many years, and closed with a net loss of 6¼ points.

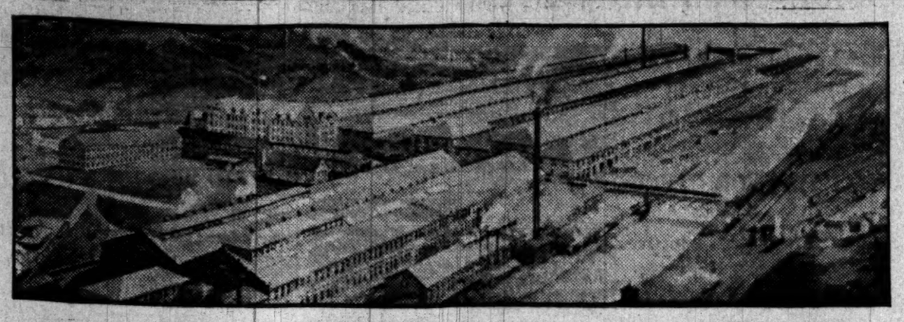

As in the late afternoon it was seen that the Trust Company of America was holding up strongly, and as no more brokerage failures were announced and there was no recurrence of rumors of troubles in banking circles there was a marked increase in confidence, and toward the close a rally set in which carried prices well above the low of the day.

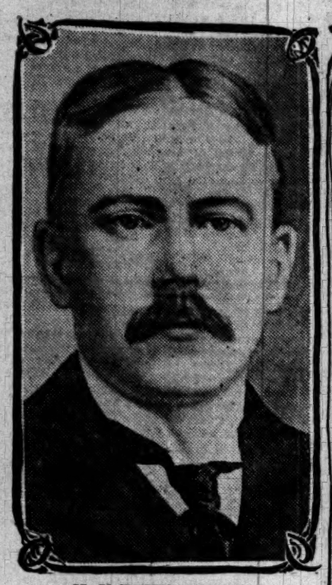

Safe Deposit Vaults as Banks.

A fact significant of the general uneasiness was brought out tonight when the statement was made that 300 safe deposit boxes had been rented during the day in the Lincoln Safe Deposit company's vaults, underneath the Lincoln Trust company. It appeared that depositors, not only of the Lincoln Trust but of other banks and trust companies, were withdrawing their money from those institutions and placing it in vaults. Which means, of course, that just so much money is withdrawn from circulation and put where it can extend no help in relieving the present money tension. It is impossible to learn anything as to the amount of money thus tucked away.

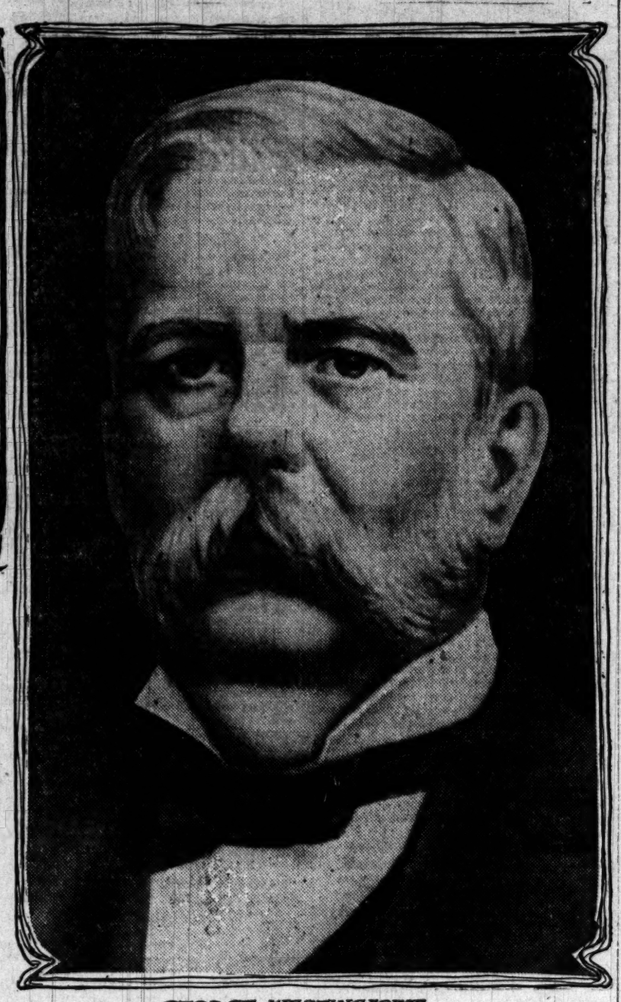

Mr. Cortelyou was much amused at an odd happening of the day. A man who had been one of the first to withdraw his money from the Knickerbocker Trust company on the opening day came into the subtreasury with $30,000 in government bonds. He explained that he had taken his money out of the Knickerbocker and invested it at once in government bonds. He then went home, read some of the headlines in the papers, and came to the conclusion that perhaps not even government bonds were good. He presented them at the subtreasury, apparently much alarmed, for inspection, and had to be assured that there was every likelihood of the government's paying the bonds when due and the interest meanwhile.

CELL LOOMS BEFORE COOKE

Supreme Court Said to Have Affirmed Prison Sentence.

DECISION EXPECTED TODAY.

Former Circuit Court Clerk Must Serve from One to Five Years.

Reports from Springfield last night indicated that the Supreme court had affirmed the conviction of John A. Cooke, former clerk of the Circuit court, who was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud Cook county and sentenced to Joliet over a year ago.

The court adjourned last night, and today several decisions will be made public, the Cooke case being one of these, it is said. Should the report prove true, the former officeholder will be taken in custody and sent to Joliet to serve a sentence of from one to five years and to pay a fine of $2,000.

More than a year ago Cooke was convicted by a jury in Judge Ben M. Smith's court, and received the maximum penalty for conspiracy to defraud the county. Since that time he has been out on $30,000 bonds while the Appellate and Supreme courts have been reviewing the finding of the lower court. The affirmation of the decision by the Supreme court will mean that Mr. Cooke will join his former colleague, John A. Linn, former clerk of the Superior court, who was convicted on a similar charge.

Involved in Linn Inquiry.

Mr. Cooke was elected clerk of the Circuit court in 1897 and served continuously until 1903. After the investigation of Mr. Linn's affairs, which resulted in his conviction, the investigation extended to Mr. Cooke's office, to which Mr. Linn had succeeded. Proof of payroll padding and other grafting which netted Cooke over $23,000 were found, and he was indicted on thirty-one counts charging him with forgery, conspiracy, embezzlement of public funds, and withholding public records.

Unlike Mr. Linn, Cooke refused to plead guilty and stood trial. Most of the evidence against him was furnished by Charles Bradley, for many years chief clerk of the court, who turned state's evidence. That the grafting had continued for years was the statement of Bradley.

Charges of Attempted Bribery.

Immediately following the trial a second scandal cropped out when it was charged that efforts had been made to bribe the jurors in the Cooke case. Stephen Crowe, brother of the famous Pat Crowe, who at that time was proprietor of the Revere house, where the jurors lived during the trial, was indicted but acquitted.

Cooke was for years prominent among the republican politicians on the southwest side. He lives at 769 Halsted street. Since his conviction Mr. Cooke has been said to be in poor health, and it is probable that an effort will be made to parole him after he has served the minimum of his sentence, should the Supreme court refuse him the new trial.

LOSES BY STRIKE, SO ASSIGNS.

Johnson Express Company Voluntarily Retires from Business for Benefit of 500 Creditors.

The Johnson Express company filed a voluntary assignment of its property in the County court. The assignment is made for the benefit of the company's creditors, of whom there are more than 500. The last teamsters' strike and the increased cost of labor and supplies are given as causes for the company's action. The company is said to have lost $35,000 as a result of the strike. The condition of the money market is also considered a factor. The liabilities are $69,178 and the assets $80,406.

CITY FARM AS SITE FOR HOME.

Judge Tuthill's Suggestion as to Boys' Institution Pleases South Chicago Woman's Club.

Addressing the South Chicago Woman's club at Bessemer hall last evening, Judge Tuthill urged the advisability of the city's turning over the Gage farm, which it owns, as a site for a home for delinquent boys. The farm, which is near Riverside, comprises 300 acres. Judge Tuthill said he would bring the project before the city council. The club adopted resolutions favoring it.

GEN. BOOTH WEAK, BUT LEAVES.

Salvation Army Chief Expects to Finish Eastern Trip Despite His Recent Illness.

Gen. William Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, left Chicago for Columbus, O., at 8:30 o'clock last night, accompanied by his daughter, Commander Eva Booth, and his staff. He was weakened by his recent illness, but said he thought he would be able to get through his eastern trip all right. Gen. Booth arrives in New York Nov. 9 and sails for England a few days later.

TYPHOID FEVER PATIENTS VICTIMS OF IMPURE MILK.

Dr. W. A. Evans Says Analysis Shows Half as Many Bacteria as Bubbly Creek at Its Worst Ever Had.

"The milk drunk by those who have had typhoid fever in Chicago during the last year has been found to contain nearly half as many bacteria as the water of Bubbly creek at its worst—and five times as much as the water of Bubbly creek at its best."

Health Commissioner W. A. Evans made this comment on Chicago's milk supply—one part of it—at the meeting of the Settlement House Woman's club yesterday afternoon at 788 Armitage avenue.

"My advice to you," Dr. Evans continued, "is this: Feed no raw milk to your babies during the next ten years in the city of Chicago, unless you pay at least 12 cents a quart for it. My advice to you is not to stop using milk. Cook it."

The health commissioner explained that in every case of death from typhoid fever during the last year examination of the milk supply used by the victim had been made. On an average, the milk has been found to contain 10,000,000 bacteria a cubic centimeter.

"From the standpoint of the adult," said Dr. Evans, "the Chicago milk supply is practically as good as it need be, but my belief is that it will be many years before the safety of the milk supply for infants will be assured."

LONG WAIT FOR TRIAL A CRIME.

Judge Pettit Denounces Practice of Holding Accused Persons in Jail for Months.

"If I were in your place I would go before a judge in the Criminal court and demand an immediate trial for my client under the constitution of the state of Illinois.

"It is a crime for any accused person to have to lie in jail several months, as this woman will have to do, before the case can be given a trial."

This was the advice given by Judge Pettit to Attorney Henry M. Shabad, whose colored client, Eva Palmer, 1834 Dearborn street, was held to the Criminal court yesterday for purchasing stolen property.

WITNESS TURNS UP; BUT DRUNK

Court Has to Adjourn Murder Trial Until Man Sobers Up Sufficiently to Testify.

One of the two missing witnesses in the case of the four men accused of murdering Henry Morris, 52 Shoito street, appeared in Judge Kersten's court yesterday afternoon in an intoxicated condition and unable to testify. In spite of the protests of the attorneys for the defense, Robert H. McCormick, the volunteer state's attorney, obtained a continuance until Friday so the witness could testify. The witness was Joseph Chenard, a boarder in the Morris home at the time of the murder.

PARRY WINS WIFE BY PROWESS.

Engagement of One Time Star Athlete of Chicago University to Former Coed Announced.

When Edward Parry was winning victory for the University of Chicago on the football field, he was winning also the heart of a coed whom next spring he will make his wife. The announcement of his engagement to Miss Maud Roberts, 1688 Buckingham place, a former student at the university, was made yesterday.

IMPORTANT CHANGE OF TIME ON THE LAKE SHORE RAILWAY.

The Lake Shore Limited, leaving at 5:30 p. m., will discontinue stopping at 31st-st.

GIVE CHRISTMAS SAVINGS FOR A STRICKEN FAMILY.

Little Irving Olson and Sister Margaret Hand Police Fifty Cents for Relief of the Rickerts.

The story of the stricken family of Alfred Rickert, laborer, 150 Winnebago avenue, touched more than one heart on the west side last night. Irving Olson, 9 years old, and his 7 year old sister, Margaret, 755 North Irving avenue, were the first to respond to charity's call.

They shyly entered the West North avenue police station in the evening, and, addressing Sergeant Patton, said:

"This is for those poor Rickert children."

They handed the officer a tightly knotted handkerchief. He untied it and out dropped 50 cents, the Christmas savings of the Olson children.

Grace Mumm, 142 Winnebago avenue, and Miss H. Shiffman and Miss N. Shiffman, 3 Upton street, collected $15 from neighbors and sent the money to the Ricketts.

The police had discovered the condition of the Rickert family in the morning. One child was found dead in the parlor, while three others were ill of diphtheria. The father was sick from rheumatism.

FIRST MRS. M'DONALD SUES.

Seeks Dower Right in Estate of Politician and Gambler—No Knowledge of Divorce Action.

Mary C. McDonald, divorced wife of Michael C. McDonald, who died recently, yesterday carried into the courts her fight for a share of McDonald's estate. She also seeks to deprive Dora Barclay McDonald, the second wife, from benefiting by the will of the politician and gambler. The suit is directed against the executors and heirs of McDonald.

Mrs. McDonald seeks to have the divorce granted McDonald on Nov. 29, 1889, set aside, thereby restoring her to the legal standing of being entitled to a dower share of the estate. She avers that she did not learn of such proceedings until recently.

All the testimony given in the divorce suit, Mrs. McDonald says, was fraudulent and the result of a conspiracy.

AGED FARMER FEARS THUGS.

When Night Comes On He Deposits All His Valuables but $1.45 with the Police.

Fearing he might be robbed of his funds, amounting to $158, John Maue, an aged Nebraska farmer left all but $1.45 with the sergeant at the Desplaines street station last evening.

"I've heard of the robbers you have here in Chicago, but they are not going to drag me into an alley and beat me half to death just for the money I have," said he. "They might drag me into the alley, but I reckon I can come back here and get my money all right."

Maue is 79 years old and a veteran of the civil war.

ANTITOXIN STATIONS OPENED.

Secretary of State Board of Health Reports One Hundred and Five Already in Operation.

One hundred and five stations in the 102 counties of the state have been established for the free distribution of antitoxin, according to the report of Dr. J. A. Egan, secretary of the state board of health. One hundred more stations are to be established. The legislature appropriated $15,000 a year for the stations. The report was read at the quarterly meeting held yesterday at the Great Northern hotel. Eighty-seven applicants entered in the quarterly examinations—fifty-seven physicians, twenty-seven midwives, and three osteopaths.

MOVE TO ADVANCE PAY OF TEACHERS.

School Trustees Adopt Resolution Looking to New Year's Present of Increase.

VOTE ON IT UNANIMOUS.

Adult Pupils to Be Admitted Hereafter Only to Ungraded Rooms.

A possible New Year's gift to the teachers in the Chicago public schools, to take the form of a general increase in the salary schedule, was considered last evening by the board of education. In exactly the time that it takes to read a brief resolution and adopt it the project was given unanimous approval and started on its way with a committee of the board to father it.

Just how large an increase is warranted by the school funds now available—or, indeed, whether any increase at all is possible—members of the board refuse to say. The resolution, however, was discussed at some length at the meeting of the finance committee which preceded the board meeting, and came to the board with the committee's approval, which, in the opinion of the few teachers present at the board meeting, means something.

Text of the Resolution.

The resolution was presented by Trustee Modie J. Spiegel, and read as follows:

Whereas, The public has made increased demands upon our teachers in the way of preliminary preparation, continued study, and advanced efficiency;

Resolved, That a committee consisting of the president of the board of education, the chairmen of the three committees of the board, and the superintendent of schools, be appointed to consider and report upon a general readjustment of the salary schedule beginning with the month of January, 1908.

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

"Fraternity Situation" Up.

The board's first diplomatic encounter with the "fraternity situation" came up during the meeting in the request of a "girl's social club" at the Hyde Park High school for the use of a schoolroom on five evenings during the school year. The board took kindly to the new organization, so much so that it expressed its approval by suspending the usual rent for such cases and granting the use of the room practically without cost.

"The principal reports," said Supt. Cooley in his formal recommendation, "that all girls of the senior class are entitled to membership in this club, and that he has welcomed the organization as furnishing some outlet for those activities which hitherto have found vent in sororities and fraternities. In his judgment, such an organization should have a trial."

Trustee White, who has expressed himself as favoring high school fraternities, suggested that the full rate be charged, but Trustee Dawes thought the board could do better than that.

"I understand," he said, "that the removal of the seats from this room will be necessary. I move that the club be required to pay the expense of removing the seats and replacing them, and that no further charge be made."

This motion was carried.

Adult Pupil Question Closed.

The much discussed question of the admission of adult pupils to the schools was given its quietus in the passage of a measure giving the superintendent general authority to admit adult applicants to the elementary schools to ungraded rooms only. This was carried by a vote of 14 to 8, Miss Addams and Trustees Dawes and Garts voting against it.

"In one entire school district," said Miss Addams in explaining her vote, "I have never heard a single complaint in regard to the character or conduct of the adult pupils in the schools."

Trustee Gunderson wanted the whole question laid over until the next meeting of the board for further discussion, but his motion to that effect was lost by a vote of 6 to 10, Mrs. Blaine passing the vote. A question as to the disposal of the adult pupils already admitted was referred to the school management committee.

Committees Appointed.

The following committees of the board were appointed by the president to visit schools and superintend affairs in the various school districts:

First and Second districts—Greifenhagen, Trumbull, and Schneider.

Third and Fourth districts—Mrs. Blaine, Trustee Morron.

Fifth and Seventh districts—Cameron, O'Ryan, and Dawes.

Sixth and Eighth districts—Robinson, Gunderson, and Urion.

Ninth and Fourteenth districts—Miss Addams, Spiegel, and Kohn.

Tenth and Eleventh districts—Garts, Waller, and Guerin.

Twelfth and Thirteenth districts—Limbert, Blackwood, and White.

COURT ASKS PARENTS TO AGREE

Gives Dr. McKinley and Former Wife Until Saturday to Decide on Disposition of Child.

In the case of Dr. J. Frank McKinley and his former wife, Mrs. Maud Cuney Hare, who are contesting for the custody of their child, Judge Barnes yesterday gave the litigants until Saturday to reach some agreement concerning the disposition of the girl.

McKinley denied his wife's charge that he is a negro.

"I was reared on a plantation," he said, "and on the death of my parents was left in the care of colored people, as is the custom of the south."

Press League Reception for Musician.

The Chicago Press league will give a reception this evening to Miss Myrtle Elvyn in the parlors of the Congress hotel. Mrs. Harry S. Armstrong, Mrs. Frederick K. Bowes, Miss Addie Andre, Miss Lillian Shaffner, and Miss Florence King will assist in receiving. Miss Elvyn has recently returned from Berlin, where she won favorable criticism because of her proficiency in music.

PLAN BOYS' CLUB; NEED AID.

Chicago Women's Organization Answers Appeal for Help.

BENEFIT TO WORKING LADS.

Old All Souls' Church to Be Rebuilt if $6,000 Is Raised.

The old All Souls' church building on Oakwood boulevard, opposite the Abraham Lincoln center, is to be transformed into a model home for working boys.

No public announcement of the project has been made, but for several months Judge Julian W. Mack, the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, and others have been working toward the raising of a $6,000 fund. Difficulty in finding contributors led yesterday to an appeal to the philanthropy and reform departments of the Chicago Woman's club for aid in pushing the work. Volunteer committees from the Woman's club will help in the work of raising the fund.

In many ways the home, as it is now planned, will be unique. Although it is designed particularly for boys from Glenwood and similar institutions, who are earning their own living, the home will be neither a charity nor a rescue mission. The boys will pay rent enough to make the home, theoretically at least, self-supporting, and the location of the building, in one of the better residence districts of the city and opposite the Lincoln center, with its gymnasium, reading rooms, and evening classes, will give it something of the character of a luxurious uptown club.

Home for Cultured Boys.

"The club—it really will be a club—is designed for the more cultured boys, who leave such places as Glenwood and have to work their way after they get out," said Miss Mary M. Barteime, who laid the project before the Chicago Woman's club. "I have had any number of them tell me of the horrors of the 10 and 15 cent lodging houses, where they now go. We need something different from the boys' home over in the Hull house district.

"This would be a neighborhood where the boys would have every good influence. I gather that the boys' principal recreation now consists of the cheap shows. I asked one how he spent his Sundays.

"'O, I go to church in the morning sometimes,' he said. 'Then in the afternoon and evening I usually see two shows.'

"'Why, that must be expensive,' I said.

"'O, no,' he explained. 'It doesn't cost more than 10 or 15 cents.'

"Now, that sort of thing is all wrong, for you know what the 5 and 10 cent shows are."

Not a Mere Lodging House.

The plan is to convert the auditorium and vestry rooms of the church into sleeping rooms, and possibly one or two parlors, leaving Lincoln center to furnish the club features of the establishment.

"We don't want to provide for more than thirty if we can help it," said Miss Barteime, "for we don't want the boys to think that this is simply a lodging house. It's to be a home. There will be no sectarian lines whatever."

At the meeting of the philanthropy department the club women were urged to support Supt. Cooley in his fight upon high school fraternities and sororities. No formal action was taken.

BOY BURGLAR TAKEN IN ACT; TWO COMPANIONS ESCAPE.

They Break Window of Pattington Grocery, Intending to Steal Cash from Register—Auto Thefts Confessed.

Three boy burglars attempted to rob the Pattington grocery, North State and Pearson streets, at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

John Curry, 12 years old, 277 Rush street, was arrested by Policeman John Harrison, but his two companions escaped by running north in State street after a brick had been thrown through the grocery window.

When taken to the station Curry admitted that he had been released from the John Worthy school a month ago, where he had been sent after robbing a grocery.

Curry declared that he and the two boys who escaped were the ones who stole automobiles in relays Monday night on the north side and in Evanston. The first machine they took, he said, was that of W. H. Willet, 410 Erie street.

This machine was abandoned for that of Granville W. Browning, 604 Division street. Curry said that after driving north for a short distance he left his companions and went home, while they went on to Evanston, where they stole a car owned by Chancellor L. Jenks, 1217 Ridge avenue.

Curry refused to give the police the names of his companions. He said they broke the window of the grocery with the intention of entering and stealing money from the cash register.

OLD SETTLERS SING AND TALK.

Sons and Daughters of Chicago's Pioneers in Reunion, and Early Residents Relate Stories.

Memorial hall in the Public Library building last evening rang out with old time songs and tales of the Indians. It was the annual gathering of the Sons and Daughters of Pioneers of the city. About 300 attended the reunion. The old settlers gathered at 4 o'clock and related reminiscences and sang until 7 o'clock, when they went out for lunch. Most of them returned for the evening to see stereopticon views of bygone Chicago. The annual election was dispensed with and the present officials were continued.

WOODMEN AT MILITARY BALL.

One Hundredth Battalion, Uniform Rank, Have Reception and Dance at Brooke's Casino.

The 100th battalion, uniform rank, Modern Woodmen of America, last night gave a military ball and reception in Brooke's Casino. Previous to the reception there was a parade through the downtown section. At the hall there were military drills by the various camps, and Lieut. Stratton, who resigned because of moving to Toledo, O., was presented with a silver mounted carving set. Gen. Mitchell and Mrs. W. H. Lennon led the grand march.

Charity Ball for Jewish Home.

Committees were appointed last evening for a charity ball to be held at the Coliseum Dec. 29 for the benefit of the Jewish Old People's home, Ogden and Albany avenues. The ball is to be given by the B. N. Z. society.

LAKE ST. BUILDING SWEPT BY FLAMES

Blaze Spreads Fast from Bottom to Top of Five Story Structure at 226-228.

FIREMEN ARE IN DANGER.

Several Have Narrow Escapes in Hard Night Battle; Loss Is Put at $200,000.

Fire early last night swept through the five story building at 226-228 Lake street. The firemen had a hard fight to extinguish the flames, and it was not until more than twenty-five engines had arrived that any noticeable impression was made. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

The fire started in the engine room and shot up the elevator shafts. Before the arrival of the first of the fire companies the flames were shooting out of the upper windows.

The building was occupied by the following firms:

Chicago Label and Box company, third, fourth, and fifth floors. Loss, $75,000.

Chicago Novelty Paper Box company, second floor. Loss, $35,000.

Rome Brass and Copper company, first floor. Loss, $20,000.

The building, which is owned by J. H. Fleming of McGregor, Ia., was damaged to the extent of $70,000.

Fire Tug First on Scene.

The fire was discovered by several citizens, who hurried to the quarters of the firetug Illinois at Franklin street and the river and notified Capt. Lyons. While hurrying to the building he sounded an alarm. Upon the arrival of Fire Inspector John McDonnell a general alarm was sounded. This was followed by a special call for ten engines when Assistant Fire Marshal Seyferlich and Chief Horan arrived.

Firemen hurried up the fire escapes with leads of hose, but were soon driven down by the intense heat.

Capt. Lyons and Pipemen Baynes, Hans Hansen, J. Walsh, and Frank Rhode of the tug Illinois remained on a fire escape on the Franklin street side of the building directing a stream of water while flames were leaping all around them. Before they realized the danger flames burst from windows on the second floor directly under them. Members of engine company No. 13 directed streams of water over them to protect them from the heat and the flames until they could regain the street. Capt. Lyons escaped only by sliding down the ladder.

Less than fifteen minutes after the fire was discovered the building from the second floor up was in flames. After being driven from the fire escapes the firemen carried leads of hose to adjoining buildings and prevented the blaze from spreading.

Shutters Fall Beside Chief.

Marshal Horan, Assistant Fire Marshal Seyferlich, and Battalion Marshal Edward Buckley narrowly escaped being struck by several iron shutters which fell from the upper stories of the buildings.

During the fire trains of the Chicago and Oak Park elevated railroad filled with passengers passed in front of the building. As a west bound train passed the roof of the building caved in carrying the fifth, fourth, and third floors with it. Passengers on the train heard the crash, but a panic was prevented by the train crew.

Several firemen narrowly escaped injury when they were raising a ladder against the elevated structure. A west bound train swept the ladder to one side as the firemen were about to climb it.

Electric car lines were blocked for more than two hours. Crowds of suburbanites on their way to downtown theaters were attracted to the fire and the police had difficulty in keeping the crowds back.

DIVORCE MAY END LONG UNION.

H. S. Gail Sues for Decree After Forty-two Years of Matrimony—Burgess Tires of Strenuous Life.

After sailing the sea of matrimony for forty-two years Harry S. Gail has found it necessary to have the remaining days of his life made pleasant by being divorced from Martha L. Gail. Yesterday he began such action in the Superior court.

They were married on Dec. 24, 1865 at Antioch, Ill., and separated in 1903. Gail avers his children induced their mother not to speak to him.

Dodging hatchets, flower pots, and chairs proved too interesting for Thomas Burgess, according to his story, and he began action for a divorce from Nellie L. Burgess. They were married on May 26, 1903, and separated recently.

POLITICIANS HIT BY PRIMARY BILL.

Local Luminaries Are More or Less Dazed by the News from Springfield.

PIN HOPE ON THE SENATE.

Democratic Bosses Would Be Put in Worse Position by Passage of Law.

When the news came from Springfield yesterday that the lower house of the legislature had passed the Oglesby direct primary bill, and passed it with an emergency clause, the Chicago politicians proceeded to have something closely resembling what in older days were called "conniption fits." The ailment attacked the democrats more seriously than it did the republicans.

They all still have an abiding faith that the state senate will come to the rescue. They could not hope for anything from Gov. Deneen, for he has so far committed himself to a primary law of some sort that they declare he would have to sign any bill, especially one of the direct variety, which might be sent to him.

Mayor Busse took the situation calmly. He could afford to, as, no matter what kind of a primary law is passed, it does not make much difference to him. He is in office for three years and a half more, which is a long time in politics, and by that time new conditions would straighten themselves out.

Other republicans were not so indifferent Still, they had confidence in the integrity of the party organization. They figured it out that even if the Oglesby bill were passed there would not be much difference in the results of republican primaries. John J. Hanberg argued that the party organizations in most wards were now fairly responsive to the will of the republican voters in the wards, and the chief harm a direct primary law could do to them would be occasionally to saddle the party with the blame for an unfit nomination.

Different with the Democrats.

But it is different with the democrats. There is no organization of any kind in that party. It is a case of every man for himself and the proverbial result to the hindmost. Nominally the democrats are all in favor of primaries of the most direct kind. This was before it looked as if by any chance a direct primary law could pass the legislature. Yesterday it was different. But the democrats are helpless in the senate, as they have no perceptible representation there.

The way the democratic party of Chicago is divided there is no cohesion of any kind. The present managers have fought more to keep control of the party organization by electing the proper men as ward committeemen. They have absolutely no method of directing the primary votes for this or that candidate for an office. Under a direct primary law there is not a leader from National Committeeman Sullivan down who could have any appreciable influence in naming a ticket. Nobody could make more than a guess, and a poor guess at that, what the party ticket would be.

But Mr. Sullivan said last evening he would be glad to see a direct primary bill passed. This was not only keeping his record consistent, but at the same time he had one thing to rely on. It is a certainty that the Dunne faction, which represents the opposition to the Sullivan people, will make its primary fight on an I. M. O. issue, and this recently proved unpopular in Chicago.

To the Independence league and the socialists it does not make any real difference whether a primary bill is passed or not. The independence league never holds primaries. Its candidates are named and its platforms adopted in advance by self-appointed committees. The socialists have primaries, but there is never any contest at them. They do not care who runs for office on their ticket. Their fights are always over the platform.

Woodlawn Republican Headquarters.

Woodlawn republicans have opened permanent headquarters and clubrooms at Sixty-fourth street and Cottage Grove avenue. Regular meetings will be held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. The clubrooms will be opened each evening from 8 until 11 o'clock and occasional programs of music and debates on current questions will be given. A reading room will keep magazines and newspapers on file.

ROOSEVELT BACK AT CAPITAL.

Expresses Himself as Greatly Pleased with Trip and Fact That He Got a Bear.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt reached the White house from his southern trip this afternoon. The president took no pains to conceal his delight at getting home and expressed himself as pleased with his trip.

"I have had a delightful time," he said. "I am extremely gratified over the fact that I got a bear as the result of my hunt, and none the less so that I had to work twelve days to get it. For the rest, I was touched and gratified beyond measure by the reception I received in the south, indeed at every place, both north and south, beginning with Keokuk and continuing until the end of the journey. The entire twenty-four days have been full of both profit and pleasure, and I am glad I made the trip."

The president denied that he has any other hunting trip in contemplation, and said the announcement that he is going to hunt in North Carolina was unauthorized.

The president refused to discuss the fusion in New York, but indicated that the step was taken without his knowledge.

Men Who Will Represent Sweden in Challenge for the America Cup.

At a meeting to be held next month the Royal Swedish Yacht club of Stockholm will draw up a formal challenge for the America cup. As the New York Yacht club appears to have indicated that a challenge for a race between seventy footers would not be acceptable, the challenge probably will be for a race between ninety foot yachts. Public subscriptions are being made all over Sweden, and a syndicate of wealthy men, headed by K. A. Kyhlberger, has guaranteed any sum that may be lacking to make up the total needed to pay the expenses of the race.

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED BY STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

Successor to Secretary Garrard Will Be Elected at the January Meeting—Candidates Out for Madden's Place.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The state board of agriculture today accepted the resignation of Secretary W. C. Garrard. Assistant Secretary McCoy will act until the January meeting of the board, when an election will be held. James K. Dickerson, former president of the board, is said to be slated as Garrard's successor. John M. Crebs of Carmi and Thomas S. Marshall of Salem are candidates for president, to succeed George B. Madden.

SENATE BALLOON SHOOTS SKYWARD

Ascent Caused by House Vote of 102 to 27 in Favor of the Oglesby Primary Bill.

COME DOWN FOR CAUCUS.

Leaders Confer on Plan to Overcome "Radical" Features; Action Due Friday.

propositions were put to a vote. The Oglesby bill was supported by seventeen senators, the Gardner bill by thirteen, the Jones plan by two, and the Dunlap plan by one.

The conference then agreed to take the Oglesby bill as a basis for its work and to proceed to amend it to suit senate ideas.

Even the friends of direct primaries do not believe that the Oglesby bill has any chance in the senate in its present form. It is regarded as only a question of how far the senate will manage to get away from the plurality idea. Amendments to it are now being considered. It is proposed to make it a percentage bill, requiring that a candidate secure at least 35 per cent of the vote if the nomination is to be made by the people. Failure to secure such a percentage would throw the nomination into convention.

The senate leaders are working to secure the retention of the convention idea in some shape or other. When the house passed the bill Speaker Shurtleff voted against it, but his course in the chair was what made it possible for the measure to be put through with an emergency clause.

Shurtleff Favors Convention.

In voting Mr. Shurtleff said that he had worked in the special session which passed the recently invalidated law for a convention measure and against a direct primary act.

"I was for a convention law then," he said, "and I have not changed my position since then. I have the same opinions now, and, that being the case, I shall vote now as I did then."

Republicans and democrats united in putting the bill over, and the opposition to it did not follow party lines. Representative Walter Lantz of Cook had the courage of his convictions and told his associates that they were insincere and that none of them wanted the bill they were passing. Representative Lee O'Neill Brown said that he personally did not believe in the idea, but that the people of his district did and that he was taking orders from them.

The republicans from United States Senator A. J. Hopkins' territory lined up against the bill. Congressman Snapp from the Hopkins district was one of those who ascended immediately following the announcement of the vote, and his face was sorrowful as he arose.

Those who voted against the bill were:

Backus,	Haase,	McNichols,
Beck,	Hilton,	Nelson,
Bolin,	Hoge,	Ostrom,
Bush,	Hope,	Riley,
Curran,	Ireland,	Schumacher,
Dudgeon,	Lane,	Shanahan,
Erby,	Lantz,	Smejkal,
Fieldstack,	McLaughlin,	Sabel,
Glade,	McNally,	Shurtleff—27.

As soon as the fate of the bill in the house had been determined the house members prepared to step homewards, having made the agreement that the house should adjourn from day to day until the senate had worked out its own salvation. Speaker Shurtleff will summon the representatives back to Springfield when the senate is ready to pass something back to them.

Senate Enters New Fields.

In addition to passing several bills the senate opened up some new lines of work by permitting the introduction of several others.

Senator Elletson introduced the state deposit bill providing for the depositing of state funds in banks designated by the state treasurer and the governor, the state to receive all the interest from such deposits. The bill provides that the state treasurer shall be allowed $5,000 for his bond, but that he shall not be relieved of responsibility. This is one of the measures which the legislature failed to pass last winter and which the governor recommended in his recent message. It was sent to second reading.

Senator Jandus also was successful in introducing the two United Societies bills for the submission of the questions of Sunday closing and bar permits to municipalities for decision. His measures were referred to the committee on miscellaneous subjects.

WIFE MAY DIE; SMALL 'DOWN'

Deposed Strike Chief Has More Trouble Heaped on Back.

FOES KILLING HER, HE SAYS.

Spouse Has Attack of Heart Disease After Reading of Fight.

Mrs. Sylvester J. Small, wife of the deposed president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, is critically ill at the family residence, 6500 Evans avenue. She suffered an attack of heart disease late yesterday afternoon and was unconscious for two hours. At midnight she had rallied.

Mr. Small asserted the relapse occurred as a result of worry over his suspension from the presidency of the telegraphers' union. He added that his enemies in the union had not only accomplished his downfall, but they are "murdering my wife by slow degrees."

Mrs. Small had been improving several days when the relapse came at 4 o'clock. Dr. H. E. Almes, 4249 Indiana avenue, was summoned hurriedly and he administered restoratives. The physician gave strict orders to keep from Mrs. Small all newspaper accounts concerning her husband's treatment at the hands of the national executive board or the telegraphers' convention in session at Milwaukee.

Small Broken in Spirit.

When seen last evening Small presented a pathetic figure. He was utterly broken in spirit, and appeared to have added years to his age. It was a striking contrast to his appearance when he entered Chicago in triumph a few weeks ago as national head of the telegraphers' union and the biggest figure in the strike.

"If my wife lives three days more it will be a miracle," said Small. "The relapse she suffered this time was much worse than any previous attack.

"She was doing nicely for several days, and we let her read the newspapers concerning the strike. It seems that reading about my suspension from the union was too much for her strength. Poor woman! She would fight to the bitter end.

"Those fellows in the union who have been after me are killing her. They have accomplished my downfall, and now they are murdering her by slow degrees. I don't care for the job. I am heartily glad to be out of the whole thing, but I don't like the way they did it. I don't like to be thrown out in this way, and that is exactly what has worried my poor, sick wife.

Will Fight for Fund.

"If those fellows at Milwaukee, in that rump convention, attempt to lay hands on the $10,000 mutual benefit funds, or do any other illegal act, I am going to get out an injunction against them. All I want is to protect the interests of the small locals in the country."

Mrs. Small has been ill during the last six months. She is suffering chiefly from a nervous ailment. Dr. Almes admitted Mrs. Small's condition was critical. Small said he will issue a statement at the close of the convention in which he will tell some things which his enemies on the national executive board don't want told.

"COL." BRYAN'S PAY HELD UP.

War Department Asks for Further Proof of Dates of Service of Third Nebraska's Officers.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 23.—Col. W. J. Bryan and Capt. (now governor) George L. Sheldon of the Third Nebraska in the late war, must furnish further proof of the dates of their service before the war department will pay them. The order affects all officers of the regiment. Privates have been paid.

OBITUARY.

CHRISTOPHER M. CASS, whose death occurred last Monday at the Chicago Home for Incurables, will be buried this afternoon in Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Cass was born in Milwaukee sixty-three years ago. For many years he was engaged in the manufacture of street lamps at 179 West Lake street. Business reverses in 1895 caused him to lose his health. The funeral will take place at 322 Ogden avenue at 12 o'clock.

CAPT. E. J. CLARK, who died on Monday, will be buried this afternoon, the funeral being held at the late residence, 47 Peterson avenue. Capt. Clark had sailed the great lakes for thirty-five years before he retired ten years ago. He is survived by five children. Interment will be at Graceland.

Dies When Waiting for Train.

A man supposed to be George J. Titus, 527 Jackson boulevard, died suddenly last night at the Polk street station while waiting for a train. Heart disease is believed to have caused his death.

AVOID OUSTING OF BOARD

Sentiment of Meeting Is Against Small; No Prospect of the Struggle's End.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The first session of the commercial telegraphers' meeting today developed into a fight between the radicals, who demand the removal of the present executive board, and the supporters of the present board.

After considerable skirmishing a compromise was suggested, which probably will be adopted tomorrow. It will be the election of a board of strategy, composed of five members, which will have entire control of the strike situation and will act independently of the executive board. The election of officers will be postponed until the regular biennial convention in June, and the existing members of the executive board will not be deposed.

May Ask Railway Strike.

The seating of delegates occupied most of the afternoon session, and the question of ways and means of financing the strike was scarcely touched upon.

Resolutions looking to the amalgamation of the commercial telegraphers and the railroad operators will be offered tomorrow. It also is probable that a resolution asking the railroad telegraphers to strike on such systems as have instituted a "blacklist" against commercial operators since the calling of the strike will come up tomorrow.

Sentiment Against S. J. Small.

The sentiment of the convention is against Sylvester J. Small, the deposed president. A message from him protesting against the convention's illegality, was read and hailed with derision. There is little chance of Small's reinstatement at the hands of the delegates, in spite of general dissatisfaction with the present officials.

Although the Chicago delegation is the largest unit in the convention, a move to have it adjourned to meet immediately in Chicago was defeated.

No matter what action the convention may take in the fight upon the officers, it is not probable that any move toward calling off the strike will be made. The delegates are determined to continue the fight and will adopt every means to raise necessary funds.

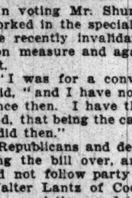

New Wage Schedule in Effect.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Employés of the Western Union who have been loyal through the strike were notified today that the new wage schedule is now in effect. In most cases it went into effect on Monday. By the new schedule the wages are advanced in accordance with the individual merit and ability of the telegraphers and the class they are in. First class operators' wages are advanced from $19.80 to $21 a week, and the overtime charge is advanced in proportion.

Churches and clergymen were criticised for their attitude toward the cause of the striking telegraphers at a meeting yesterday afternoon at Uhlich's hall. J. B. Connors, president of the switchmen's union, was the speaker.

He declared the churches always have been hostile to union labor, and that the strikers need expect no aid from ministers or from church organizations. The remarks were cheered by the 200 strikers present.

G. Fraenkel, secretary of the county committee of the socialist party, told the strikers to beware of the Milwaukee convention because Oct. 23 is "skidoo day."

MEN'S overcoats for women—seems a little odd, but we're selling them. This is strictly a men's store; no "women's gear" at all; we're specialists in fine clothes for men. But these Hart Schaffner & Marx overcoats are so good, so well-tailored, so smart in fabric and detail, that women buy them; for driving, automobiling, walking, etc. We make the needed changes without charge.

Men's suits and overcoats

FOR men who want the best clothes money will buy, this store continues to be headquarters. They find here such quality as they want; and they're sure of it. They find here such a variety of clothes and patterns as cannot be seen anywhere else; they get a big range of choice here; don't have to wear the same things everybody else wears.

They get such tailoring, and such fineness of finish, and such perfect fit, as other stores, for the most part, merely talk about. And the goods are ready-to-wear; in fact, not merely in words.

You can get for $25 here a suit or overcoat that will be a credit to you and to us, wherever you go. The fabrics are strictly all-wool, the select products of the best foreign and American looms; the patterns are most attractive; it isn't possible to convey in words the richness of these colorings and designs.

In suits the various Varsity models lead; broad, high shoulders; long well draped lapels; some box-back, some extreme form fitting, and between; three and four buttons, from $20 to $50.

In overcoats an unusual showing of smart models: a great overcoat collection, in all the new cloths; silk-lined, half silk-lined, irene lined; long and medium; for fall; for driving, automobiling, full dress, business; for winter wear, $15 to $60.

Special in suits

SOME wholesale short lots from Hart Schaffner & Marx, blue and black suits, very fine goods, worth $25 and $30; now $18. These are on the 5th floor.

Extra trousers

AT $4.50 a special lot of fine trousers left from suits; they're well worth all of $6, $7, $8; they're exceptional at $4.50. Other fine trousers up to $10 and $12.

Furnishings and hats

UNDERWEAR is a warm favorite just now; if you haven't yet made your provision for winter, you'd do well to look at these goods. They're all here—the things you're looking for; and the prices are low.

We're selling lots of $3 hats to men and young men who like crisp style and good quality at a low price. The John B. Stetson quality comes at $3.50. Stetson "Special" $5. Manhattan Shirts $1.50 to $3.50.

Good Beer and Good Health

Dr. Ashbell Parmelee Grinnell, First-Vice President New York Medico-Legal society, states that the drinking of good beer promotes health. The reason is simple.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

The Beer of Quality

is made from Pabst Eight-Day Malt that is matured by a special process which follows Nature closely and retains in the malt all of the wholesome, healthful food properties of the barley-grain.

The Pabst Perfect Brewing Process transmits these qualities, together with the invigorating properties of the choicest hops, to Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer in predigested form, ready for immediate assimilation by the system.

GERMANS VICTORS IN BALLOON RACE

Pommern Ends Flight of 880 Miles at Asbury Park, N. J.; Wins Cup and Cash.

FRENCH 5 MILES BEHIND.

Contest Will Be Made by Paris Club Unless Survey Is Made Before Award.

RESULTS OF BALLOON RACE.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 23.—Proclaimed as the most remarkable ballooning contest in the history of the world aeronautics, with every existing record broken, the second international cup competition, which started from here on Monday last, ended today, with Germany accorded the winning laurels. The finish of the race was the closest and most exciting the followers of the sport have ever known, the victorious German balloon, the Pommern, which landed at Asbury Park this morning, having but barely five miles the advantage of the French contestant, L'Isle de France, second in the race, which descended at 4 during the afternoon at Herbertsville, N. J., a few miles from the Atlantic coast and slightly northwest of Point Pleasant.

Survey Must Be Made.

Frank P. Lahm, representing the French Aero club, tonight gave notice that he would protest officially against the award of first place to the Pommern until after official measurements of the distance by the geological survey of the United States government at Washington. He contends that if it is shown that the Pommern and Isle de France landed within half a mile of each other the race is officially a tie, and must be sailed over by the two balloons contending for first place.

Americans Finish Fourth.

Another German balloon, the Düsseldorf, stands third in the race. American entries are fourth and fifth, a third German team sixth, a French team seventh, an American eighth, and the English team abandoned the race at Memphis, O., where they descended on account of the illness of one of the aeronauts.

Only the proximity of the Atlantic ocean stopped the wonderful flight of the Pommern. The balloon could have remained in the air many hours longer and undoubtedly would have added several hundred miles to its record but for the expanse of water ahead.

News of the landing of the Pommern was received here at an early hour today, and was followed by reports of the descent of every other contestant in the race with the exception of the L'Isle de France. The race was at last conceded to be between these two, and when a report was received at noon to the effect that the French craft had been sighted in the vicinity of Asbury Park intense excitement prevailed. There were many predictions that the contest would result in a tie for first honors.

Germans' Victory in Danger.

When the L'Isle de France did not descend at the point selected by the German leaders in the race there was a belief the French aeronauts might, after all, be declared the victors. Evidently a contrary current caught the L'Isle de France, however, and blew the craft back to the southwest.

Realizing that their supply of gas was low and that they were losing ground the occupants of the French basket decided to make a rapid descent as near the coast as possible.

While losing the distance record and possession of the cup, the French team sailing the France gained the honors of the world's record for duration of flight. Starting from here at 4:10 p. m., central time, they landed today at 1:10 p. m., eastern time, making their time in the air just 44 hours. The previous record was 41 hours 5 minutes, held by Count de la Vaulx of France.

The record of the international race, set by the balloon United States in the flight from Paris last year, was 402 miles. This was more than doubled by the Pommern and the French balloon. In fact, but one of the nine contestants in this year's race failed to exceed the 1906 record.

Beachey Airship Wins.

Interest in the balloon contest did not prevent today's program at Forest park. Sailing to windward and return over a course measuring one mile and a half from start to finish, Lincoln Beachey of Toledo, O., won the dirigible balloon or airship race, which marked the close of the St. Louis Aeronautic carnival of 1907. The prize was $2,000.

In his "Beachey Airship," a cigar shaped craft, propelled by a four cylinder gasoline motor, the winner covered the distance in four minutes and forty seconds.

Jack Dallas, in the "Strobel Airship," a new craft to the Beachey, won second place, with a time record of six minutes and ten seconds, while Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin of New York, in the "California Arrow," was third in seven minutes and five seconds. A fourth competitor, the "Comet," entered by Charles Baysdorfer of Omaha, Neb., and piloted by Horace Wild, did not complete the first trial of the course, the motor breaking.

Aeroplane Not Tried.

The Israel Ludlow aeroplane was to have given an exhibition flight attached to an automobile, but was too badly damaged by coming in contact with the exposed gaspipes that were used in the inflation of the balloons contesting in the international cup race.

Pommern Men Given Ovation.

Asbury Park, N. J., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The German balloon, Pommern, Capt. Oscar Erbsloeh pilot, landed two miles southwest of Asbury Park about 9 o'clock this morning, after covering a distance of 880 miles from the starting point at St. Louis. The balloon was sighted for a quarter of an hour before it descended into an open field near the coast, and when Capt. Erbsloeh and his companion, Mr. H. H. Clayton of Hyde Park, Mass., alighted from the basket they were mobbed by a cheering multitude.

Capt. Erbsloeh and his companion were taken to Asbury Park in an automobile, where they received a royal reception.

After dinner they boarded a late afternoon train for New York, where Capt. Erbsloeh will join friends. He will remain in America until Nov. 5, and will then take back his balloon with him to Germany.

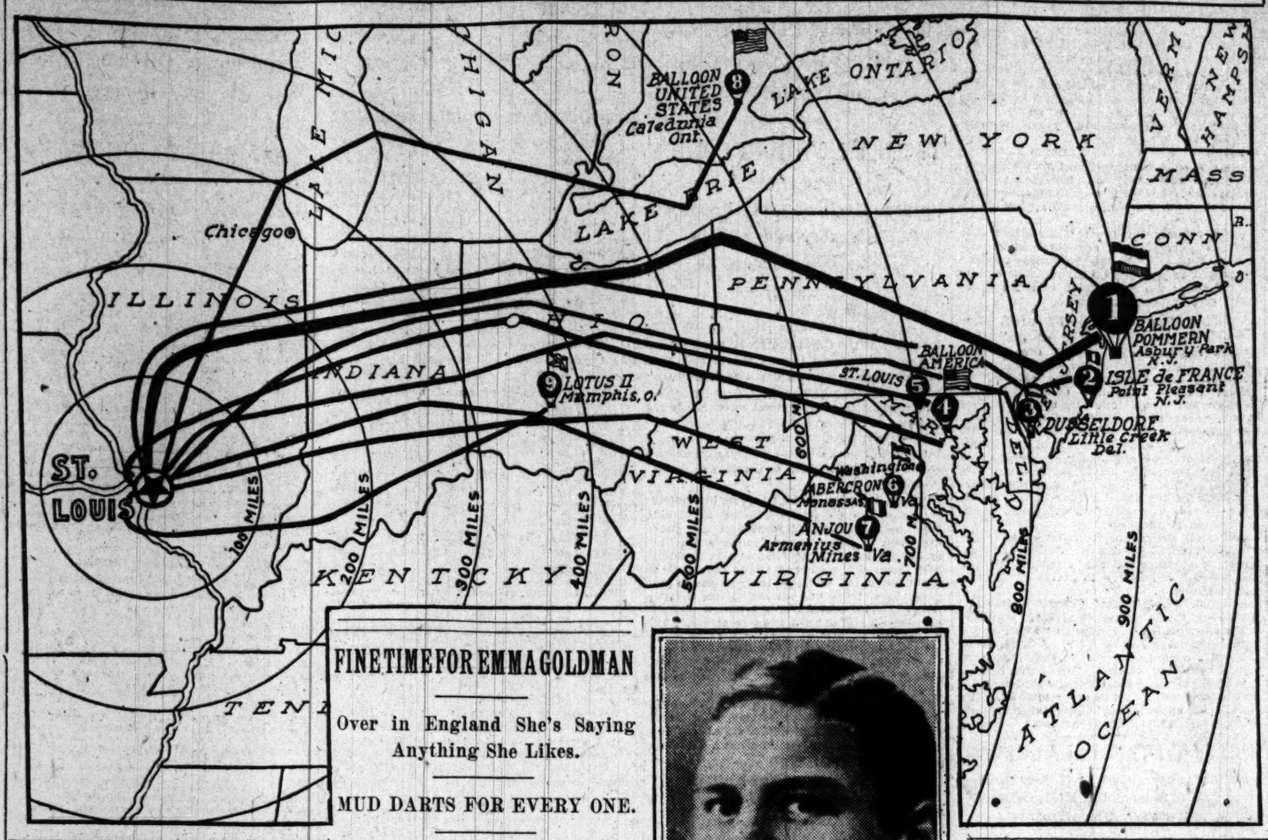

Army Man Reports.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Gen. Charles De F. Chandler of the signal corps of the army, who in the balloon "America" took part in the race from St. Louis, returned to Washington this afternoon and reported from the railroad station by telephone, requesting time to divest himself of his aerial clothes and take a bath before reporting to the chief signal officer.

Aeronaut Tells of Trip.

"We landed this morning at 7:55 at a point about three miles from Annapolis Junction, Md., and not over fifteen miles from Baltimore," said Capt. Chandler. "We had been in the air continuously for about forty hours. We left St. Louis at 4:30 Monday afternoon, traveled 720 miles by air and reached our highest altitude, one and a half, just after sunrise this morning, at a point near Harper's Ferry. We passed the Mississippi river at Grafton, and then the Illinois side, and from that point on the course was northeasterly until we came to the shore of Lake Erie, after which we turned to a southeasterly course."

FINE TIME FOR EMMA GOLDMAN

Over in England She's Saying Anything She Likes.

MUD DARTS FOR EVERY ONE.

British Audiences, However, Don't Applaud Attacks on Roosevelt.

[FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Emma Goldman, high priestess of anarchy, is enjoying her stay in England to the utmost. It is affording her an opportunity to open her mouth and exercise her lungs such as she has not had in the United States for many a long day. And of this opportunity she is making the most, attacking everybody and everything under the sun.

With a promising beginning in London, where she addressed a meeting disappointing in its size and enthusiasm, Miss Goldman is making a three months' tour of England, speaking in all the larger cities, such as Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, and Plymouth, and in addition is studying conditions in England, which she calls "the home of anarchy."

Miss Goldman has made capital out of the Haywood trial, and the success, as she calls it, of the Western Federation of Miners. Haywood was acquitted, Miss Goldman tells her English hearers, not because the judge or the jurymen were any better than the judges or the jurymen in any other part of the United States, but because the men of the Western Federation of Miners understood the use of dynamite and knew when and where to use it.

Her Idea of Unions Here.

It was fear in the hearts of the judge and the jurymen that set Hayward free, according to Miss Goldman. Haywood's acquittal, she says, marks the turning point in trades unionism in the United States, as henceforth the trades unions would emulate the example of the Western Federation of Miners, which took the law into its own hands.

Miss Goldman also is telling her English hearers about the anarchists executed in Chicago in 1887, and she draws a disparaging comparison between these men and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John Mitchell, president of the mine workers' union, who, she says, will never risk their lives for their convictions, because they haven't any convictions.

The majority of the poor workmen in the United States, says Miss Goldman, do not want to be president because the office cannot be reached except by a life of machinations, trickery, and deceit; and they do not want to be millionaires because, she says, they know it is easy to do so if one knows how to steal.

Attack Roosevelt in Vain.

President Roosevelt she pictures as a man consumed by a desire to become famous and who is trying to imitate Kaiser William of Germany, "who some people say," declares Miss Goldman, "is not quite right in the head."

A remarkable thing about her meetings is the fact that she has been unable upon any occasion to get a demonstration of sympathy from her audience in her attacks upon President Roosevelt. When she attacks the kaiser or the "bloody czar" she arouses great enthusiasm, but her remarks about President Roosevelt are received in silence.

RAILS WET; CARS COLLIDE.

Accident and Injury Follow a Street Sprinkler's Passage.

MOTORMAN UNABLE TO STOP.

Wheels Slip Along for Fifty Feet; Other Casualties on Railways.

Seven passengers were injured last evening at 8 o'clock when an eastbound West Madison street car collided with a northbound Western avenue car. The passengers, many of whom were women and children, were thrown into confusion when the cars crashed and the lights in the cars went out. Windows were smashed and several of the passengers were severely cut by broken glass. Slippery rails caused by a street sprinkler were responsible for the accident.

The Injured.

CARLSON, JOHN, 34 years old; motorman on Western avenue car; head and face badly bruised.

CRONIN, CHARLES J., 32 years old, 1505 Fillmore street; back and right hip injured.

FITZGERALD, JOHN, 40 years old, motorman on West Madison street car; head bruised and left arm sprained.

JOHNSON, MISS ANNA, 20 years old, 290 West Jackson boulevard; thrown from platform; head, back, and both knees injured; taken to county hospital and later home.

LEWI, JOSEPH, 40 years old, 909 Warren avenue; right leg and left arm bruised and sprained.

SMITH, ROBERT H., 23 years old, 447 Ogden avenue; thrown from platform; internally injured; taken to county hospital.

ZORKELLER, ALBERT, 30 years old, 1512 West Congress street; head and face severely cut.

The Western avenue car had the right of way and had started across the tracks. Approaching rapidly from the west, the Madison street car neared the intersection and Motorman Fitzgerald applied the brakes. Although the brakes worked properly and were applied in time, the car skidded for fifty feet until it crashed into the Western avenue car.

Killed in Various Accidents.

Five persons died during the day in the city as a result of various train acidents, as follows:

ABBOTT, DANIEL, 55 years old, 5641 Ladin street; died at St. Bernard's hospital; was run down Tuesday evening when crossing Chicago Junction tracks at West Forty-seventh street and Center avenue.

BURGHGRAF, ARNOLD, 60 years old, Blush street, Austin, contractor; died at St. Anne's hospital from injuries received when his wagon was struck Tuesday by an Aurora, Elgin and Chicago train.

CURTIS, GEORGE, 30 years old, Tinley Park; track laborer on Rock Island road; killed by train at Tinley Park station.

MANGAN, JOHN F., 36 years old, 320 Jackson boulevard, Illinois Central switchman; run over by train between Van Buren and Harrison streets.

LINER STILL FAST; ALL SAFE.

Five Hundred Passengers Will Be Forwarded to New York by Another Vessel.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Russian Asiatic company's steamship Lituania, which went ashore yesterday at Skillings, on the Swedish coast, in a fog, with 500 passengers, bound from Libau to New York, is not expected to be refloated in less than eight days. It will have to discharge its cargo. The company is arranging to forward the passengers by another steamship.

Liner Founders While Coaling.

LISBON, Oct. 23.—The Hamburg-American Steamship company's liner Borussia, on its way from Brazil for Hamburg, foundered last night while coaling. A strong tideway caused the ship to list and the water rushed in its coaling ports. All the passengers were saved. Three of the crew are missing.

CUBANS HISS AMERICAN FLAG.

Feeling Against Yankee Nation Growing in Havana—Guard Over Army Stores Is Doubled.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, Oct. 23.—The anti-American feeling in Havana is growing. The authorities have doubled the guard over the army storehouses and other American property. The stars and stripes was hissed at the National theater, and Murray Raymond, a presidigitator, was fined $50 because he remonstrated with the audience for doing so.

Honor Pastor on Anniversary.

A reception in honor of the tenth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. E. V. Schuyler, pastor of the Grace church of Oak Park, was held last evening. He has served this church seven years, coming from Sandusky, O. There is now a membership of 1,100 in the church.

TAFT BOUND FOR SUBIG BAY TO INSPECT COAST DEFENSES.

Unexpected Amount of Business Compels Secretary to Delay Departure—Will Embark Nov. 9 for Vladivostok.

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 23.—Secretary Taft started for Subig bay at 11 o'clock tonight to inspect the coast defenses at the naval base there. He regards the trip as highly important owing to the impetus given to coast defense work by the Japanese situation.

Secretary Taft will return tomorrow night. He opened the University hospital this afternoon. He has been petitioned by the chamber of commerce to withdraw the army transports from interisland service.

Owing to the unexpected amount of business Secretary Taft has postponed his departure from the islands. He will embark on the United States ship Rainbow on Nov. 9. The Philippine squadron will escort him as far as Corregidor island, and there salute him and return to the bay. The cruisers Chattanooga and Galveston will convoy the Rainbow to Vladivostok.

The police are strictly enforcing the commission's new gambling law. They visited the home of Judge Charles Smith of the court of first instance during a session of the bridge whist club that was being held in honor of Mrs. Taft, and gave warning that no prizes must be offered as it would be against the law. The public regard the incident as amusing.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

PARIS.—M. Lannoy, one of the antiquaries charged by Antoine Thomas of Clermont-Ferrand with having instigated some of the recent church robberies, handed over to the authorities stolen treasures for which he claims he paid Thomas $4,400.

ATHENS.—A Bulgarian band Oct. 21 destroyed the Greek village of Rakoven, near Monastir, burning more than 100 houses and killing or wounding several of the inhabitants.

HONGKONG.—W. H. Adsetts was sentenced to death for the murder of Gertrude Dayton at the Hongkong hotel, Hongkong, on Aug. 4 last. Adsetts was at one time a sergeant in the American legation guard at Peking. Miss Dayton is said by her relatives, who reside in Denver, to have been traveling in the orient as a singer.

Seismic Shock Felt Throughout Calabria and It Is Reported There Has Been Great Destruction.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TURIN, Oct. 24.—A severe earthquake has occurred throughout Calabria and many villages have been destroyed.

The prisoners in the Catanzaro jail were awakened by the shock. They rushed to the windows and beat upon the bars, screaming to be let out, but the jail guards already had fled. The town of Feruzano was completely destroyed.

B. AND O. PAY ROLLS PADDED

Yardman and Freight Clerk Arrested on Forgery Charge.

ONE CHECKS UP THE OTHER.

Company Accuses Nelson Cathcart and Frank Waterbury.

Nelson Cathcart, a yard foreman on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and Frank E. Waterbury, chief clerk in the road's freight department, were arrested yesterday, charged with forgery of pay checks. Their offense was described by H. E. Pierson, general counsel for the road, as "pay roll stuffing." Mr. Pierson journeyed from the east to prosecute the cases.

The warrants were obtained by Mr. Pierson on information supplied by James Ryan, the road's chief detective.

Cathcart and Waterbury were locked up in the Harrison street station.

Alleged Forgers' Methods.

Cathcart is foreman of the general freight yards. The pay rolls sent in by him were passed on by Waterbury, and it is this fact that made it possible, according to the officials, for the falsification to be perpetrated.

It is said the "stuffing" has been going on for a long time.

To the charges Waterbury entered a vigorous denial. He asserted last night he was acting in good faith.

"I wish to deny that I ever forged the name or names of any of the officials," he said. "If I wrote a name on bogus pay rolls it was because I did not know they were bogus. I made out the vouchers according to the list that came to me in the regular way. In this way I might, for all I know, have forged unwittingly checks to the amount of $50,000."

Forged for a Year, Says Lawyer.

According to Attorney Pierson, the alleged forgeries have extended for over a year. He asserted several of the forged vouchers were cashed in the saloons of McGarry Bros., 347 Fifth avenue, and J. P. Crowley, 349 Fifth avenue.

It is said Cathcart had about 200 men working for him. A few men more or less were not likely to be noticed, and it is alleged he could easily "pad" with several names each week. It is claimed by the officials of the road he added to the pay roll the names of several persons who never had worked for the company. The finding of the names of several discharged employés led to the arrests.

Duchess of Marlborough Arrives at New York; Never Looked Better.

GOES TO NEWPORT TODAY.

Five Hundred and Forty Skyscrapers Built in the City Since 1890.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, Oct. 23.

Duchess of Marlborough Arrives.

The duchess of Marlborough, who was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, only daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, arrived in New York today on the liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. The duchess was accompanied by her father, and, according to those who knew her before her marriage to the English duke, she never looked better than she did today.

Before she finally got away from the piers she had missed her automobile, and her brother, William K. Vanderbilt Jr., had occasion to kick to pieces a camera with which a newspaper photographer was making persistent attempts to snapshot the duchess.

The duchess said she left her two little boys in England, where they are at school, and that they are both in splendid health. She said she was going to Hempstead, L. I., immediately to see her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and that tomorrow she will probably go to Newport. The duchess has not decided whether to return to England in a month or stay in New York much longer.

540 High Buildings Built Since 1890.

The building department has finished counting the lofty buildings in the city; 540 of them have been built since 1890. Including the Metropolitan Life building, which is not finished, the census of high buildings is as follows: One of forty-eight stories, one of forty-one, two of twenty-six, three of twenty-five, two of twenty-three, four of twenty-two, nine of twenty, two of nineteen, nine of eighteen, two of seventeen, nineteen of sixteen, nineteen of fifteen, eighteen of fourteen, thirteen of thirteen, 169 of twelve, 101 of eleven, and 164 of ten.

Body May Be That of Mrs. Hartridge.

The body of a woman of refined appearance found floating in the East river answers in most particulars the description of Mrs. Clifford W. Hartridge, the missing wife of Harry K. Thaw's counsel and friend. Mrs. Leslie W. Russell, the missing woman's mother, said she was impressed with the similarity of the description of the body in the Fordham morgue with that of her daughter. The only difference seems to be that when she went away Mrs. Hartridge wore a black skirt, while the skirt of the woman found in the river is a dark gray. The wife of the lawyer could be positively identified by a mole behind her right ear, but there is an abrasion behind the right ear of the body which might easily have removed such a mark. The woman's nails were manicured and she bore every evidence of having come from good surroundings.

Coroner Schwanneck said the body might prove to be Mrs. Hartridge's. She has been missing nineteen days. Mrs. Russell said Mr. Hartridge was under the care of a physician and that it would be impossible for him to endeavor to make an identification.

Hearst Hearing Fixed for Next Wednesday.

William R. Hearst was arraigned today before Justice Wyatt of Special Sessions on the complaint of criminal libel made by William Astor Chanler. The justice paroled Mr. Hearst in the custody of Mr. Shearn, his attorney. The hearing was fixed for next Wednesday. Justice Wyatt said he didn't want any delay. In his complaint Mr. Chanler tells of reading an article in the Evening Journal in connection with a charge of extortion made by Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, and of then going at once to the home of Mr. Hearst at 135 East Twenty-eighth street. He was told that Mr. Hearst was not at home and he left a note. Later in the afternoon he called again and was told that Mr. Hearst was not at home. Later he found the editor in, and Mr. Hearst said, according to Mr. Chanler, he would send a retraction to the paper to be published. Mr. Chanler says he could not find the retraction in Mr. Hearst's newspapers. It has leaked out that when Mr. Chanler first called Mr. Hearst was conferring with W. J. Bryan.

Gives Back Stolen $6,500; Bills Too Big.

Philip Sapperstein, the 17 year old Western Union messenger who disappeared on Tuesday after drawing $6,500 from the Knickerbocker Trust company for the Day and Night bank, returned today to the branch office he worked for at Fifth avenue and Forty-first street. He handed the package containing the $6,500 to Manager Wilmerding. It was all in notes of the $500 denomination. He said he had tried to buy clothes and other things at different places, but no one would accept a $500 bill. He was arraigned in the Essex Market court and held for a hearing.

Won by Bogus Wedding Certificate.

J. V. Kiesner, 452 North Paulina street, who is said to have convinced Lillian Nemicik or Norwood Park, that he was her husband by showing her a pretended marriage certificate, is sought. The girl says that after the birth of her baby two months ago she was deserted by her supposed husband.

KNABE

Supremacy

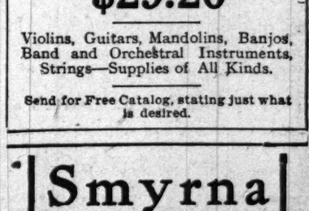

The KNABE PIANO of today is the result of seventy-odd years of devotion to the development and perfecting of one thing. These threescore years and ten have been employed in making the Knabe better in each detail of tone, touch, durability and workmanship. Three generations of the House of Knabe have given their whole time, thought and energy—their very life—to the accomplishment of the ambition to make the Knabe Piano as near perfection as human skill, ingenuity and modern methods could devise. How well they have succeeded is shown in the New Models of Grands and Uprights now on exhibition in our warerooms.

KNABE
Angelus

Is the combination, in one case, of this supreme piano with the one piano-player that is worthy of such distinction. It in no way interferes with the ordinary use of the piano, yet offers the whole world of music to those who cannot play by hand. The degree of expression possible with the Angelus is attained by no other playing device. Your request to hear and try this marvelous instrument places you under no obligation whatever.

SAYS JUSTICE IS MISUSED.

Other Speakers Besides Ex-Controller Attack the Sherman Law.

good fortune in not being opposed by the politician.

"The business man, in attempting to do exactly the same thing, to secure fair and honest coöperation, may not meet with the opposition of politicians, but he meets with indifferent support. If we are to make any progress in this vexed question, the Sherman antitrust law must be amended so as to clearly define what the "trust" crime is."

Grosscup on Corporation Control.

Judge Grosscup, in his address on corporate control, said the work of corporate reconstruction would be best performed, perhaps, by a national commission, and such a commission would have for a precedent the work done by Germany thirty years ago—a corporate reform that almost disarmed German socialism except as an agitation against the unjust laws of that country. He said:

"In this country the corporation is a creature of the executive department of the several states and issues out of such department almost as a matter of course. Neither the object for which the corporation is formed, nor the amount of its capitalization, nor the character of the securities issued commands any preliminary attention other than such as is merely perfunctory.

"Put your nickel in the slot and take out a charter is the invitation that the states extend; and in line before the slot machine, entitled, too, to an equal place in the line, are the corporate projects conceived to defraud, as well as those that have an honest purpose. Neither is detained by so much as an inquiry.

"For indifference such as that I would substitute at the threshold of the corporation's application for existence an honest, careful inquiry by some tribunal of government—a tribunal that will act only after it has heard—a hearing in which the public is represented by a district attorney, on whom is thus devolved the duty not merely of pursuing the horse after it is stolen but of seeing to it that the door is locked before the horse is stolen. And what honest project, I ask, can object to such an inquiry?

"And I can see no reason why in any honest enterprise the question whether additional securities shall be issued should not be made the subject of judicial inquiry.

Trick Dividends by Car Lines.

"But the restriction of capitalization to figures that are fair will accomplish little, if the declaring and paying of unearned dividends be left to those who are in control of the corporations; for it is not on the par value of securities, but upon the size and regularity of dividend payments, that the public makes up its judgment as to values; and it is not on mere capitalization that the schemer in corporate securities counts, but upon his ability to make the public believe that the capitalization has an earning power.

"Take the well known case of some of the Chicago traction companies. Without dividends, the securities issued would have remained near zero, and that, too, irrespective of how small the issue was; but with high dividends, paid year after year until they were no longer questioned, the securities rose in the stock markets to par, to double par, and beyond that, irrespective of how large the issue was.

"It was not the capitalization, but the high dividends regularly paid for a long period, that did the trick; no real dividends in any honest application of that word to earnings, but trick dividends—dividends that stripped the enterprise of its power to keep up with its public duty; that let the enterprise gradually but surely run down; and that borrowed millions for dividends on the top of the depletion.

People Party to the Crime.

"Indeed, the whole transaction was a moral crime—a crime that robbed honest men and women of the accumulations of a lifetime—a crime that is not fully expiated either by arraigning before the bar of public opinion the man who got away with the plunder.

"I arraign, as accessory before the fact, the people of the great state, who, scrupulously honest in their individual dealings, issued to the projectors of this crime the ready made corporate weapon without which the crime could not have been committed.

"I would try to infuse into the corporation of the future an incentive and a spirit that would make it more usual—that would give to the workman, the clerk, the employé of every kind an opportunity individually to share in the growth of the enterprise to which he is attached. This is not a mere philanthropic dream.

"The spirit will come when the employé feels that what he gets he gets as a matter of contract, not as a matter of gift, and is as secure therein as is the corresponding interest of the employer; and when the employer wakes up to the truth that it is not by bread alone that men live, it is not for bread alone that men put forth their best work; and the incentive may be supplied by the application of those well known powers of taxation, that instead of being wholly directed toward transferring to the government a part of the successful, could be employed to bring about a wider diffusion of the permanent fruits of success among those who by their labor had contributed to the success.

"This is not socialism. It may have the philanthropic spirit of socialism, but in its end and aim it is the antidote of socialism, in any long look ahead the only antidote on which individualism can securely rely.

First Step by Roosevelt.

"When the president in his Provincetown speech committed himself to the national incorporation of national enterprises, he took the first official step toward the new industrial life that is bound to be our future. In his determination to make every interest obey the law the president has justly earned the confidence of the country.

"But in this later step he has made for himself a formative place in the great transformation that is to eventually restore to the people of America the direct ownership and control of the property of America. For that ownership they are prepared with the financial means—it is only because the corporation, as the necessary owning intermediary, has not deserved the people's confidence that the wealth of the country, as Mr. Schiff says, has been pouring like mountain streams into the great Wall street reservoir. For that ownership they have an inborn instinct. And to regain that ownership they have, through the reconstruction of the corporation, a legal means that is at once natural, adequate, honest, and constitutional."

Trust Reform or Socialism.

Special Prosecutor Kellogg spoke plain words to the assembly. He held out this warning—improve the trusts or be driven to socialism or revolution. Federal license or incorporation was the solution. Mr. Kellogg said he did not speak from his official connection with the administration, but as a citizen of the republic.

"One of the vital issues before the American people today," he said, "is the question of the proper enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law. Certain classes of men are denouncing the government for the effort being put forth in this respect. It is said it is being done for political effect. In my opinion this is not true. No political agitator could create such a widespread and deep seated sentiment. No movement gains such momentum without just cause.

"Again, we hear it said that the enforcement of the Sherman act has been one of the causes of the present financial depression. In my opinion nothing is further from the truth. For ten years we have been going through an industrial expansion. It is the law of trade that the time always comes when these prices shrink.

Stress Due to Shrinkage.

"Shrinkage of prices of securities causes a shrinkage of credit. That is what we call scarcity of money. No temporary financial stress is going to turn the judgment of the people away from these problems of combinations.

"I do believe, however, that the Sherman act, in its application to railroads, should be modified. It is necessary for railroad men to meet and consider the subject of competing rates. This should, however, be under the control and supervision of the interstate commerce commission, and should be limited to making or changing the rate in the first instance.

"While I believe in a strong federal control of railways, I am not ready to commit myself to the doctrine of unlimited combination between railway systems, or to that complete federal or state control which shall take under government supervision all the details of the construction and operation of the railways of this country. The government should not engage in enterprises which can be left open to the people."

Many Trusts Not Economic.

Referring to the causes of the passage of the Sherman act, Mr. Kellogg traced the gradual growth of combinations, and said:

"It is said that combination is an economic principle, against which it is useless to combat. I deny that many of the great corporations and trusts of this country are the result of economic principles. They are the result of the genius and cupidity of the men who love wealth and power and who have ever been abusive of power and who will not stop in their grasp for power short of the industrial enslavement of their fellow men.

"It is not true that combinations are economical and reduce the prices to the people. But for the Sherman act or like enactments there would be no limit to combination. How long would the American people stand it if a set of men undertook to monopolize the ownership of land, if they sought to turn this country into a landlordism and tenantry?"

Gompers Raps the Courts.

President Gompers, wearing a black skull cap to keep the air away from his head, took advantage of the discussion of "Labor and Its Attitude Toward Trusts" to rap the courts severely for the abuse of the injunction power.

"The problems which confront us are serious, but not hopeless," he said. "Intelligent and associated use of the powers of the many will be found the solution. It is idle chatter to talk of annihilating trusts. They are the inevitable accompaniment of our modern commercial system.

"We do not mean by this, however, that the individuals who form trusts are inevitably right in many of the methods they employ. Neither do we concede the argument that these individuals are so superior a class of beings that they are entitled to the enormous largess which many of them claim. Many of these gentlemen are fortunate accidents in the crystallization of a new era.

Concedes Right of Organization.

"Labor concedes the right of organization among employers, providing its own rights are recognized. The trade union is as logical a development as the trust. The control of vast distributing powers has been acquired through means which are only beginning to be understood by the people—the consumers. Honest investigation and truthful exposure of wrong conditions are as invigorating to the growth of a correct public opinion as sunlight in a sweater's den. Such an opinion will prove the Nemesis of the trust manipulators.

"Our courts must adapt themselves to the changing conditions. Too often—especially in injunction cases, are they severe with the poor man and complacent and dilatory with the corporation.

"We need not be afraid of the people. We must trust them more and more. The greater the scope of the trust enterprises the heavier its weight of responsibility to those who produce and consume its products. This responsibility to the masses is a very real and vital thing. Upon a proper appreciation of it rests our hope and national progress."

Detailed Plan of Prussing.

Eugene E. Prussing presented to the delegates a complete outline of a reorganized trust, giving all the laws to govern it. In his speech he gave support to Judge Grosscup's idea of a national commission.

"The present corporation panic is greater than any disturbance of the financial world since the bursting of the South Sea bubble," said Mr. Prussing. "It is not merely a Wall street affair. Its pains and penalties pervade the whole country, and its effects for a long time must be world wide.

"The modern corporate organization has become 'an article of prime necessity.' It is therefore a legitimate subject for strict legal control, and unless we accept this frankly and guide it fairly we may have in the end a revolution which will give us government ownership of all industrial enterprises."

Mr. Prussing went on to present his plan of reconstruction in detail. He proposed that a petition for a corporation should be filed in local courts and the state's attorney should make a complete investigation of the plans of the new concern, appearing for the people in an open hearing of the case. In the case of additions to or reductions from the capital stock similar proceedings shall be had. By this plan, he said, the possibility of organizing piratical schemes would be prevented.

In the management of the affairs of the corporation Mr. Prussing would have three divisions. The stockholders should legislate for the company, the directors should supervise and determine, and the officers execute and guard its business. Special examination of the checkbooks, cash, vouchers, etc., should take place once a year. Salaries should be fixed by law.

President Foote of the National Tax association said that competitive industrial corporations and public service corporations cannot be effectively regulated under the same method and under laws applicable to both.

As a remedy for present conditions Mr. Foote suggested that the Sherman law be amended to exclude public service corporations and to permit reasonable trade agreements under the supervision of the department of commerce and labor.

Rate Regulation Is Favored.

President Robert Mather of the Rock Island railroad, speaking at the evening session, said that he had come to admit that the law conferring the ratemaking power on the interstate commerce commission was a wise one and to advocate an enlargement of the commission's powers.

"Politicians may not admit it," he said, "but the business interests of the country, carriers and shippers alike, are agreed that the great menace to our industry lies in the conflicting regulations of the differing state bodies and the lack of a comprehensive plan of regulation with sane views and national purposes."

Isaac N. Seligman, New York capitalist, said he favored federal regulation and had every confidence in the intention of the present administration to act fairly toward corporations.

Prof. J. W. Jenks of Cornell university spoke on "The Trust Situation," and Edgar A. Bancroft of Chicago on "Destructive and Regulative Legislation." A letter from August Belmont was read, in which the New York capitalist advised "conservatism in the discussion and action of the conference," but suggested that some recommendations would be expected by those interested in the questions under consideration.

WANT ANTI-TRUST LAW CHANGE.

Paint Manufacturers Ask Government to Permit Reasonable Railroad and Trade Combinations.

That the Sherman anti-trust law is too drastic, and if literally interpreted would make any trade understanding, however, beneficial, a penal offense, was the consensus of opinion at the second of a two days' annual convention of the Paint Manufacturers' association of America, held at the Auditorium Annex hotel.

The delegates passed a resolution to the effect that as the present laws were forcing railroads and competing industries into combinations for self-protection, the Sherman anti-trust law should be so revised as to permit reasonable trade agreements.

More than one hundred members were present at the meeting.

FORFEIT RAIL CHIEF'S BONDS.

Convicted President of the Pittsburg and Tube City Road Fails to Appear for Sentence.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 23.—Charles S. Cameron, president of the Pittsburg and Tube City railroad company, a line not yet constructed, convicted of conspiracy to bribe councilmen, failed to answer to his name when called for sentence before Judge Fraser in the Criminal court today. Bonds amounting to $12,000 were declared forfeited by the court. Orders were issued for Cameron's arrest. William A. Martin, a member of the common council, was convicted and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary in the same case.

LUNCHEON TOPIC IS 'BIG PROBLEMS'

Seth Low and Dr. Albert Shaw Address the Association of Commerce.

TAKE UP PUBLIC POLICY.

Chinese Exclusion, the President, Railroads, and Strikes Discussed.

The "big problems" now confronting the country were discussed briefly at the noon luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday by former Mayor Seth Low of New York and Dr. Albert Shaw, magazine editor.

Immigration, with special reference to the Chinese exclusion act, was the topic dealt with by Mr. Low. He indorsed the so-called "Roosevelt policy" of excluding from this country only the class of Chinese known as "coolies."

"I am in favor of the purpose, but not the form, of the Chinese exclusion act," said Mr. Low. "President Roosevelt is right in his policy of opposition to the slavelike labor of coolies in this free country. It is an insult to an old, wise, and proud race such as the Chinese to exclude their students and great men from our shores. I am in sympathy with the great object of the Chinese exclusion act—to keep the Pacific coast free from the numerical preponderance of an Asiatic population. If there ever was a matter of public policy in which the 'undesirable citizen' doctrine should be enforced to the limit it is the immigration question.

"Degenerates and people of low morals are the most undesirable classes of immigrants. But there should be no educational tests. Physical fiber and stamina should be the chief qualities required."

Immaturity of the Nation.

Dr. Shaw spoke of the development of the country.

"All the big problems now confronting the country are traceable to our immaturity as a nation," he said. "They are the natural legacies of the great pioneering period. For the colossal tasks of this development it was inevitable that the great geniuses who built our transcontinental railroads should have appeared on our national horizon. When laying out their railroad routes they were given special privileges in states and cities. Large fortunes have been amassed out of these undue privileges. But most of the nation's business men now have come to realize that the special privileges in freight rates are wrong, and they rightly demand equal rates for all. This is the policy of 'the square deal,' and it is bound to triumph everywhere."

Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said:

"I am no believer in the millennium, but I am firmly convinced that all strikes and labor difficulties will be settled in the future by friendly arbitration."

Low Speaks of Finances.

Mr. Low was expected to make some remarks on the financial conditions in New York, but he made no mention of Wall street or finances. In an interview after his speech he said:

"Wall street speculators have been sowing the wind for a long time and they are now reaping the whirlwind. I am not one of those who blame President Roosevelt and his policies for the situation. I believe the country will continue prosperous. The flurry in Wall street will cause better adjustments and useful financial housecleaning."

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath.

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and, while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning—that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and, besides, your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines all the impurities there massed together and which cause the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

CALL TO BOOSTERS OF LOOP STREETS.

Property Owners of Madison and Clark Now Emulate Dearborn Boomers.

CALL MEETING FOR TODAY

Business Men of First Named Will Discuss Question of Lighting and Paving.

Plans for improving the lighting and paving of the downtown streets of Chicago continue to grow. Madison street property owners have been asked to meet in room 320 of the Tribune building this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It is expected the subject of discussion will be that of lighting Madison street from Fifth avenue to the lake. Many of the owners of property on this street have expressed the hope that this thoroughfare should be lighted as the members of the Dearborn Street Improvement association have planned to light Dearborn street.

The fact that Madison street with the completion of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station and the proposed station for the Pennsylvania lines will become one of the most traveled streets in the downtown district has made the matter of improvement one of much interest.

Property Owners Will Attend.

As the traction matters are still hanging fire a number of the owners of property along this street have said they favored proceeding with the lighting of this street at once, but believed the paving should be deferred until next spring, when the street car rails may have been permanently laid. Invitations to be present at the meeting in the Tribune building were sent to the following property owners:

Alexander D. Hannah, E. S. Hart, George H. Hillis, A. G. Hines, Frederick T. Hoyt, I. S. Kemp, John R. Knobel, Leo C. Mandel, R. Hall McCormick, Chicago Athletic Assn., Representatives of the estate of L. C. P. Freer, Representatives of the estate of Joseph Rosenberg, George A. McKay, Andrew MacLeish, Charles E. Morrison, George K. Owsley, James K. Sebree, James W. Thorne, George W. Warr, E. M. Willoughby, John Wood, H. O. Stone.

Arousing Clark Street.

A petition asking for cooperation of all Clark street men in the work of lighting and paving that street has been prepared by Max Trich and Carl Roessler, owners of the Kaiserhof hotel. This paper will be circulated today. A meeting at the Kaiserhof has been planned for the last of the week.

"I have already called upon a number of men on Clark street, and they are for the improvement," said Mr. Roessler. "We have some grand new buildings on Clark street, and there are more going up right now.

"A large number of the owners of the property on this street have said they could be counted on for anything that would improve the street. I believe Clark street will go right ahead with this work. We cannot let Dearborn and Madison streets get the lead on us. We have the best start, and we want to hold it."

The Dearborn street improvement committee on lighting has received some plans for posts that will be shown at the meeting of the Madison street owners this afternoon.

Fair Exponent of "Curved Thoughts" Says Young Wives Will Follow Her.

MISS IVAH DE CHIPENHAM

"The idle women who have nothing to do but think of their worries—what we call society women—are the kind I expect as pupils for my æsthetic physical culture," said Miss Ivah de Chipenham, exponent of the "curved thought" idea, fresh from New York.

"Beautiful thoughts make beautiful women, and a few well chosen exercises aid much," she continued. "I have a couple of letters to the best people of Chicago and hope to be successful here.

"My pupils are generally young women who have been married five or six years, past the honeymoon stage, and want to get it back by having their husbands again fall in love with them. To a large extent their homeliness is of their own making.

"When they come to me they try to unbosom their troubles and cry, but I will not permit it. I never allow any of my pupils to dwell on their troubles. It's seldom that a woman over 45 comes to me. She prefers to be massaged and bleached by the beauty experts. If a woman is old and the beautiful thoughts will not remove the wrinkles in her forehead fast enough I might give her a gentle massage.

"In developing the body graceful I bring the mind in conjunction with physical exercise to obtain the proper poise. I myself evolved this theory. I am the pioneer. I bring out that elongated development of the muscles instead of that knotty, lumpy development which man craves."

BENIGNANT BURGLAR RETURNS KEEPSAKE AND BOY'S BANK.

Broken Marauder Doesn't Want to Discourage "Kid" in Habits of Saving—Other Robberies in Suburb.

A tender hearted burglar, "working" in Evanston yesterday morning, returned a savings bank and a watch to Leroy A. Eliel, 824 Hinman avenue, when told the watch was a keepsake and that the bank was the property of a boy into whom a father was trying to instill the idea of saving.

"I need the money, but the watch is worth more to you than I can get for it, and as for the kid, I don't want to discourage him after he has begun to save," the burglar remarked after he was confronted in a room by Mr. Eliel, whose house he had robbed of $8 and jewelry valued at $25.

Half an hour earlier two masked men held up John Lyons, an Evanston watchman.

"You watch the balloons that will pass here in a few minutes," the men told Lyons. They searched him, securing nothing, and left him on the sidewalk gazing skywards.

Later a burglar robbed the house of William Regan, 658 Hinman avenue, taking $25 in silverware.

SEARCH FOR CHINESE ACTOR.

Ah Sam Disappears While on Way to Chicago and Foul Play Is Suspected.

Ah Sam, 45 years old, one of the few Chinese actors playing in American theaters, has disappeared, and the Chicago police have been asked to aid in finding him.

Sam, who is a member of the William Collier company, was to have arrived in Chicago from Buffalo, N. Y., Monday evening. The managers say he has been waylaid or kidnaped. Sam was to have joined the company at the Illinois theater.

According to Mr. Hyde, Sam had several hundred dollars in his possession and a considerable quantity of jewelry at the time he is supposed to have left Buffalo.

BELAND-O'NEILL SUIT AGAIN.

Preparations Toward Second Trial of Breach of Promise Case—May Come Up in January.

Preparations for the second trial of the $5,000 breach of promise suit of Mabel Beland against John O'Neill, track elevation expert, are being made by counsel. Yesterday a plea of general issue to Miss Beland's declaration was filed before Judge Ben M. Bond.

Following the trial before the late Judge Kerr, in which Miss Beland was awarded $1,000, O'Neill carried the case to the Appellate court, where it was reversed and remanded. It probably will be called for trial some time in January.

FINED FOR ENTICING GIRLS.

Judge Newcomer Sends Two Boys to Bridewell and Fines "Blind" Hotel Clerk.

Ralph O. Powers, 20 years old, a salesman, and James Rafferty, 18 years old, who were arrested on Oct. 20 for enticing young girls into the Pardue hotel, 201 Wabash avenue, were each sentenced yesterday to serve one year in the bridewell. A. J. Fuller, clerk of the hotel, was fined $100. "It is such men as you," said Judge Newcomer in passing sentence, "that ruin the young girls of Chicago, and as a lesson to others I will now sentence you and also fine the intentionally blind clerk."

OLD CAPTAIN DROWNING VICTIM

Andrew Larson's Daughter Identifies Body Found in Drainage Canal as That of Father.

The body of the man found floating in the drainage canal at Willow Springs, Ill., Tuesday afternoon was identified yesterday as that of Andrew Larson, 50 years old, 1162 Perry street, a retired lake captain, missing since Oct. 10. Anna Larson, a daughter, identified the body. A coroner's jury which held an inquest at Lamont decided Larson came to his death as the result of accidental drown-

PHONE FOES MAY CHANGE PROGRAM

Opposing Aldermen Are Suspicious of Action in Committee of Whole.

NO ROLL CALLS THERE.

Report to the Council Might Be Rushed Through by Resort to Previous Question.

The council committee on gas, oil, and electric light has been called for Friday. Then the subcommittee named to investigate the tunnel of the Illinois company will make its report, which will be sent to the council next Monday night. According to the agreement at the last meeting this means that the Chicago Telephone ordinance will be brought up for some kind of action on Monday.

This agreement was that both the telephone ordinance and the report on the tunnels shall be considered together in committee of the whole, and the program yesterday was to set a date some time next week, when a special meeting of the council could be held for the purpose. This program, however, may be overthrown.

Small Chance for Amendments.

Members of the council who have amendments they wish to make to the telephone ordinance are beginning to think twice over this proposition of having the ordinance and report taken up and passed on in committee of the whole. In such a gathering there are no roll calls and no record is kept. Chairman Young of the gas, oil, and electric light committee would naturally be chairman of the committee of the whole and would decide the fate of every amendment under the gavel on a vive voce vote.

It has been contended that when the council reconvenes after the committee of the whole it could undo all the work that committee had done and reconsider the amendments the chairman of the committee had declared defeated, but on the other hand, if the chairman in making his report to the council cared to move the previous question, and it is the usual proceedings in such cases, and had the necessary thirty-six votes back of him, that would be the end of all chances of getting a roll call on any amendments.

What's the Use? Opponents Ask.

The opponents of the ordinance are asking what is the use of a committee of the whole if it simply means making two bites of a cherry and considering the ordinance first in committee and then again in council meeting, while at the same time they are taking chances of having an ordinance they do not like rushed through on them.

MIMIC FOREST IN FLORAL SHOW.

Exhibit at Coliseum to Be in Naturalistic Manner—Plants Worth $1,000,000 Will Be Displayed.

Posters for the flower show to be held by the Horticultural society of Chicago in the Coliseum Nov. 6 to 12 were distributed yesterday. There will be $1,000,000 worth of rare flowers and plats on display.

The executive committee has in hand plans made by a dozen landscape architects and gardeners for the arrangement of exhibits on the Coliseum floor. The best ideas from each plan will be adopted.

It has been decided that in general the show shall be laid out in the naturalistic manner as opposed to the formal. The floor, one acre in expanse, will be covered with sod and ferns, palms, bamboos, pines, and other vegetation will make the Coliseum look like a forest. One hundred wagon loads of sod have been engaged.

School children will be attracted to the show by the "City Beautiful" exhibits and by displays of especial interest in their "nature study" course.

NO INTIMIDATION OF WITNESS.

L. S. Mossler Convinces Judge He Did Not Urge Girl Not to Prosecute Alleged "Masher."

L. S. Mossler, connected with the United Woolen Mills company, who, Miss Stella Madigan, 6121 Madison avenue, said, had asked her not to prosecute Daniel Green for flirting with her, denied the charge in an affidavit presented to Judge Newcomer in the Harrison street court yesterday. Judge Newcomer, who had threatened to have Mossler arrested on a charge of attempting to intimidate a witness, said he was satisfied Mossler was innocent.

J. T. HARAHAN ON WAY EAST

Harriman Forces Will Decide on Method of Breaking Deadlock.

The Chicago-Kansas City and the Chicago-Denver passenger train schedules are to be cut. Announcement of this was made yesterday by the Alton and Burlington officials, and while the other roads have not announced their intentions they probably will be forced to adopt the same schedules.

This is in reality the resumption of the former schedules, which were lengthened last June. The present schedule to Kansas City is fourteen hours and to Denver thirty-two hours. The new schedule will be thirteen hours to Kansas City and thirty hours to Denver. Both the Alton and the Burlington officials assert their roads have lost business since the longer schedule was dopted, the principl competition being from the California trains of the Santa Fé and Rock Island.

Harahan Goes East.

President J. T. Harahan of the Illinois Central left for New York to attend a directors' meeting. It will be decided what method the Harriman forces will adopt to break the deadlock occasioned at the annual meeting. Harriman is known to favor a direct answer to the injunction suit and it is believed this answer will be filed early next week.

The annual meeting of the Santa Fé will be held in Topeka today. Nothing but routine business will be transacted. The four directors whose terms expire and who will doubtless be reelected are: Charles S. Gleed, Topeka; Victor Morawitz, New York; H. R. Duval, New York, and T. F. Fowler, New York.

George T. Slade, son-in-law of J. J. Hill, has been appointed general manager of the Northern Pacific. Mr. Slade, who has been superintendent of the Great Northern, will succeed H. J. Horn and have charge of the eastern division.

Traffic Club's Banquet.

E. E. Clark of the interstate commerce commission is to be the guest of honor at a banquet given tomorrow night by the Traffic club of Chicago at the Grand Pacific hotel. The subject of Mr. Clark's address will be "Car Efficiency," and the same topic will be discussed from the railroad standpoint by Arthur Hale. E. B. Boyd of the board of trade will discuss the subject from the industrial point of view.

Announcement was made by A. S. Weinsheimer, secretary of the Pullman company, that a quarterly dividend of $2 a share had been declared and will be paid on Nov. 15.

F. A. Lehman, chief clerk in the office of Second Vice President Kendrick of the Santa Fé, has been appointed superintendent of transportation, with headquarters here.

ABANDONED BABIES ARE FOUND

Girl Left in Express Wagon, Boy in Vacant Shed—Both Are Sent to Orphan Asylum.

Two babies abandoned by their parents were found in Chicago yesterday, one in an express wagon, the other in a vacant shed, and now are being cared for at St. Vincent's Orphan asylum.

A 3 weeks old girl was found in a wagon at the rear of the home of Mrs. Martin Kesais, 103 Rees street. The child wore a gray woolen hood with red ribbons and was wrapped in a gray shawl.

John Kasperiti, 172 West Twelfth street, found a 2 weeks old boy in a shed at the rear of his home. The infant was lying on a pillow and was wrapped in a quilt.

SONGS IN THREE LANGUAGES.

Mikas Petrauskas, Lithuanian Exile from Russia, Will Appear at Chicago Concert.

Songs in French, Russian, and Italian will be sung by Mikas Petrauskas, a noted Lithuanian singer, at a concert to be given in Music hall, Fine Arts building, on Nov. 17.

Petrauskas, who is a graduate of the St. Petersburg Conservatory of Music, was formerly a member of the imperial opera at St Petersburg. Because of political disturbances he left the country over a year ago and traveled through various countries in Europe. He came to the United States about two months ago and has given concerts in eastern cities.

In Chicago he is the guest of Dr. K. A. Butkiewics, 3309 Calumet avenue.

STOPS WORK ON ELECTRIC LINE.

Deputy Commissioner Redieske Says Poles of St. Paul Road Are Not According to Ordinance.

Work on the construction of the St. Paul's electric line north of Pratt avenue was stopped by Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Paul Redieski yesterday. Complaint was made that the poles were being erected along the parkway on Southport avenue, instead of in the street.

"The poles are of wood and slant outward from the parkway," said Mr. Redieski, "which spoils the appearance of the avenue. The ordinance provides that plats shall be submitted and approved before the work is begun. We have not received these. I shall also insist that iron poles be used instead of wood."

Swiss, 600 Years Free, to Celebrate.

The United Swiss Societies of Chicago will celebrate the six hundredth anniversary of the "Schwur im Ruetli," or the freedom of Switzerland, next Sunday in North Side Turner hall. Arnold Hollinger, Swiss consul in Chicago, and Dr. Vogel, Swiss minister in Washington, will make addresses.

Fines Woman $25; Sixty Days in Jail.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Carrie Egerz was fined $25 and sentenced to sixty days in jail by Judge Vail today for failing to testify in the Kurtz disbarment proceedings. Her excuse was that she was too nervous to appear.

D. A. R. TO UNVEIL MONUMENT.

State Organization Plans Ceremonies at Fort Massac Early in November—Gov. Deneen May Speak.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Seventy-five delegates, ten of whom are from Chicago, attended the opening sessions of the eleventh annual conference of the Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution at the Broadway Presbyterian church here today. The report of the committee on Fort Massac at Metropolis, Ill., was given by Mrs. Hickox, who stated that it is hoped the unveiling of the monument erected there by the state organization will occur the first week in November. The society has been waiting for Gov. Deneen, who has been too busy to attend heretofore. The report of the state historian, Mary C. Todd of Oak Park, contained a memorial reference to Mrs. Frances A. Lackey, elected historian at the last meeting, but who died during the year.

Every Now and Then

Some money seekers, without knowledge of food values, think they can "fix up something," hire some "advertising expert" and make a fortune in a "Coffee Substitute."

In the past 10 years more than 100 such schemes have been started and failed, because the schemers have been imitators and ignorant of food values and have relied upon foolish statements to mislead persons who have been hurt by coffee and seek some relief.

When a man or woman finds coffee acts badly with them, causes indigestion, heart palpitation, kidney or bowel irregularities or unbalances the nervous system, and common sense dictates that coffee be left off, they will not turn to a coffee substitute "fixed up" by some dollar chasers who know absolutely nothing of the science of dietetics. On the contrary, just as one would seek the most skillful physician when ill, these people turn to the food drink—Postum—because they know it to be the one and only cereal coffee made by food experts of undoubted skill and trained experience.

As an illustration, one of these imitators of Postum announces that no "worthless bran" is used in making its imitation of Postum. That statement alone is prima facie evidence of the dense ignorance of such people.

In making Postum the wheat is milled so as to separate the thick outer coat and use it, because it is the part of the wheat which carries the most valuable rebuilding elements, the phosphates which Nature uses to join albumen and water in the human body to rebuild the soft gray filling in the nerve centers and brain. That's the only way to rebuild the nervous system, broken down by coffee.

The ignorant imitator does not know this nor does he know why in making Postum the browned whole wheat berry is ground and blended with the heavy bran coat.

Remember, Postum is not a "substitute" for coffee. There is no true "substitute" for coffee. Coffee is a thing by itself, it has no "substitute." Postum is a thing by itself, a pure food drink heavy in nourishment. It has its own cereal fragrance and its own flavor, incidentally much like the snap of coffee, but it is not a "substitute," it stands alone, it is Postum and nothing else.

One awful example of the ignorant imitator, intimates that "one cup" of the imitation will suffice. This is aimed at Postum's advice to use Postum 10 days and observe the change. New cells in broken down nerves cannot be rebuilt from "one cup" no matter what imitators may claim.

The rebuilding elements of the kind Nature requires and which are found in Postum must be furnished to the body at least 10 days and better 60 days to make sure.

Ignorance and pretense may flash their tinsel for a time and offer prizes to reward people who purchase imitations, but neither the ignorance nor the prizes will rebuild broken down nerve cells, and ultimately the public finds it out and the imitators join the army of derelicts and failures.

The growth of Postum steadily increases year by year as the people come to know the fundamental facts and prove their truth by practical, personal experience.

CLEAN THE FACTORIES.

Chicago, with its soft coal fuel, is a manufacturing city. But in spite of soft coal and the grumblings and rumblings of machinery, Chicago is figuring on the accomplishment of a "city beautiful." Then why not begin with the factory? If there is one type of building which is allowed to grow dingy and down at the heel, as a mere matter of course, it is the factory. In recent years the architect has been allowed to display his art in some of the modern structures, but when he is done with the building smoke and soot and dirt usually claim it, inside and outside. It is only a factory building.

It is too much, perhaps, to expect the brick and stone exteriors of the factory building to be kept clean. But is it too much to expect of the manufacturer that he keep the windows of his plant in a condition which shall leave it short of an eyesore to a whole community? Everywhere in the factory and warehouse districts are acres of window glass which have not been cleaned for years. To the eye of the man in the street these windows might be made of corroded zinc. To the workman inside they are repelling, deadened inlets of a gray something approaching light. In the winter season a glance in the direction of a window, smeared, cobwebbed, and befogged with the grime of months, must suggest depression in some degree upon the most stolid.

Why not clean the factory windows? Clean the windows of the warehouse, the packing and shipping house, and all other windows in all other houses where men are forced to work year after year. Clean windows would be an unconscious stimulus to thousands of workers. The influence of light upon the human anatomy and its functions is coming to be understood. There are persons who cannot work in the darkrooms of the photographic plate manufactory because of the influences of the red lights which must be used in order to preserve the sensitiveness of the plates. Vegetation in the dark bends and crawls for light. Chicago should clean its unsightly windows that tend to light-starvation of men and women. It would be worth while as an economic experiment.

TRAINING OF OFFICERS.

Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood is credited with saying, "Education is the first duty of the soldier." The Boer war showed the deplorable consequences of the lack of a body of soldiers expert in all the details of their profession and enthusiastic students of the art of war. In America the need of officers trained to command has been recognized since the earliest days of the republic in the establishment and maintenance of the military academy at West Point. In the civil war one reason for the prolongation of the combat was that in the two armies West Point graduates were facing each other.

Regular army officers are encouraged to continue their studies. A kind of postgraduate course is prepared for them in the war college and in the elaborate war game of German invention. They are associated with other men of the same profession, and expecting to spend their lives in the army have every incentive to fit themselves to assume the highest command. Not every man in this profession, any more than in any other, comes up to the expectations of those interested in him. America, like England, expects every man to do his duty, but different men see their duty differently. Still it may be said that the typical regular army officer is a man who has had the advantage of training in the finest military school in the world and has advanced in knowledge and judgment every year since he received his commission.

The organized militia of the several states presents a different spectacle. Officers are elected by the men they are to command, sometimes because of known military aptitude, more often because of general popularity. The national government, which will not appoint a consul or an engineer or a clerk without an examination, interposes no objection to the commissioning of a militia officer who in the case of war might have upon his shoulders heavy responsibilities towards the nation. The state, which allows no one to practice law or medicine without years of preparatory study, puts the command of armed men into the hands of officers who may or may not be fit to assume the duty of protecting life or of taking it.

Something has been done by the national government to increase the efficiency of the national guard in the different states. A fortnight's drill along with regulars in the summer maneuvers is worth something. But there is need of systematic effort to make sure that all state military officers are the best men to be found for their respective commands and that they are daily growing more fit to command troops in war. This systematic effort might take the form of an examination preliminary to a commission, a prescribed course of study in engineering, tactics, mathematics, languages, transportation, and so on, and promotion based upon proficiency. Some other better plan may be suggested by which to encourage if not to compel militia officers to approximate as closely as possible the professional training of regular army officers, but in one way or another it should be done. The states spend in the aggregate immense sums on their organized militia. They are not getting their money's worth at present.

CHICAGO BANKS SOUND.

No depositor in a Chicago bank need be uneasy because of the financial situation in New York. Chicago banks are sound. They are conducted on conservative lines. They are influenced by none of the speculative conditions which have brought trouble to New York concerns. For these reasons the difficulties in the latter city only serve to emphasize the solidity of Chicago banks and to strengthen the impression of the wisdom and conservatism of their management, which has been growing steadily for some years.

For more than ten years there has been no notable speculation in this city which has affected the soundness of the banks. There have been some instances of attempts by individuals to make deals of one kind or another, but these have not involved the banks. The New York situation is the result of making loans without sufficient collateral or of making too large loans in aid of speculative enterprises. In Chicago not only has there been no notable speculation but loans have been guarded with unusual care. For nearly a year the Chicago banks have been holding down their loans. They have used their influence to prevent unwise expansion of business, and in general have pursued a careful and conservative policy.

When banks connected with certain enterprises of an individual became involved in difficulties a few months ago their business was quietly taken over by other banks, the transactions hardly making a ripple in financial circles. The clearing house at once instituted a special examination of its own to supplement the work done for state banks by state officials and for national banks by government examiners. When one bank was discovered to be conducting its business in a somewhat irregular manner it was forced to close its doors.

The establishment of this special examinership has not only resulted in a financial situation always clearly understood by the clearing house committee but it has added a new safeguard to banking whose value has been recognized in other cities where this new "Chicago idea" has been adopted as a marked step in advance. No higher tribute to the conservatism of Chicago banking institutions could be paid than by the quick enthusiasm with which wise financiers in other cities have hailed this special examinership.

If these features of banking in Chicago were insufficient to warrant confidence in the men and the methods controlling the situation there would be the condition of the tributary country as conclusive evidence. From all parts of the central west the same story comes. The people have money. They have been paying off their mortgages. They have had several years of abundant harvests. They are well off in spite of the happenings in Wall street.

There is abundant reason, therefore, for the positive declarations of leading Chicago bankers that there need be no fear of financial disaster here. Confidence and security are apparent everywhere in this vicinity. The unsavory scandals of recent months which have shaken public faith in the integrity of the managers of New York houses have had no reflections in Chicago. There is ground for thinking that this city will gain largely among financiers because of the superiority of its banking methods and the honesty and conservatism of the men who control its money affairs.

UNGUARDED CHURCH TREASURE.

Notwithstanding the publicity given to the matter of the looting of churches by the confession of the arch criminal, Thomas, the work of sacrilege and plunder goes on as merrily as before and hardly a day passes that some church does not report a loss from the exploits of thieves. So great has been the amount of plundering that the director of the Metropolitan museum in New York has expressed the belief that all the sacred relics found in museums have been stolen originally from the churches in which they were placed for inspection or adoration.

But after all the wonder is not that so many churches have been looted but that anything of value has escaped the clutches of the robbers. For at the best these treasures are insufficiently guarded, if guarded at all, and he must be a poor rogue indeed who cannot avail himself of the opportunity to enrich himself at the expense of devout worshipers. It cannot be overlooked that with the progress or deterioration of the world man has lost not a little of the superstitious fear which served so long as a safeguard for church decoration and worship. If there was a time when a superstitious burglar fancied that an offended deity would launch a thunderbolt at him if he despoiled a church that time has gone by, and now a Christian place of worship is hardly more secure from the depredations of thieves than would be a Chinese temple unlocked and unguarded.

In short, many of the churches offer direct inducements to thievery. They are loaded down with magnificent works of art and filled with treasure which either is openly exposed or carelessly and insecurely put away where the most bungling operator could obtain it. Then both church and treasure are left to the mercy of the first cunning rascal who chooses to exercise his roguery. At an Italian church within a week thieves walked in and stole a necklace "composed of twenty rows of jewels." Why such a necklace should be left in a sacred edifice at the mercy of any wandering thief it is difficult to understand. And why, in the face of these repeated and easy robberies, any one should fancy that thieves are respecters of places or religious sentiments it is impossible to explain. It is highly proper that churches should be made the depository of appropriate works of art and means of decoration, and it is much to be regretted that the bump of veneration is not more highly developed in the light fingered gentry. But it must be reasonably clear to priest and layman that if churches are to retain their treasures it will not do to depend on the influence or moral principles or superstitious fears as safeguards.

DIRECT PRIMARIES IN THE SENATE.

The lower house at Springfield has passed a direct primary bill with an emergency clause which will make it effective without delay. That is what the people want. They demand a direct primary law because it will give them the right to make nominations instead of choosing between the nominees of bosses and party machines.

A report comes from Springfield that the senate will pass the bill, but without the emergency clause. If the senate is going to pass the measure it should pass it by a two-thirds vote and make it effective without delay. There is no sense in deferring the time when the people will be able to enjoy the free expression of their will. If the law does not become effective now confusion will result and the next conventions of both parties will produce the sort of contests over delegations which have disgraced the politics of the state in the past.

The people of the state expect the upper house to respond to their wishes. The senators who oppose primary legislation which will be immediately effective will have to reckon with their constituents. The game is not worth the candle. The people are going to get a direct primary law because they want it, and no wise man will make the mistake of postponing the time when it will become effective by fighting the emergency clause.

The northern Michigan farmer was about to sit down to breakfast when two frazzled, dilapidated, forlorn wayfarers knocked at his kitchen door.

"We're half starved," they said. "Our balloon came down in a cornfield about six miles from here, and we've tramped through the mud till we're tired out. Can't you give us something to eat?"

"Your balloon?" said the farmer. "Where are you from?"

"From St. Louis."

"St. Louis in Missouri?"

"Yes."

"Well," said the farmer, eying them with suspicion, "I'm from Missouri, too. You'll have to show me the balloon."

C. W. T.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As a daily patron of the "Alley L," I was glad to note your timely editorial in yesterday's issue in regard to signs—or the lack of them—on the sides of coaches of that road. From every point of view—except, perhaps, that of the "Alley L" management, which no doubt has some selfish reason for noncompliance with this popular demand—there seems to be no possible excuse for the puzzle scheme which this road has inflicted on a long suffering public. Even those who, like myself, have become familiar with the various lights and pasteboard devices, often find themselves on the platform in time to catch a train the signals of which are out of sight, and the guards and platform men have got through calling, leaving the bewildered passenger the alternative of taking by chance the wrong train or waiting for the next one. There would seem to be annoyances enough on this line, with the frequent stops, slowing ups, and their loop troubles, without adding those that are entirely unnecessary. WOODLAWN.

Medical Advice.

The public nowadays has no need to complain of lack of advice on medical problems. But whether the numerous counselors who so freely offer their gratuitous recommendations form a guarantee of safety is another question. It is possible that confusion, rather than knowledge, is the most prominent result of their efforts.—London Hospital.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

COUNT NIGRA'S memoirs, which were to have been published shortly under the title of "Life and Correspondence of Count Nigra," have been destroyed. It is added that the count himself consigned all his correspondence and his memoirs to the flames not long before his demise last summer. The news comes from semi-official and authoritative quarters at Rome. But while it is tolerably certain that the memoirs will never see the light of day, some skepticism quite naturally will be entertained with regard to the story that they had been reduced to ashes by their author.

At the time of the demise of the count in July last I mentioned in these letters that as he had devoted the last five years of his life following his retirement from the post of ambassador at Vienna to the compilation of his memoirs and correspondence, and had put his heart into the work, this wonderfully interesting memorial of his notable career would soon be on the market, since it was all ready for publication in the exact shape in which its author wished it to appear. For fifty years or more he had been one of the most important figures in European history. As secretary, and then the principal lieutenant and close confidant, of Cavour in the creation of united Italy, Italian ambassador in France throughout the greater part of the reign of Napoleon III., the preux chevalier of Empress Eugénie, whom he rescued at the Tuileries in September, 1870, and conveyed through the mob to safety in the house of her American dentist, the late Dr. Thomas Evans, afterwards the representative of his country in London, St. Petersburg, and Vienna, regarded both at home and abroad as the nestor of diplomacy and of statecraft, and a favorite of the great world in all the capitals where he had been stationed, possessed moreover of a most facile and gifted pen, and celebrated for his wit, his memoirs would have been of absorbing interest and would have constituted a most enlightening contribution to the elucidation of the history of the second half of the nineteenth century.

That these memoirs existed, that Count Nigra was proud of them, and that he looked to them to keep his memory green is shown by the fact that they were a favorite theme of his conversation during the last years of his life in the so-called House of the Four Winds at Rome, where he was fond of reading extracts from them to his friends and acquaintances. At one of these readings he gave some interesting data regarding the death of Crown Prince Rudolph, he having been Italian ambassador at Vienna at the time of the tragedy of Meyerling. It is difficult, therefore, for any one who knew the count to believe that he himself destroyed all this work, which had been to him a labor of love, and it is impossible to refrain from the conviction that if the memoirs no longer exist they have been destroyed by other hands, and that they have shared the fate of the most interesting portion of the memoirs of Crispi, and of the latter's most important correspondence, which mysteriously disappeared shortly after his death and which are missing, therefore, from the volumes of his life which are now being placed upon the market.

At the time of Nigra's death I expressed in these columns the fear that powerful influences would be exercised not only in Italy but also by foreign courts, statesmen, and society to avert, if possible, the publication of his long heralded memoirs and to prevent at all costs the disconcerting revelations which they were known to contain. These influences, it would seem, have proved efficacious and the memoirs of Nigra have apparently gone the way of certain of Crispi's journals and batches of letters which mysteriously disappeared from his desk immediately after his death, the envelopes in which they had been contained being found stuffed with meaningless scraps of newspaper and showing evidence of having had their seals broken and of having been clumsily reclosed. The fate of the memoirs of Crispi and of Nigra is, however, that to which the posthumous memoirs and correspondence of every great statesman, leading diplomat, or high court dignitary is exposed, and to escape which the late Prince Bismarck sent all his diaries and his correspondence, especially that portion thereof relating to the reign of the present emperor and to the circumstances in connection with his own downfall from power, to England, where they still remain. That Nigra's memoirs would have been of an infinitely more sensational character and would have created far greater consternation in high quarters if published than those of Prince Hohenlohe is certain.

Emperor Francis Joseph is not the only member of the house of Hapsburg whose health is a matter of grave concern. Archduke Ferdinand Salvator is also critically ill, beyond hope of recovery, and with his death there will disappear the title of grand duke of Tuscany, by which he has until now been known. Born considerably over seventy years ago, he was a young man of 23 or 24 when his father, Grand Duke Leopold II., abdicated in his favor the throne of Tuscany in the vain hope of preserving it to his family. The Tuscans would not, however, hear of any continuation of the Hapsburg régime and were particularly averse to Ferdinand, who had excited their indignation by his excesses of every kind, and in particular by his treatment of his first wife, Princess Anna of Saxony, who was universally beloved at Florence, and indeed throughout the grand duchy. So his subjects drove him out of his capital on the Arno to seek refuge with his father and his other relatives in Austria, voting for the annexation of his dominions to those of King Victor Emmanuel of Sardinia in 1860.

Since then Grand Duke Ferdinand has made his home altogether in Austria, maintaining a sort of miniature court at Salzburg, and treated in Austria with all the honors due to a foreign sovereign. He stands near in the line of succession to the Austrian throne. Next to Francis Ferdinand, the heir apparent, are the latter's two young nephews, Charles Francis and Maximilian, sons of his second brother, the late Archduke Otto, then his third brother, Archduke Charles Louis, who, infatuated with the daughter of Prof. Czuber of the Vienna university, swears that he will never wed any one unless he can marry her. After that comes the only surviving brother of Emperor Francis Joseph—namely: Louis Victor. But he has long been afflicted with softening of the brain, and for several years under restraint as an incurable paretic in one of the imperial châteaux near Salzburg. Next to him in the line of succession ranks the now dying grand duke of Tuscany. The grand duke, in addition to his other maladies, has also become blind, and his condition has been aggravated by the latest escapade of his erring daughter, the ex-crown princess of Saxony, and also by the recent divorce and remarriage of his eldest son, ex-Archduke Leopold.

The grand duke, who has become religious in his old age, cannot fail to see in the scandals that have overtaken his two eldest children retribution for the excesses of his own youth, and also a certain amount of atavism. Their mother, the present grand duchess of Tuscany, is the daughter of that infamous sovereign duke, Charles III. of Parma, the scandals of whose private life were so unspeakably vile that when murdered in 1854 while engaged in an unsavory intrigue neither his family nor his government took any trouble to bring his assassins to justice, deeming it best for the dynasty to refrain from making any attempt to raise the veil of semi-mystery enshrouding his fate.

The grand duke of Tuscany's mother, that is to say, the grandmother of the ex-crown princess of Saxony, and who died only nine years ago, was the sister of King Ferdinand II. of Naples, popularly known as "King Bomba" and as "king of the Lazzaroni," and renowned as the most profligate sovereign of his time, while Bomba's mother in turn was the dissolute Queen Caroline of Naples, the friend of Emma, Lady Hamilton, and evil genius of Lord Nelson. From this it will be seen that there is plenty in the ancestry of the ex-crown princess of Saxony and of her brother, now known as Leopold Wolfling to account for their deficiency of moral sense and propriety.

It is the grand duke's second son, Archduke Joseph, who in default of his elder brother will succeed to the chieftainship of the so-called Tuscan branch of the house of Hapsburg and to his father's estates. The Austrian government has set its face against any assumption by Archduke Joseph of the title of grand duke of Tuscany, which will therefore at the death of its present holder become extinct.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Burton Holmes in Vienna.

Vienna was the objective point of Burton Holmes' journeyings last evening in Orchestra hall. He had a goodly company to guide, for the house again was sold out, which means that some 2,500 people accepted his leadership to the famous Kaiserstadt. The Austrian empire was entered at Linz and a few glimpses of the Danube as it flows Viennawards were obtained. Next came the entrance to the city at the Franz Josef quai, and thence, of course, everybody went to the Grand hotel.

The chief architectural wonders of the Ring strasse were pictured, and several motion pictures gave a chance to watch Emperor Franz Josef performing various public functions and marching bareheaded in the Corpus Christi procession. The motion films of this latter great festival cortège were taken only to show the monarch, however, which is in a way unfortunate, for a section devoted in part to the military spectacle side of it would have been interesting and beautiful. The Hungarian magnates on horseback, for example, dressed in their magnificent national costumes would have been of value, for anything more splendid is not to be found in western Europe.

Life in the Kärtner Strasse and the Graben, and interesting bits here and there throughout the city were shown, and then were projected on the screen eleven more of the lantern slide reproductions of master paintings such as the lecturer introduced in his "Berlin" travelogue last week. These eleven were from Berlin also, the German artist not having prepared any slides of important pictures in the Viennese galleries. The reproductions are skillfully made and were interesting and attractive. A motion picture of the primitive, picturesque sprinkling carts that are familiar to every visitor to Vienna closed the first half of the lecture.

The second half took the travelers far away from Vienna proper. Bits of the Vienna Woods followed a glimpse of the Prater, and then came climbs up the Raxalp peak, cinematographic trips up and down the Schafesberg and the Mendel were taken, Ischl, Gastein, and Salzburg were visited, a plunge into the salt mine being an excursion made from the last named town, and then came a skip to the Gross Glockner peaks. Here there was climbing of mountain heights, and some motion pictures taken by Mr. Depue of the ascent to the peak of the Gross Glockner itself. The motion and mountain pictures were uncommonly good, being clear, distinct, and effectively taken. They are unmistakably genuine and therefore have worth, and they reflect great credit upon Mr. Depue and his photographic prowess and skill.

The travelogue will be repeated tomorrow evening and Saturday afternoon in Orchestra hall.

Vaudeville.

Another bill of general, all round excellence is being offered this week at the Majestic, where the stellar attractions are Miss May Irwin, Miss Zelie de Lussan, and Fred Walton. Miss Irwin's contribution to the entertainment differs but slightly from that given last week, only two of her songs being new. Miss de Lussan, bedecked and bejeweled, sings a group of three songs, two of which are in English. Her voice remains an organ of beauty, and she sings artistically and with taste and understanding. Her advent into "the continuous" marks one of the important vaudeville events of the season, and, in combination with the other attractions on the current bill, make capacity houses the rule.

Fred Walton, the English pantomimist, whose work in "The Babes in the Wood" brought him into prominence in this country, provides a half hour of jolly fun by appearing in a fantastic playlet called "Cissie's Dream." In it he takes the part of the toy soldier, and in pantomimic eloquence makes clear each thought and speech without once using his voice. It is a remarkable achievement, and proves that in his line Mr. Walton is an artist.

Emmett Corrigan and company have a far fetched sketch, called "His Wife's Picture." It is crudely written and indifferently acted by all save Mr. Corrigan, whose rôle is that of a man about town. Willard Simms has a boisterous farce bearing the alliterative title "Flinders' Furnished Flat." The principal motif for the funmaking is found in the frantic efforts made by an amateur paperhanger. Of course he succeeds in getting more paste on his clothing than on either the paper or wall, but it is all exactly to the liking of the audiences and almost hysterical laughter greets the piece throughout.

Sydney Deane and company are still appearing in "Christmas on Blackwell's Island," which has been seen here before. "The Gainsborough Girl," a novelty musical act, the Arlington Four, a messenger boy quartet, the Austins, eccentric comedians, and Mlle. Marguerite and her trained horse and pony are among other features offered.

The second week of vaudeville at the Auditorium is progressing under conditions quite as prosperous as those which characterized the opening week, for every afternoon and evening there has been present an audience which crowded every part of the spacious playhouse.

Miss Vesta Victoria continues to exert her charms and her popularity grows apace. She sings a number of new songs from her extensive repertory, including "Grace Darling," "It Ain't All Honey," "The Artist's Model," and "Man, Man, Man." The latter number proves to be the most popular of her offerings, although demands were made for "Poor John."

Among the newcomers this week are Miss Josephine Sabel, James J. Morton, and Kara. Miss Sabel gives several imitations, including those of a Parisian chanteuse, a Cockney singer, and Miss Cecilia Loftus. Kara, the juggler, does some extraordinary feats, but owing to nervousness or some other cause his performance at times lacks precision and confidence. James J. Morton is the laugh provoker, and it would seem that with his usual budget of nonsense he could hold the stage the greater part of the evening.

The O'Kabe troupe of Japanese acrobats in a series of acts display the suppleness, the deftness, and the celerity customary to their race. Kelly and Ashby offer a tumbling act entitled "Fun on a Billiard Table." A curtailment of a portion of it would result in a decided improvement, for at present there is too much repetition. Greene and Werner, with an elaborate scenic setting, appear in "The Babes in the Jungle," a harmless divertissement.

The one really artistic number on the bill is that given by the Dumond Parisian minstrels, a trio of singers and musicians who can sing and play in a refined and entertaining fashion. Ida Fuller repeats her fire dance, which is a lavish display of lighting and scenic effects. The concluding act is called "A Night in the London Slums," and is played by a Karno pantomimic company. It is noisy, meaningless, wearisome, and coarse.

W. L. HUBBARD.

JUDGE LANDIS' FIRST PRACTICE.

[From Appleton's Magazine.]

"All a man needed to practice law in Indiana," says Judge Landis in an article by John T. McCutcheon, "was to prove that he was 21 and had a good moral character." Both of which were and are easy to prove in Indiana. Law and politics travel hand in hand down there, and it is not surprising that we next find him engaged in a hot political fight. He vigorously supported a friend who was elected secretary of state in Indiana, and as a reward he "accepted" a position in the secretary of state's office. He staid there two years and then began to practice law at Marion, Ind.

After a short time, by a simple and direct process of reasoning he arrived at the conclusion that something besides age and a moral character is required by one who would be a successful lawyer. Nature had denied him the commanding bulk and profound manner that often pass as a substitute for legal learning in small towns, so he went to a Cincinnati law school for a year. His senior year was spent at the old Union College of Law in Chicago.

"I was weak on 'pleading and real property,'" he says, "and when the time for my examination approached I knew that I would have to show my hand. So I went to Judge Booth, in whose department those branches of the law were taught, and confessed that I was not strong in them.

"'Young man,' said the judge grimly, 'am I to understand that you are under the impression that you are imparting to me any exclusive information?'"

George Westinghouse, the Inventor, Hero of a Romance in Real Life.

Troubles That Have Come Upon His Enterprises Offer One More Difficulty for Genius to Overcome as He Has Done in the Past with Both Financial and Mechanical Problems.

AMID the troubles that have come suddenly upon the Westinghouse company the figure of the genius that built the concern looms up majestic and potential.

He is the hero of a romance in real life, and those who have followed the romance from the beginning expect to see him emerge soon from the darkened chapter in the wonderful tale and "live happy ever after."

This hero—George Westinghouse—invented the air brake and revolutionized steam and electric power, and the world has learned to look to him for marvels. There are those who confidently expect to see him touch this newest problem with the wand of his extraordinary genius and once more wrest success from hard conditions.

For financial difficulties are not new to George Westinghouse. They are merely one class of the legion of obstacles that have gone down before his indomitable will, his inspired resourcefulness, and enormous capacity for hard work.

Crash Averted in 1890.

Once in 1890 the Westinghouse company stood in trouble. In the midst of a desperate warfare in the courts and the money markets with his great rival, the General Electric company, Mr. Westinghouse discovered mismanagement and leaks in his own company. He discharged the general manager and other employés and set about repairing the damage. He failed to raise the necessary money from Pittsburg bankers, who turned a deaf ear, but he succeeded in New York, where he was unknown. He reorganized the company on a better footing than ever.

His interests have multiplied twenty fold since that first financial setback, and have grown far beyond his personal supervision. The George Westinghouse of today stands either at the head or in indirect control of thirty corporations representing an aggregate investment of more than $100,000,000 in cash. There are nineteen Westinghouse companies in the United States—some of them, however, now forming parts of combinations—one in Canada, three in England, one in France, one in Russia, and one in Germany. Of fifteen of these Mr. Westinghouse is president, and of all of them the directing head. His personal fortune is reckoned at $50,000,000.

Genius of Westinghouse.

Many are the great generals who have conquered empires of business built up by others. But Westinghouse is one of the few who conquer the wilderness and transform it into civilization. His genius is comprehensive. At once he is a great inventor, remarkable organizer, and a resourceful financier.

Not only has he wrought a life that is an Aladdin tale in itself, but he is one of a few men who have made the history of America an industrial romance. Of him it has been said that "with his air brake he has saved more lives than Napoleon lost in all his battles," while with his wonderful devices in the utilization of electricity and natural gas he revolutionized the manufacturing methods of the world and helped place the United States in the front rank of all industrial advance.

At the age of 61 Westinghouse is still possessed of boundless energy. A giant in stature and strength, with great hands scarred by daily work in the experimental shop, he is the embodiment of incessant hard work. His day is filled with the activities of three ordinary men—so busy is he that he rarely dresses for dinner without a stenographer within hearing, receiving the dictation of correspondence.

Born an Inventor.

Westinghouse was born with a genius for invention, his father before him having had no small talent in that direction. Before he was 16 years old young Westinghouse had built an engine. After a generation and a half is still working at that engine.

It is related of him that recently at a Fifth avenue dinner table he suddenly broke off a conversation, became preoccupied, and finally produced a note pad, on which he began to sketch. To the inquiry of a friend he explained that he was recording an idea that had come to him in connection with the rotary engine—perhaps the secret for which he had been searching forty-five years.

It is an example of the curious irony of fate that Schenectady, N. Y., where the young inventor got his start in life, is now known to the world chiefly for the location there of his militant rival, the General Electric company. The works of this company, which has developed the patents of that other wizard of the mechanical world, Thomas A. Edison, are situated across the street from the old factory of the Westinghouse family, in which George and his only living brother, Herman, received their training.

Begins with Rerailing Frog.

The circumstances under which Westinghouse came to leave Schenectady to his future competitors illustrate the traits that have won him success. One night, in his twentieth year, after coming home from the war, he was returning from a visit to Albany when the train was delayed by the derailing of a freight train ahead. The young man watched the efforts to get the cars back on the track with disgust and showed the workmen that what they needed was a rerailing frog.

He returned home, made some frogs, and with two other men who put up $5,000, started his first factory to manufacture the invention. He held the patents in his own name, however. When the device was fairly on the market the partners demanded that he make over the patents to them. Westinghouse refused and the partners seized the business, which, without the young inventor, soon went to smash.

Westinghouse immediately removed to Pittsburg, where he became a salesman for Alexander & Woods, a steel casting firm, that took up the rerailing frog and made it a success.

The idea of the air brake came to the young man in this same year. In one of his trips between Schenectady and Troy he witnessed a bad train wreck—a head on collision on a piece of straight track. The danger had been seen by the engineers in good time, but the hand brakes could not be set soon enough to avert the disaster. Westinghouse began to study out a device by which the brakes could be controlled from the engine cab.

Air Drill Gives Idea for Brake.

First he tried automatic brakes attached to the couplers, then he tried steam, but all to no avail. Finally one day he picked up a magazine and read of the use of compressed air in driving the drills that were cutting the Mont Cenis tunnel out of solid rock.

"I've got it," he exclaimed, tossing aside the magazine and beginning to sketch rapidly the plans of the application of compressed air to railway train brakes.

It was difficult to get a trial for his invention, but finally Ralph Bagley guaranteed the payment of the foundry bill for the first apparatus, which was installed on the Steubenville accommodation train. It received its initial trial unexpectedly. As the train rounded a curve the engineer saw a wagon wedged between the tracks some distance dead ahead. The advertised time for the trial of the airbrakes had not arrived. It was too late to stop the train by hand brakes. The skeptical engineer turned on the air in desperation. The passengers were thrown out of their seats by the shock, but a wreck was averted.

The crude device, which was an old Worthington pump, was finally perfected and adopted on the Panhandle. The Pennsylvania followed suit, and then all the railroads rushed into line. The young inventor organized the Westinghouse Air Brake company, with himself, at the age of 23, as president and general manager. The next four years became a phenomenal campaign of salesmanship conducted by the young president, and ending with the introduction of the device abroad. Westinghouse worked incessantly on the improvement of his invention until he brought it to the perfection in which it is known throughout the world today.

Credits an Invention to Wife.

Westinghouse developed the transmission of natural gas through pipes, but he gives the credit to Mrs. Westinghouse. The wife of the inventor wanted gas in her Pittsburg house and Westinghouse began experimenting with a well in the back yard. Gas was struck and as a result of his experiments he perfected a scheme to bring gas to the big manufacturing centers in small pipes at high pressure and distribute it in large pipes, in that way reducing the pressure to the safety point. He put an end to the disastrous explosions, leaks, and "blowoffs."

The inventor next turned his attention to electricity. One day he read of the experiments being made by the English electricians, Goulard and Gibbs, with the alternating current by which electrical energy could be sent long distances. Westinghouse at once dispatched Franklin Pope to England to buy the American rights to the invention. This done, he seized on the idea, developed it, and from that time dates the great strides made in the use of electrical energy. Electric lighting became almost universal within a few years, the trolley car appeared, and electricity began to turn the wheels of great factories. All these things were made possible by the Westinghouse alternating current device.

Forms the Electric Company.

The Westinghouse Electric company was formed to carry on this branch of the inventor's activities, and with that Westinghouse began to loom up as an industrial and commercial organizer. He formed companies in England, France, Germany, and Russia—companies that today employ an aggregate of 15,000 men and control 15,000 patents, 300 of which have sprung from the Westinghouse brain.

In the management of his companies Westinghouse, though personally simple and democratic, has been called dominating to a degree. The criticism has been made that the stockholders of the companies never are given reports, and the directors never meet. But the usual answer to this has been the argument that the stockholders receive dividends that are substantial and regular, while the directors repose implicit faith in their great general.

Value of Westinghouse Concerns.

George Westinghouse and his associates control in one way and another at least eight different manufacturing corporations. Four of these, however, are absorptions. The four concerns that are operated separately are the Westinghouse Air Brake, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Machine company, and the Canadian Westinghouse Air Brake company. Including the last named corporation, the total amount of stocks involved is $49,843,700 and the bonds $26,673,000, making a total of $76,516,700.

The securities may be set forth as follows:

	Stocks.	Bonds.
Electric and Mfg. Co.	$29,994,700	$24,278,000
Air Brake company	10,000,000
Machine company	6,000,000	2,395,000
Canadian West. Air B.	3,849,000
Totals	$49,843,700	$26,673,000
Total stocks and bonds		$76,516,700

Earnings of the Companies.

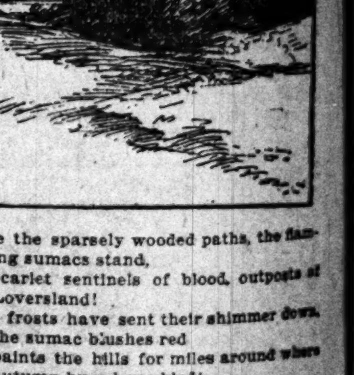

Earnings of all the companies are not made public. Only those of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the Westinghouse Air Brake company have been announced. In the case of the manufacturing company the gross sales are given, they being $30,659,579 for the last fiscal year. Net sales of the Air Brake company are reported at $10,546,397, the total announced being $41,205,976.

The original company was the Westinghouse Air Brake, organized in 1869. This ran along until 1898, when the American Air Brake company was acquired. About the same time the Boyden Air Brake company of Baltimore was acquired. Then the business began to grow, and in 1872 the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company was organized. Its title indicates the product it turned out. In 1898 this concern acquired the Walker company of Cleveland. In 1881 the Westinghouse Machine company was organized. The Manufacturing company has large plants at Pittsburg and Allegheny City. The Machine company has plants at Pittsburg and Trafford City, Pa., and at Attica, N. Y. In 1906 the Westinghouse Machine company purchased the Nernst Lamp company for $3,000,000.

The air brake has been extremely profitable to its stockholders. In 1895 22¼ per cent was paid on the stock. In 1896 40 per cent. In 1897 35 per cent. In 1898 45 per cent. Latterly, as patents expired, the dividend rate was lowered until it has been 10 per cent.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has varied in its payments from 6 to 10 per cent. On the capital stock of the machine company dividends have been at the rate of 6 per cent.

THE FLAMING WAY.

Beside the sparsely wooded paths, the flaming sumacs stand,
The scarlet sentinels of blood, outposts of Loversland!
When frosts have sent their shimmer down, the sumac blushes red
And paints the hills for miles around where autumn hues have bled!

The oak, turned russet-brown and gold, rears backgrounds, rich and deep;
The grape draws sap and spurns her leaves to everlasting sleep.
The maple takes the purple tint, then oriole and red—
But ever brighter, grander far, the sumac lifts her head!

Through rocky dell, beside the lake, or where the road leads on,
The deep vermilion of the west, the sumac bushes don.
The blood of all her race she throws unto the autumn's sway
And stands triumphant in the wood, the flaming torch of day!

And neath the conflagration shed on tracery divine,
The lover feels his pulses throb with warm affection's wine—
And hard be heart of sweetheart fair that will not grant his love,
If he but speak when sumac flames leap up to skies above!

Close in his arms in Loversland, he holds her to his breast—
The color of her cheeks and lips bespeaks the sumac's crest—
And there within the autumn wood, he wins her heart for aye—
With sumac over all the hills and heaven in the sky!

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD

Miss Catharine Cullom Ridgely to Be Married This Noon.

IN CHURCH AT WASHINGTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson of England Coming Tomorrow.

The marriage of Miss Catharine Cullom Ridgely and Mr. Phelps Brown, which is to take place at noon today in Washington, possesses more than the usual interest to Chicagoans. Miss Ridgely is the granddaughter of Senator and Mrs. Cullom and the daughter of William Barrett Ridgely, who left Chicago to make his home in Washington in 1901. She is yet claimed by Chicago as one of its young women, and Mr. Brown is well known among his bride's Chicago friends, having spent a few years in the city.

The service is to be said at the Church of the Covenant, the Rev. William H. Casey to officiate. A breakfast for the bridal party, relatives, and immediate friends will follow. The decorations in the church will consist entirely of pale pink cosmos, palms, and ferns. The bride's gown is of heavy white satin and is trimmed with the rare duchesse lace which was on her late mother's wedding gown twenty-five years ago. The gown is made in empire style, with a long train. The bridal veil is of tulle and the diamond crescent with which it will be caught to her hair and a pearl necklace will form the bride's jewels.

The bride's sister, Miss Eleanor Cullom Ridgely, a December débutante of the Washington season, is to be the maid of honor. Her gown is of pale blue liberty cloth made empire and embroidered in pompinian work. She will wear a Gainsborough hat of black velvet trimmed with long plumes and will carry an armful of pale pink cosmos. The bridemaids, Miss Catharine Stewart Williams of Chicago and Miss Gertrude Folwell Brown, a sister of the groom, will wear pale blue broadcloth gowns trimmed with Irish lace. Their hats are of black and they will carry black lynx muffs instead of flowers. Mr. Sevellon Ledyard Brown will attend his brother as best man, and the ushers are Mr. George Lewis Huntress Jr. of Boston, Mr. Raymond Durham of New York, Mr. Charles Bradley, Mr. George Minnegerode, Mr. Francis Bennett Poe, and Mr. J. A. C. Palmer, all of Washington.

The bride's mother died some years ago. Her father recently married Miss Katherine Deering of the navy set of Washington, and the bride and maid of honor of today served as maids of honor at their father's wedding. At the service today Mrs. Ridgely will wear moleskin velvet and sables, and Mrs. Sevellon Brown will be costumed in black velvet with duchesse lace, Mrs. Shelby M. Cullom's gown will be of black velvet and rose point lace, and Miss Fisher will wear mauve satin.

The bride, who was introduced to Chicago society a few seasons ago, has spent much of her life in Washington and in foreign travel. She is a niece of Mrs. William A. Vincent of this city, under whose care she was presented in Chicago. Mr. Brown is a Washington man, the son of the late Mr. Sevellon Brown of the department of state and a grandson of Commodore Phelps.

In the bridal party are two bridal couples-to-be, and the bride and groom of today will return to Washington on Nov. 2 in order to be present at the marriage of Miss Gertrude Brown and Mr. Huntress. Lord Brampton will remain in Washington until Nov. 3 as the guest of Mrs. Sevellon Brown in order to perform both ceremonies. The wedding of Miss Williams and Mr. Poe will take place in Chicago in the spring.

The bride and groom will be at home after Dec. 1 at the Livingston, Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson of England are expected to arrive in the city tomorrow, and during the week or ten days of their stay they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Millard of Highland Park. Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson is a famous suffragette of England and was a leader of the charge which recently added interesting history to the movement in England—in fact, she was one of the women who spent the night under arrest after the charge. This zeal is causing Mr. and Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson and their American friends some amusement at this time, for one of the first questions asked visitors from the other side, before they are permitted to land, is "Have you ever been in jail?" and plans are being made whereby Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson will be in no danger of being turned back. She is the daughter of Richard Cobden—the preservation of the famous name being the cause for its being hyphenated by Mr. Sanderson.

The plans for their entertainment are not completed as yet. On Saturday the Caxton club will give a luncheon at which Mr. Cobden-Sanderson will be the guest of honor. At the same hour Mrs. Millard will give a luncheon at the Woman's club in honor of Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson, and at 4 o'clock the rooms of the Caxton club, in the Fine Arts building, will be thrown open for a reception to the members of the club and their wives and women friends, including the Woman's club. On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Millard will entertain at their home in Highland Park, and on Tuesday Mr. Cobden-Sanderson will lecture at the Art institute, giving a talk at the Woman's club on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Harold McCormick, 88 Bellevue place, will entertain at luncheon tomorrow in honor of Miss Marjorie Burnes, who is to be a bride of next week.

Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney, 1625 Prairie avenue, will give a reception Saturday, Nov. 30, introducing her daughter, Miss Annie McBirney.

Mrs. Alfred Martin Castle will give a breakfast at her home, 1765 Sheridan road, on Monday, Oct. 28, in honor of Mme. Faron and Mlle. Faron of Paris.

Mrs. William Dunn, 594 Division street, will receive on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 29, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Miss Caroline Mills will give a Halloween party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lanin Mills, Graceland and Clarendon avenues, Thursday evening of next week.

Miss Catherine Jones, daughter of Mr. David B. Jones, will give a dance at her home in Lake Forest on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyllys W. Baird, 1915 Wellington avenue, will introduce their daughter, Miss Katherine, to society at a reception on Nov. 2.

After an absence of a year from the city, Mrs. Theodore Sheldon has returned and will soon reopen her house at 33 Bellevue place. Mrs. Sheldon spent last winter in New York to be near her daughter, who was attending Rosemary hall, and the summer months were spent in Colorado.

The announcement made by John R. Bensley of the approaching marriage of his sister, Miss Martha S. Bensley, to Robert Walter Bruere, which is to take place on Oct. 28 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Clinton Conklin in Olean, N. Y., is of special interest to the south side circles and the literary workers of the city. Miss Bensley is the daughter of Mrs. Augusta Fuller Bensley and the late John R. Bensley of 3983 Ellis avenue, and has won success as a contributor to eastern magazines. Mr. Bruere likewise is a magazine writer. Mrs. Bensley joined her daughter in New York some six months ago. Only the immediate family will be present at the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruere will live at 3 Fifth avenue, New York.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Mary Mayo, daughter of Mrs. R. S. Matheson, and Mr. Royal Lincoln Phelps was celebrated last night at 8 o'clock at the family home, 4534 Woodlawn avenue. The Rev. Herman Page officiated. The bride wore a gown of white radium satin trimmed with duchesse and renaissance lace and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Frances Mayo, the bride's sister, who was the maid of honor, wore pink moire trimmed with pink lace and net. Miss Alice Adelaide Mayo, another sister, serving as bridemaid, wore a similar gown and both carried pink roses. Mr. Clarence Scofield was the best man and Mr. Charles Nims the usher. A reception followed. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps will be at home after Nov. 15 at 210 Fifty-third street.

Prof. H. C. Coffeen of Armour institute and Miss Ida W. Felkner of Iowa City, Ia., were married there yesterday afternoon in the Presbyterian church by the Rev. D. W. Wylie. The bride was the professor of piano in the University of Iowa school of music.

REUNION AT GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Skinner Have Family Together for First Time in Many Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Skinner, for many years residents of Chicago and Lake Forest, will celebrate their golden wedding next Sunday, and for the first time in many years the family will be gathered in reunion. The six children are all living. They are: Mrs. Thomas Hayes Harmer of New York, Edwin Skinner of Seattle, Wash.; James H. Skinner of Pittsburg, Pa., and Mrs. Henry W. Thurston, Frederick M. Skinner, and Miss Marie A. Skinner of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner will entertain their children and grandchildren and a few relatives at dinner next Monday evening.

Mr. Skinner was born in 1824 in Prattsburg, N. Y., was educated at Oberlin college, working his way through that institution, and being graduated there with the class of 1849 and from Andover seminary in 1852. He married Miss Lucy Whitney Howe of Troy, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1857. They went to Lee, Mass., where they lived until 1862, when they came to Chicago, making their residence in Michigan avenue, near Sixteenth street. During his residence in Chicago Mr. Skinner was an elder in the First Presbyterian church, then in Wabash avenue, near Congress street. In 1869 he became financial secretary for Lake Forest university, then just beginning, and moved his family to Lake Forest, where it remained for the next thirty years.

When in Chicago Mr. and Mrs. Skinner make their home with their son, Frederick M., 1425 Eastwood avenue. They will start soon for the south to spend the winter.

For Each Woman, According to Her Needs.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

Pillow in Needle Point.

A pillow cover which is prettier after each time it is laundered and which is pretty, effective, and simple to make is made of half a yard of white lawn. Divide the lawn into three and a half inch squares and draw threads in these allowing for a seam. Hemstitch squares of equal size (allowing for the hem) beyond the three and a half inches. These are to be used in alternate spaces on the pillow, with the plain blocks described before.

On the hemstitched blocks draw two lines which cross each other at the center and which reach almost to the corners. On each side of both of these lines draw two more lines an inch from the center one. These lines should be continued until they touch the other two lines. This forms a square two inches wide and two long, which contains four smaller squares whose dimensions are one inch. Cut each line, but do not cut at the intersection of any two lines. This will make sixteen cuts or slits in all. Fold each line in the shape of an oval and button hole around the opening. This process will leave sixteen buttonholed slits. This buttonholing leaves loops and the opposite loops are connected and the threads fastened securely.

The squares are then fastened together and a three inch ruffle made.

To Lengthen Infants' Dresses.

In finishing infants' or children's skirts that button on shoulder make two buttonholes on each little flap about two inches apart. This enables one to lengthen or shorten the skirt from the shoulder to suit different dresses.

Clothes for Teddy Bears.

One shop is showing a rubberized coat for a doll made of red silk material. The coat is much like those of grownups, with side pockets, double cape effects, and double breasted front. Caps for dolly can be had of rubberized material and come in all colors and several grades to match the automobile coats.

Coats of silk and sateen are to be had for "Teddy." They are attractively made and finished with velvet collars. Cunning jumper overalls come in toy sizes for dolls and bears and in larger sizes for children between 2 and 6 years of age. They are convenient for children's wear, as they can be slipped over a child's skirt or trousers to protect them from getting wet or dirty while playing. The coats come in red, blue, tan, and white, and in pretty checks.

With the Girl Workers

Energy Wasted in Regrets.

Everybody knows her, the woman who "never had to work before in all her life." Nearly everybody feels sorry for her, and in one light her case is pathetic, but this woman is living in the present and what she needs is not sympathy and pity, but a little common sense advice.

I heard a woman say the other day that she was hopelessly out of place in business, she never could feel at home anywhere except at the piano or in an art class. But fate and a cruel landlord had taken away the piano and the art class followed.

If you can make the art class and the piano pay your bills, by all means go back to them. Don't expect to succeed in the business world while you are spending valuable time feeling sorry for yourself. The sooner you give up thinking and talking about the things which are out of the question for you, the more energy you will be able to throw into the thing you can do and the more quickly will you reach a financial point which will allow a little time for things "worth while." Drop bygones—forget the time you did not have to work and work now with a will to bring out the best there is in you.

For the Woman That's Fat

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest thing a fat woman, who wants to get thin quickly, can take is one-half ounce Marmola (get it in the original ½-oz. package), one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and three and one-half ounces of Syrup Simplex. It should be taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime by adults and in half teaspoonful doses after meals by children.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist's at small cost and are not only excellent as a fat reducer, but really beneficial to the system as a whole, helping to overcome blotches and pimples and purifying the blood at the same time. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work, and another welcome feature is no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.—Advertisement.

BIG GAME HINGES ON PAIR OF BOOTS

Kicking of Capron and Steffen May Decide Chicago-Minnesota Contest.

BOTH TEAMS ARE STRONG

Maroons and Gophers Considered to Be Better Balanced than Last Season.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

With the annual game between the elevens of Chicago and Minnesota less than ten days away, the veteran players, whose past feats on the line scored fields enable them to grow a trifle facetious when discussing their favorite sport, already are referring to the coming contest at Minneapolis as the "battle of boots." So certain are they that kicking in its various football phases is to be a prime factor in the struggle that careful comparisons between the spheroid hoisting ability of the Maroons and the Gophers are being made.

It is conceded that not in several seasons at least have the two rival universities been blessed with such a wealth of promising football material. The Chicago eleven as it stands today is a better balanced, faster, and more skilled combination than the Gopher team which defeated the Maroons last autumn in the Chicago lair. The Maroon team of 1906 was conceded to be considerably above the average in all around playing ability, and it was a severe disappointment to the supporters of the eleven when it failed to defeat the Gophers in the memorable 4 to 2 game last fall.

Now, however, the wise ones who have witnessed the play of the Maroons in the games to date this season say the 1907 team is a better one than its predecessor. It is pointed out that one or two weak spots in the Chicago line have been strengthened and that if they enter the game Nov. 2 in proper physical condition they will play better and faster football than they did a year ago.

The Gophers, on the other hand, did not wax enthusiastic over last year's combination, as did the Maroons over theirs, but this year Chicago is thoroughly supplied with the material from which to select a high class team to face Minnesota. One cause for the satisfaction is the fact Chicago freshman players of a year ago now are eligible to the varsity.

Second Year Men Promising.

The youngsters who formed the team were admitted on all sides to be of exceptional playing caliber, and the way in which they walked through the varsity at times fully demonstrated the correctness of the statement. Some of the players would have made the varsity in their first year had not the one year residence rule prevented them from trying for a varsity letter while members of the freshman class. All in all, it appears that when the Maroons and Gophers line up next month each combination will be one that will set a new football standard at their respective institutions.

This being the case, the coaches and those players who have made gridiron history in the past are now figuring what may be expected to develop in the way of offensive and defensive tactics during the seventy minute battle to be waged on Northrup field. Apparently both teams possess beef, brawn, speed, and the courage necessary to put up a right royal struggle in the Gopher arena. Victory, therefore, may hang on some feature of the play which, as a rule, is forced into the background by the charging and tackling linemen and the players in the back field. Those who have figured the coming contest to be one of this character are firm in the belief that the kicking of the Maroons' and Gophers' star toe artists will be the factor upon which victory will hinge.

They are, therefore, watching the work of the punters, goal kickers, and drop kicking stars with far more than usual interest. The rival teams appear to be equally supplied with talent in this direction. If there is any advantage, it is with the Gophers. With Capron to do the punting and drop kicking, Minnesota stock is rated higher than that of the Maroon.

Much Depends on Steffen.

Realizing this, Stagg, the wizard of western coaches, has selected Steffen as the man upon whom Chicago must base its hopes in the kicking duel which most certainly will occur. Steffen has shown in the past that he was no mean toe artist in sending the spheroid hurling through the air for long distances when punting, and could drop kick goals with more than average accuracy. Therefore on his shoulders will fall the brunt of the play in this particular line, and it will be a big disappointment to the Maroons if he does not fully uphold his end of the kicking argument with the old gold and maroon players from Minneapolis.

What this will mean can readily be seen by watching the work of Steffen in the games in which Chicago has figured. The Chicago quarter back, as a result of constant practice for the last three years, has developed into a remarkable kicker. His punts frequently travel forty to fifty yards and are extremely hard to catch because of the lack of the spiral motion, even when the catcher is not worrying as to what will happen when the Maroon ends hit him. The direction of his drives is also accurate, and if there is a weak spot in the defensive formation of the opponents' back field, that is the point where the ball is going to drop.

Page is considerably above the average in scoring goals following touchdowns, and usually can be depended upon to boot the ball over the bar from placement formation if called upon. This gives Chicago a two man kicking combination which is giving the Minnesota coaches considerable food for thought.

Remember Marshall's Toe.

The Maroons have not forgotten the game of 1906, when Marshall's unerring toe turned defeat into victory for the Gophers on that memorable day. Those who saw the feat which gave the game to Minnesota in the first half realize fully the importance of having an expert kicker at the disposal of the eleven when the battle wages hardest. Minnesota won the game last year and with it the western championship, but conviction is running high in the Chicago dormitories that the night of Nov. 2 will be one of Chicago celebration.

While the Minnesota coaches do not agree in this belief, they are leaving no stone unturned in the development of an eleven which can meet Chicago in all phases of modern football, and consequently there are bound to be strenuous hours of practice ahead for Quarter Back Capron, who will endeavor to stave off the aerial assaults of the Maroons with a little fancy toe work of his own.

SCHOOL ELEVEN LOSES STARS.

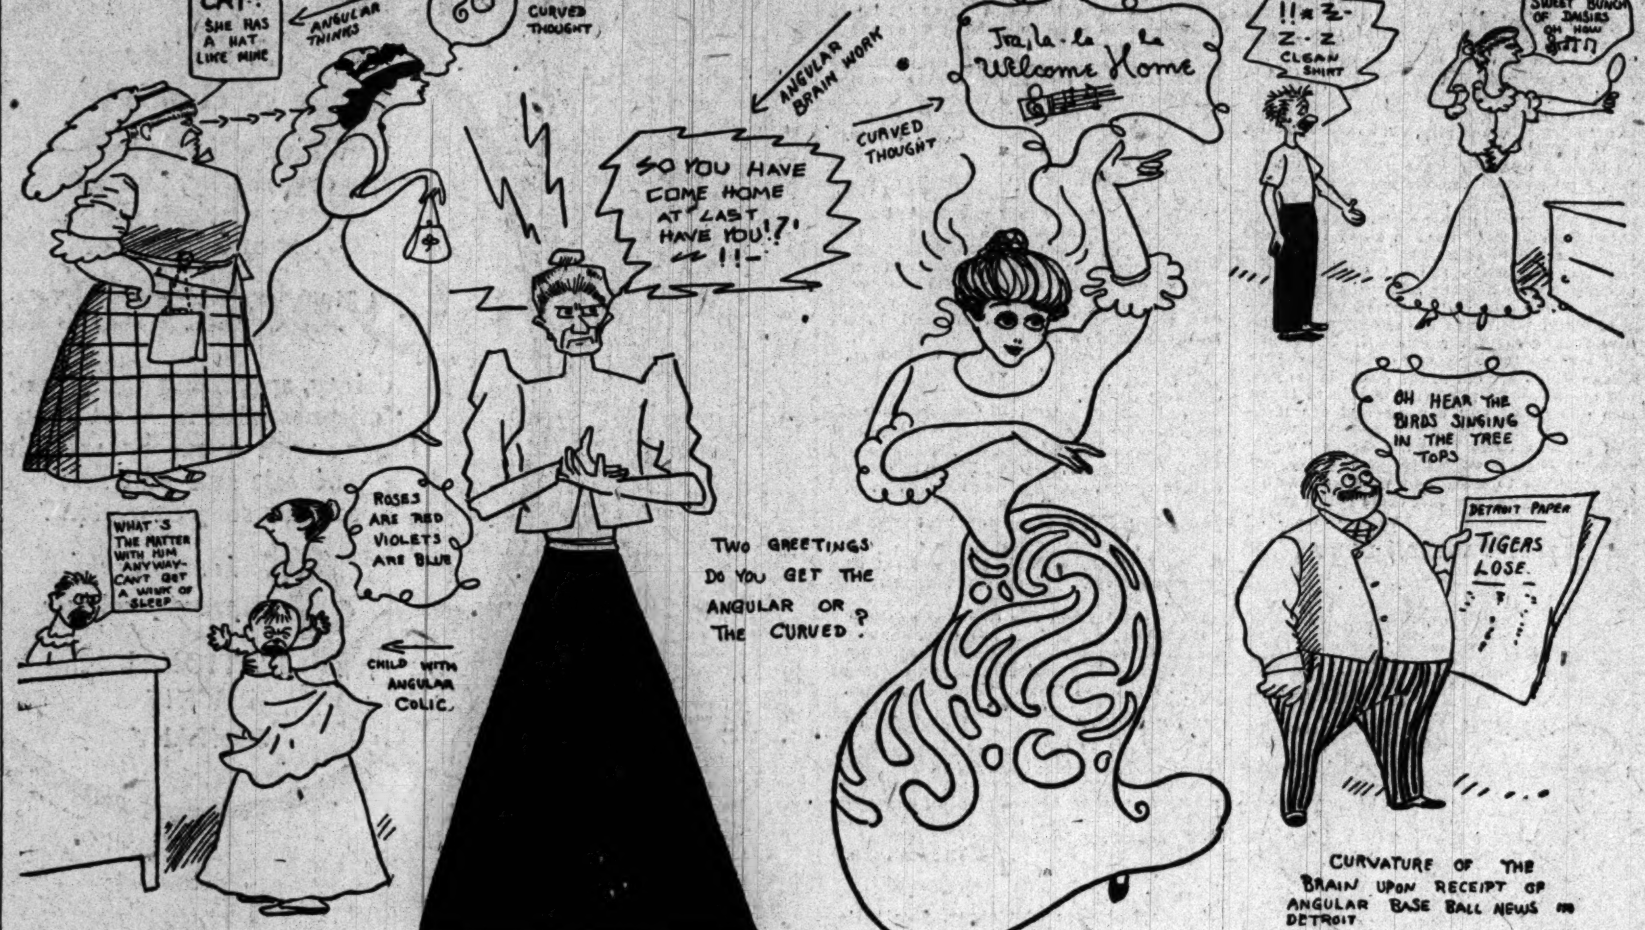

Wendell Phillips Circles Stirred by Reported Suspension of Captain and Manager of Team.

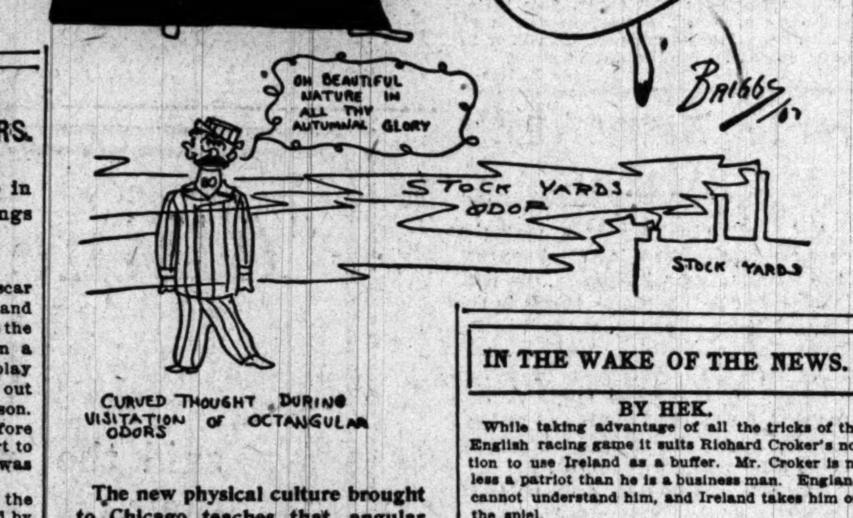

Athletic circles at Wendell Phillips were stirred yesterday by the report that Capt. Carl Du Beck and Manager Randolph of the football team had been suspended for two weeks by Principal Spencer Smith. It is said there is a disagreement between the principal and the boys over the studies which the latter are taking. Du Beck and Randolph are the stars of the eleven and their loss would mean much to the team. It also is feared the injury which Hayne sustained in last Saturday's game will keep him off the field the remainder of the season.

Get North Division Players.

The Morris Athletics, who will play the Eckersalls at Anson's park Sunday afternoon, have four former North Division players on the side. Dierssen and Johnson are the tackles, Huxman full back, and Wallace end. Gallagher, a former Ohio State player, and Egan of Knox college are in the team.

ESTHETIC PHYSICAL CULTURE—THINK IN CURVES AND BE BEAUTIFUL.

The new physical culture brought to Chicago teaches that angular thoughts produce unattractive faces and figures while "curved thought" creates Junos and Apollos.

STAR PLAYER BREAKS BONE; FULL BACK LOST TO BADGERS.

Oscar Osthoff Injured in a Game in Which the Freshmen Run Rings Around the Regulars.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Oscar Osthoff, full back of the Wisconsin team and mainstay of the Badger back field, broke the clavicle bone of his right shoulder in a scrimmage today and as a result cannot play against Illinois Saturday, and may be out of the game for the remainder of the season. The accident happened four minutes before practice closed, when Osthoff, in an effort to make the third down over right guard, was tackled by Boyd.

Osthoff was the best ground gainer on the squad. His place probably will be filled by Wilce, who has been playing sub full back. It is likely Muckleston will be moved to full back and Cunningham placed at Muckleston's half. With the loss of Osthoff Wisconsin's chances for defeating Illinois are greatly diminished.

At a football massmeeting to be held Thursday night the fight for intercollegiate athletics will be revived. The places of faculty members who withdrew from the program have been filled by alumni members and students. The speakers will be Voyta Wrabetz, George F. Hannan, Carl Hill, Michael Oldbrich, and Capt. John Messmer. The students are indignant at the suggestion of faculty members that athletic enthusiasm is artificial. The massmeeting Thursday probably will be the liveliest that has been held for years.

At a meeting of law students this morning a resolution was adopted favoring intercollegiate sports. A collection was taken up to pay for posters which will proclaim the law school's sentiment. The meeting was called to provide for a reading room, but when that matter was finished it turned into an enthusiastic athletic rally.

ILLINI ELEVEN DISHEARTENED?

Snap Is Lacking in the Scrimmage with the Freshmen and Coaches Are Disturbed.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Ginger was lacking in the long scrimmage given the Illinois varsity today, and as a result of the showing of the regulars the coaches wore long faces. The heart seems to have been taken out of the eleven by the Chicago defeat. Unless there is a remarkable change in form, it looks as if Illinois would be defeated in Saturday's contest at Madison, for which place they will start Friday morning. The freshmen, headed by Greiner, were an even match for their adversaries today, and tore some big holes in the varsity line, Bremner starring at this game. Bursten, the white haired half from Piano, made many gains for the first year men. The Illinois-Indiana game, set for Nov. 23 at Bloomington has been postponed until Friday, Nov. 29, at the request of the Hoosiers, who figured that a larger crowd could be attracted with the new date.

Lake Forest Beats Soldiers.

The Lake Forest college football eleven yesterday defeated the Fort Sheridan soldiers on the former's grounds by a score of 40 to 0. The Lake Forest team will play Beloit at Lake Forest on Saturday a week.

SUTTON GETS RUN OF 344 AT 18-2

Big Fellow Is Making Phenomenal Averages in Practice for the Match with Schaefer.

George Sutton, practicing for his 18-2 championship match with Jake Schaefer, last night made a run of 344, which excels the record at that style of game by 37 points. Sutton's run, however, does not constitute a record, as it was made in a practice game. George played the white ball against the black and in 812 points he averaged 31 with the white and 50 with the black.

At the Sennett—Schaefer scored 658 to Taylor's 305 in the afternoon. At night Schaefer scored 235 to Taylor's 200. High runs—Schaefer, 119, 125; Taylor, 72. Totals of the match now are: Schaefer, 2,198; Taylor, 1,600.

At Clarke's—Jackson scored 298 to Conklin's 182 in the second block of their 14-2 handicap match. Jackson averaged 23. Totals now are: Jackson, 500; Conklin, 482. Tonight Kent meets Simpson.

At Bensinger's—Bingham [250] defeated Wagner [190], 250 to 153. Bingham averaged 18 6-10 for the first ten innings. Tonight, Blake [235] and Collins [215].

At Mussey's—Campbell [175] last night defeated Thomas [175], 175 to 174, at balk line. Brown [225] and Huntley [175] play tonight.

At Foley's—Van Hafteen [200] defeated Collins [260], 200 to 185.

Tie Game at Roller Polo.

The Hyde Park and San Souci roller polo teams played a tie game at Sans Souci rink last night, neither side being able to score. Lineup:

Hyde Park.		San Souci.
Whittle	First rush	S. Garner
Baldwin	Second rush	Keppler
Melzer	Center	Plain
W. Garner	Half back	Drury
Yeager	Goal	Dake

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

E. B. Bradshaw yesterday won the Class B medal at Jackson Park, beating L. H. Hepner, 3 and 2.

E. B. Bradshaw won permanent possession of the Governor's cup at the Jackson Park club, defeating E. P. Zeisler, 3 and 2, in the final match.

The revised schedule of the North Shore and Western railway will go into effect today. Cars will leave Central street, Evanston, for the Glen View clubhouse every hour, beginning at 8 a. m.

In addition to the medal play handicap at Midlothian on Saturday there will be an 18 hole handicap for permanent possession of the Class A, B, and C medals, open only to members who have had possession of a class medal during the season.

The Glen View club announces an invitation mixed foursome, medal play handicap for Tuesday afternoon. There will be three prizes for men and three for women, for low gross and first and second low net totals. Members may invite as many guests from other clubs as they please.

R. Rea [18] won the Gillette cup at Homewood, defeating A. M. Barnes [20] 1 up, 19 holes. Rea won from W. T. Matthews [32] by default in the semi-finals, and Barnes disposed of H. M. Lane [27] 3 and 2. T. M. Hardie [16] defeated W. Lyman [18] 1 up in 20 holes in the semi-finals for the Autumn cup, and A. J. Mason [17] accounted for G. C. Nimmons [20] 2 up. In the play for the R. J. O. Hunter prizes J. R. Smith [16] defeated A. A. Turner [26] 2 and 1, and H. W. Lockett [7] disposed of G. C. Fry [20] 3 and 2.

COREY LEAVES MILWAUKEE ON FOOT JOURNEY TO CHICAGO.

Will Try to Break Record of 19:54 Established Years Ago by Henry Schmehl for the Distance.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—At 9 o'clock tonight four runners left on a pedestrian trip to Chicago in an effort to establish a new foot record for the distance, Albert Corey being the one slated for the record breaking stunt.

Corey was accompanied by Sidney Hatch, winner of the late marathon race at Chicago, and Fred Damarin, both, like Corey, wearing the First Regiment Athletic club colors, and F. R. Duffy of the United Athletic club.

Several interested sportsmen followed in two automobiles, Harry Schmehl being one of the party. He is the record holder, having done the distance in 19 hours 54 minutes. Last year Corey tried to break the record, but lost his way, and was forced to give up. This time he knows the route and expects to make a good run, particularly as he has a clear night to aid him.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF THE BOXERS.

O'Keefe Will Not Fight Tonight—Harris to Get Another Match for the Gary, Ind., Show.

BY GEORGE SILER.

Jack O'Keefe will not fight Otto Selloff at Gary, Ind., tonight as he saw no money in sight for his work. When Promoter Cal Harris signed him to fight he agreed, says O'Keefe, to divide 50 per cent of the receipts between him and Otto, but yesterday Cal informed him half of the money taken in was for protection, and the other half, which he promised to Jack and Otto, would have to be cut three ways—two-thirds for the fighters and one-third for the promoter. Asked how much that would net him (O'Keefe) Harris said: "With a full house about $90." As the fight was slated to go ten rounds Jack told him he could manage to exist without the possible $90.

Then Harris wanted Jack to box ten exhibition rounds, but Jack said he would not do that, as the crowd would expect a fight. Some of his own friends had arranged to go down to witness the match, and they would not go just to see an exhibition.

Harris tells a different story. He says he promised Jack 25 per cent or a guarantee of $150, and that the monetary end of the match was satisfactory to O'Keefe until last night, when Jack demanded a cash guarantee of $250, which was more than Harris could afford. Regarding the "go easy ten rounds" he said the authorities would not permit knockouts, and he told Jack he would not have to kill himself fighting. Harris paid Jack's training expenses, and says he would have landed him into the ring without Jack incurring 1 cent of expense.

The bouts will not be postponed, as Harris will either secure a substitute for O'Keefe or match a pair of other fighters to contest the windup.

The Badger Athletic club of Milwaukee has completed its intercity boxing program, which it will hold on Nov. 1. The windup pair selected is Johnny Coulon of Chicago and Young Fitzgerald of Milwaukee. Coulon holds two decisions over Fitzgerald, and hopes to make it three straight. The other bouts will enlist Johnny King of Chicago, "Kid" Wolgast, Milwaukee; Steve Kinney, Milwaukee; "Sailor" Kelly, Chicago; Willie Murphy, Chicago; and Billy Morehead.

The Abe Attel-Freddie Weeks featherweight championship fight scheduled to take place at Los Angeles on Nov. 29 is a fixture. Attel tried to flunk on the articles by asking Weeks to weigh 122 pounds with his fighting togs, and to cut the purse from 60 and 40 per cent to 75 and 25. The Weeks party would not agree to the change, and declared it would declare off the match unless Attel lived up to the agreement, and that Abe did yesterday. Weeks is a hard hitting little fellow and fairly clever, but is not so classy as the champion.

"Dusty" Miller, the speedy south side bantamweight, who has been out of the game for several years, will meet Danny Goodman in the semi-windup to the Jim Driscoll-"Young" John L. Sullivan windup at Peoria Tuesday night.

John Wille and Walter Nolan, who are charged by Thomas F. Little with obtaining $2,500 from him by what he charges was a fake fight at Cedar Rapids, Ia., were brought back to Chicago yesterday to answer to the charges made by the former alderman.

Central Cubs, 42; Crescents, 34.

In a well contested game the Central Y. M. C. A. Cubs defeated the Armour Square Crescents last night, 42 to 34. Lineup:

Cubs [42].		Armour Sq. [34.]
Froom	Right forward	Harringt'n-Hartl
Matter	Center	Hoffman

Field goals—Froom [7], Davenport [2], Matter [3], Herz, Harrington [2], Blake [6], Hoffman [2], Hartl. Free throws—Cubs, 12; Armour, 11. Points awarded—Armour, 1.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

While taking advantage of all the tricks of the English racing game it suits Richard Croker's notion to use Ireland as a buffer. Mr. Croker is no less a patriot than he is a business man. England cannot understand him, and Ireland takes him on the spiel.

If those who are designing to molest the ancient solitary reign of Palm Beach are denied an interest they will break up the game. 'Twas ever so.

Although proud of Frank Chance the citizens of Fresno cannot forgive him for shaking that beautiful bit o' climate for the raw winds of Ravenswood. What George Gore was to Sacarappa, Me.; what Mike Kelly was to Paterson, N. J.; what Cap Anson was to Marshalltown, Ia.; what Fielder Jones was to Shinglehouse, Pa.; and what Johnny Evers is to Troy, N. Y., Chance was to Fresno. Fresno still loves him, but it can't see why.

Among those who were ingulfed in the maelstrom of finance which swirled about the Knickerbocker Trust company was Ed Cole, hardworking writer of pieces for the pink and conscientious racing judge. Mr. Cole had his all in the Knickerbocker. The amount is not stated, but his consoling friends declare that he had no business with so much.

The only change in the modus operandi of the handbooking industry is that the victim is vouchsafed a slower and more merciful death. He has to wait until the next day for action.

Many of the entrants in the balloon race are dropping into towns that could not be reached in any other way.

If it be not asking too much we would request those Canadians to give us time to assimilate their lovely game of lacrosse before they put us up against hockey.

You would not think a dozen years ago that those scientific breeders of Kentucky would now be seeking an introduction to Barney Schreiber's farm.

We see it all now. The principle involved in balloon racing is the ability to pick out the proper air currents, and there we had it on the German entrants. They spent a long time going straight up, while we were cutting out a long lead sidewise.

Football enthusiasm seems to have been sterilized to death.

The main incentive in the college game is the unrequited search.

Considerable remains to be told about the latest baseball season. It will take a couple of months or so to elucidate the things that happened.

Did you ever see a Kerry man and a Limerick man hook up in a hurling match after the refreshments have been served between the first and second halves? No? Well, if the opportunity ever presents itself wear a raincoat and leave your address with the gatekeeper.

Mr. Corrigan, of course, will cut little figure in the conduct of the racetracks in New Orleans this winter, but, strange as it may seem, Col. Matt Winn does not seem at liberty to make any contracts with Mr. Corrigan left out. Mr. Corrigan has had a long letup, and he ought to be good and fit when the flag is hoisted over City park.

You don't need any dotted line to lead Izzie Hammerslag's eye to the main chance. Izzie tore up the betting ring at Belmont trying to lay off his account with the Knickerbocker Trust company at 4 to 5.

It looks soft enough in the middle weight division for Tommy Ryan to reconsider his determination to retire from the ring.

When it comes to judging a balloon race, the people on the ground are as much up in the air as the contestants are.

The sportive football wagering man can make a $1,600 noise with 10 per cent of that amount. Therefore, be prepared not to believe all you see in the papers.

We look for the glorification of the peanut on Nov. 2.

A constant, and consequently anxious, reader sends us the following communication: "There is some discussion as to whether the rabbit killed at Callahan's park last Sunday was tame or wild. I maintain that it was wild. Killian, who shot it with an incurve, was a game pitcher. If the animal was half tame, then Killian is a semi-pro. There's a whole lot in this. Go on with it."

Wins at Basketball.

St. James Brotherhood team defeated Hoyne Manual Training school "Captains" in a basketball practice game at the gymnasium of the former last night by a score of 54 to 20. Rouhu starred for the winners with ten field baskets and 6 field goals, while Skene made respectively six and two for the losers. Rouhu broke his nose, but finished the game.

BROKEN NOSE TO BE RESET; MORAN NOT YET ENGAGED.

Ball Player Tells the Real Reason for His Continued Stay in the City of Chicago.

Pat Moran, Fitchburg's world's champion backstop, will remain in Chicago for another fortnight or so to undergo an operation to straighten the bone in his nose, which was broken by a baseball just before the start of the training season this year.

When the injury healed last spring it left Pat slightly disfigured, but the operation to remedy the defect is a fairly simple one. Pat prefers, however, to have his nose rebroken and reset by an expert in Chicago, and will stick around until the original map of his countenance has been restored.

This anxiety concerning his countenance was the only cause ascertainable yesterday for the rumor in circulation to the effect Moran had followed the example of Overall and become engaged to marry a Chicago girl in the spring. Pat was kept busy issuing blushing denials to reporters part of the day, and after the fourth or fifth refusal of a request for the future Mrs. Moran's photograph he started for the club's offices with fire in his eye to ascertain the origin of the rumor, which he believes to have been started by some of the Cubs. Pat got no satisfaction at the office except the receipt of a letter from home announcing a ticket for the Yale-Harvard football game had been clinched for him. That mollified him considerably, as Pat is a great football fan, and those tickets cannot be bought with much money without a friend among the alumni of one of the universities.

Secretary Thomas still is paying back money to redeem the box seats for the world's championship game scheduled for Oct. 13 at the west side grounds and never played because the Cubs won the pennant before that date. More than 100 box seats, sold in advance for that date, still are in the hands of the purchasers and are coming in a few each day for redemption. This compels the secretary to keep a double entry cash account for the coin, which is held in abeyance awaiting the return of the tickets.

TIGER TRIBE DEFEATS JOLIET.

Detroit Misfits Win by Ten to Four Score—O'Leary Spiked in Ankle—May Not Be Serious.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Tigers of Detroit defeated the Joliet Standards today by a score of 10 to 4. A home run by Mike Donlin was the feature of the game. O'Leary had his ankle spiked, but the injury is not expected to lay him up long. Score:

Praise for White Sox Recruit.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Manager Hendricks of the Springfield Central league baseball team has officially confirmed the sale of Osteen to the Chicago White Sox. Osteen led the Central league in batting this year and was one of the best third basemen in the league. He came to Springfield from Indianapolis.

Clymer to Stay in Columbus.

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—William J. Clymer, under whose management the Columbus American association team has won three successive pennants, today signed a contract to manage the team next season.

GAMES IN BOWLING LEAGUES.

O'Learys Average 1,008 in the South Side Tourney, but Drop One Game to the Solos.

Although averaging 1,008, the O'Leary team last night dropped one game to the Solos, having the novel experience of losing with a score of 1,007. The Solos notched 1,022 in this game.

Flenner won a well contested series from H. Clarke at Steele's alleys in the Greater Chicago individual tournament, taking six out of eight games. Flenner now is tied with Shaw and Woodbury for first place.

The series in the South Side league rolled on the fast Monarch alleys was one of the best of the year. Walters led the losers with 226, the best figures for the winners being: Semones, 221 1-3; Bruck, 217 1-3; and H. Wolfe, 203. Scores:

BEST HORSE FAILS TO WIN

Southampton Handicap at Jamaica a Disappointment.

BAD RIDE FOLLOWS MISHAP.

Don Creole Stumbles and Buxton Loses Head, Faust Taking Race.

New York, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The running of the Southampton handicap at Jamaica today was a big disappointment for those who backed Don Creole. The colt was so much the best that with any kind of fair racing luck and a competent ride he probably would have won in a gallop. Buxton had the mount, and when the gate went up he got Don Creole away last. As he reached the lower turn Don Creole stumbled to his knees and Buxton escaped a fall by throwing his arms around the colt's neck.

As the boy regained his seat and stirrups he seemed to lose his head completely, for he cut Don Creole loose at the end of the turn and before another furlong had been covered the colt, with a terrific burst of speed, took the lead. After that he remained in front to the head of the stretch, where he began to tire as Gretna Green challenged and passed him. But Faust then moved up quickly and in a fierce drive won the race by a head, with Gretna Green three lengths before Don Creole.

Suffrage came back to her real form in the handicap for all ages. She picked up 125 pounds and went to the front at the head of the stretch. But she tired under the burden and had to be driven to win by a half length from Sewell.

Marster lasted long enough, under a hard drive, to win the second race by a nose, as Samuel H. Harris closed with a great rush in the stretch and would have won in another stride.

Youthful made the pace to the last sixteenth pole in the third event, where Arasee ran over him and won by a length and a half.

There was another dingdong finish in the fifth event. Kilter looked the winner at the sixteenth pole, but Lord Stanhope came up on the rail and in a terrific drive beat Kilter a nostril.

There was nothing to the last race but Carrollton, which led all the way and beat Onatassa by five lengths.

Jamaica Summaries.

First race, handicap, all ages, ¾ mile—Suffrage, 125 pounds [Miller], 3 to 1, won; Sewell, 123 [E. Dugan], 8 to 1, second; Lad of Langdon, 100 [Delaby], 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:13. Jack Atkin, Danoscara, Salvolatile, Chief Hayes, Number One, Hooray, Cloisteress, and Battleaxe ran.

MISS SAIN SOLD FOR $7,000.

Withdrawal of the Speedy Filly from a Latonia Race Lessens Interest in the Event.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Racing interest centered in the 2 year olds today at Latonia, a purse race at five and a half furlongs being the best class event. Miss Sain was withdrawn after "the lucky Dutchman" had exchanged her for $7,000 of Ed. Alvey's bank roll. This makes $12,000 Barney Schreiber has received this month for two fillies by Imported Sain, the other being Center Shot.

Without Miss Sain the issue was between the Don De Oro colt, C. W. Burt, and "Bub" May's His Highness filly, Please. The former was backed by talent and public from even money to 4 to 5. May and his friends bet on Please. It was no race. C. W. Burt did not have his speed and Please ran right off from him at once.

This evoked sharp criticism, though Jockey Shilling was not included. Apparently C. W. Burt was as much off edge as Light Wool, also from R. L. Thomas' stable, was on Monday.

Pat Dunne cut loose a good thing in the second race, a Watercress gelding named Firmament, which with Shilling up simply tincanned until the last half furlong, when he stopped as if short and was nipped by Ed Kane.

Without blinkers No Quarter showed improvement and won the first race. The third was a set up for Ed Alvey's Hazelthorpe, and the sixth for Jake Marklein's Beau Brummel. Summaries:

First race, selling, 11-16 mile—No Quarter, 98 pounds, [Pickens], 12 to 1, won; Ben Strong, 102, [E. Martin], 6 to 1, second; Annie Smith, 104, [Shilling], 9 to 5, third. Time, 1:07 2-5. Husted, Bensonhurst, Lightning Conductor, Hannibal Bey, Baryel P., Hughes, and Nifo ran.

Second race, selling, ¾ mile—Ed Kane, 92 pounds, [Walsh], 3 to 1, won; Firmament, 101, [Shilling], 4 to 1, second; Merrigo, 95 [Trueman], 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:28 2-5. Peoria, Uncle Tim, Black Dress, Heron, Synchronized, McAtee, Vansel, Tyrel, Complaint, and Speed Marvel ran.

Third race, ¾ mile—Hazel Thorpe, 100 pounds, [Shilling], 1 to 3, won; Miss Strome, 105, [Pickens], 13 to 5, second; Dog Rose, 103 [J. Lee], 30 to 1, third. Time, 1:14 1-5. Chase, Magistrate, and Natasha ran.

Fourth race, steeplechase handicap, short course—Itacatiara, 148 pounds, [McClure], 9 to 5, won; S. K. Slade, 140, [Wickline], 5 to 1, second; King Eata, 134, [Pollock], 2 to 1, third. Time, 2:58. Class Leader, Floral Artist, and Blackiock ran. Pendragon fell.

Fifth race, 11-16 mile—Please, 108 pounds, [J. Lee], 13 to 10, won; C. W. Burt, 111, [Shilling], 4 to 5, second; Ketchemike, 102, [J. Baker], 50 to 1, third. Time, 1:07 1-5. Little Osage, Balla, Financier, Kennewick, and Tigress Lily ran.

M'FARLAND GETS FIGHT DECISION.

Abe Goodman Loses in Ten Rounds of Furious Milling at Fort Wayne.

IS OF WHIRLWIND ORDER.

Big Crowd Is Thrilled by Lightninglike Exchanges of the Two Contestants.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—After ten rounds of fast and furious fighting tonight at the Princess rink the decision was given to Packey McFarland of Chicago over Kid Goodman, formerly of Boston, now located here.

The last round found both men still in good shape—Goodman in better condition than anybody had expected, as the betting was 10 to 7 against him.

The last round was a whirlwind, excelling anything ever seen in this city, the crowd of 3,000 being brought to its feet by the sensational work. McFarland opened with the evident intention of putting Goodman out. After a little sparring Goodman avoided McFarland's lead and the men clinched. McFarland then rushed in and there was a furious mixup, which wound up with another clinch, from which the men broke without either having apparently suffered seriously. McFarland then landed with left and right, Goodman replying with an uppercut.

Fighting Fast and Furious.

The men again rushed together and with one hand free began fierce infighting. Packey partly pinned Goodman against the ropes and worked his right like a piston rod into Goodman's body. The crowd looked on in wonder, expecting to see Goodman drop, but the local boy finally broke away and forced McFarland, who was winded with his exertions, into the center of the ring. Here they locked again and Referee Hogan had great difficulty in separating them.

As soon as he did so they clinched again, Goodman evidently keeping close to his opponent to avoid the latter's swings. He ignored Hogan's orders to break, and as fast as the latter would break the men apart, would clinch again. In this way the last minute and a half of the round was finished, McFarland trying desperately to land decisive blows at close range without effect, and at the end Goodman looked ready to take more of the same kind.

At the conclusion of the contest Goodman was the first to walk up and shake McFarland's hand.

Goodman Is the Aggressor.

Goodman was the aggressor in the opening round, but his left and right swings did no damage to McFarland, who replied with left jabs to the ear and face, which were followed by a clinch. Goodman landed a left to the wind, Packey replying in kind. Goodman then uppercut to the head and seemed to have, if anything, a shade on the round.

Early in the second round Goodman missed a hard swing and fell to the floor. Packey then began forcing matters, landing to the face, although Goodman got in one good one to the body. McFarland landed flush on the nose as the bell rang and had the better of the session.

A good right to the jaw by McFarland in the third round started serious trouble for Goodman, who immediately began to clinch in order to prevent McFarland from following up his advantage, and in this way finished the session.

The remaining rounds up to the tenth consisted chiefly in aggressive work by McFarland and clinching by Goodman, although the latter landed a hard right to the jaw in the eighth session.

In the semi-final Referee Hogan brought down a storm of catcalls upon himself for his decision in favor of Pat Kinnael over Lombard, who was thought to have had the better of it.

Jimmie Gardner will meet Jack Morgan of Indianapolis here on Nov. 15 before the Summit City club.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE

What Is Causing the Increase of Catarrh in Chicago?

In spite of the best efforts of medical men, catarrhal troubles are increasing not only in Chicago but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease, and to cure it germ life in the breathing organs should be destroyed, and to do this no other treatment has such positive and beneficial action as Hyomei.

When the mucous membrane is irritated and raw and the tissues weakened, there is an ideal lodging place for catarrhal germs. Breathe Hyomei and see how quickly it soothes the membranes, vitalizes the tissues and destroys all the disease germs, rendering catarrh no longer possible.

There is no dangerous stomach drugging when Hyomei is used; no tablets or liquid mixtures, whereby the digestion is often destroyed and intestinal troubles added to the horrors of catarrh.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every Hyomei outfit, the healing balsams penetrate to the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows.

We positively guarantee Hyomei, for should you buy a complete outfit, price $1.00, and be dissatisfied with results your money will be refunded. Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere. Write for literature.

Chicago Lawn

Adjoins Marquette Park.

Governor Deneen, in his address on the Town of Lake, referred to Chicago Lawn as a "second Hyde Park."
Land is high, 13 feet higher than the city hall, Hyde Park, or Englewood.
Soil rich, trees abundant, no saloons. People live in their own houses.
Will sell $600 for $400, until Jan. 1, 1908, $25 cash, $5 monthly; interest 3 per cent; two new houses just completed, $2,950, $3,900.
Want builders; very liberal contracts. We need 100 houses to supply the demand for 1908.
Single 5c fare on Grand Trunk, whose elevation is nearly completed; or take Chicago Lawn car on State-st.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AMALGAMATED COAL STOCK AT 7½C.

We believe this stock at the above price is one of the best speculations that is being offered today. While all other stocks, such as copper, gold, lead, and silver, have shown a decline the coal stocks are holding firm.

This company controls over 17,000 acres of valuable coal lands situated in the well known Nicola Valley, British Columbia.

We have only a limited number of shares left that we will sell in blocks of 500 or over at 7½ cents per share. Write for our booklet, which will give you full information.

We issue a Market Letter, which will be mailed free upon request.

FIELD & CO. SECURE SITE FOR ADDITION

Ten Story Building South of Present Wholesale House Said to Be Planned.

DEALS ON CANAL STREET.

Purposes of Land Purchases Just West of South Branch Are Still in Doubt.

An extensive addition to the Marshall Field & Co. wholesale establishment is planned in connection with purchases by the firm in the block directly south, bounded by Fifth avenue, Jackson boulevard, and Franklin and Quincy streets.

According to a special edition of the Real Estate and Building Journal the entire block east of the new office building of the Chicago and Northwestern road has been acquired by the firm and will be improved with a ten story building, corresponding to that at 203-205 Jackson boulevard, now owned and occupied by the firm.

Both John G. Shedd and James Simpson, speaking for the firm, positively denied the story regarding the acquirement of all the block east of the Northwestern office building.

It has been known for some time that the firm acquired three or four months ago the two Sheldon properties at 207-211 Jackson boulevard, just east of the Northwestern building, and at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Quincy street. This latter is 42 by 100 feet and reaches back to the firm's property at 203-205 Jackson boulevard, running back to Quincy street, thus giving an L shaped building with a frontage of 106 feet on both the boulevard and Quincy street, with a frontage of 42 feet on Fifth avenue at the corner of Quincy. The terms are not known, but the assessors valued the property at 207-211 Jackson boulevard at $417,625, and that at the corner of Fifth avenue and Quincy street at $157,140.

It was stated at the time of the purchase that it was questionable if the firm would acquire any more property, but report has it that negotiations were renewed and the remaining properties in the block acquired.

These other properties are the northwest corner of Jackson and Quincy, 60 by 100 feet, belonging to Mary S. Crozier and others, and the premises, 232-236 Fifth avenue, 64 by 100 feet, just south of the Sheldon piece at the corner. This belongs to Valentine C. Turner, but is held by Mandel Bros. under a ninety-nine year lease from 1888 at $6,000 a year.

Sales Along Canal Street.

Color was given to the reports of buying in the block on the east side of Canal street from West Madison to West Washington street by the filing for record yesterday of a deed covering the Henry H. Forsyth holding, 55 feet north of West Madison street. This fronts 109 feet with a depth of 150 feet, and is improved with a four story and basement brick building. The purchaser is Ida A. Richardson of New Orleans, who also holds title to the corner holding. A nominal consideration is given in the deed, which was executed July 15 last, but it is said the actual price is around $125,000.

Other properties in the block are reported to have been placed under contract, rumor variously crediting the purchase to the Pennsylvania road for a new express and mail terminal, to the St. Paul for a new passenger terminal, and to Butler Bros.

The property in North Clark street 83 feet south of New North Water street, 59¾x80 feet, east front, with four story brick building, has been conveyed by Joseph Fish to David Blum for a nominal consideration.

Hjalmar A. Ellingsom of Knox, Ind., has sold to William P. Fletcher the flat property in Jefferson avenue 250 feet north of Sixty-third street, with 50 by 150 feet of ground, west front, for $28,000, subject to an incumbrance of $14,000.

Charles H. Ward has taken title by master in chancery from Carrie B. Hathaway and others to the property at the northeast corner of Clybourn place and Wendell street, 176x186 feet, for $31,000.

Ward Hotel Project Denied.

The revival of the report as to a big hotel project in connection with the Montgomery Ward property on Michigan avenue between Madison and Washington streets was denied by W. C. Thorne.

GRAPE PRICES ARE ADVANCED.

New York grapes were a shade higher yesterday on account of the lighter receipts. Arrivals are moderate and are firmly held, as the full extent of the recent heavy frosts has not yet been ascertained. Strictly fresh eggs were in sharp demand, but other grades were slow. Butter was in fair demand, but there was no change in values. Receipts were heavier than a year ago—6,958 tubs. Potatoes sold slowly and were quoted lower.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The dry goods market was steadier today, but a readjustment of values on cotton and silks is under way. The yarn market is weaker. Underwear and hosiery are being called for by department store buyers, who say trade is steady with them.

Metals—Tin in London was weak and lower, spot closing at £139 and futures at £138. Locally the market was weak at $30.50@31.00. Copper was lower in London, spot closing at £55 10s and futures at £55. Locally copper was weak and lower; lake, $12.00@12.25; electrolytic, $11.62½@11.87½; casting, $11.50@11.75. Lead was unchanged at £18 5s in London. Locally the market was weak but unchanged. Spelter was unchanged at £21 15s in London, but was easy locally at $5.40@5.45. Iron was irregular in London, with standard foundry quoted at 53s 3d and Cleveland warrants at 54s 6d. Locally no change was reported.

Butter—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 10,149. Butter in Philadelphia—Firm; good demand; extra western creamery, 29½c; do nearby prints, 32c.

IRON TRADE FEELS SHAKEUP.

Happenings on Wall Street During Last Few Days Rob Ordinary Market Conditions of Significance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Iron Age tomorrow will say:

"The happenings in the financial markets during the last few days have robbed the occurrences in the iron markets during the week under review of most of their significance.

"It is altogether too early to judge of the effect of the financial troubles, since their extent and scope are not yet clear and since it is impossible to judge to what extent the manufacturing and trading interests will be affected. It must be observed, however, that generally speaking iron and metal industries have passed through a period of great prosperity and are stronger than they ever were in the history of this country. The pig iron markets have been quiet in the east. Where it has come down from the boom level the price is steady. In the south and in the central west the deadlock between buyers and sellers continues.

"Practically nothing is doing in standard rails, while in light rails concessions of $2.00@3.00 per ton are being made in the effort to secure what little business is going.

"The tinplate trade is dull and mills are being closed down. The wire trade stands forth as the one in which orders are still coming forward to the mills in almost undiminished volume. The export trade holds well."

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—The Iron Trade Review tomorrow will say:

"The last week has developed additional evidence that the iron trade is preparing for a period when the production of furnaces and mills will be considerably curtailed.

"The continued abstention of the railroads from placing important orders is a factor of no small significance and is attributed largely to financial conditions.

"The principal development in the pig iron market has been a sharp decline in the prices of southern iron."

Foreign Exchange.

The foreign exchange market was erratic. Actual closing rates for bankers' 60 day sterling bills were 4.80¼@4.8060; demand, 4.85@4.8510; cable transfers, 4.86¼@4.8635; commercial long, documents payment, 4.80@4.81¼; short marks, 94⅝@94 11-16, less 1-32; sight francs, 5.18⅛, plus 3-64@5.17⅛, less 1-32; guilders, 40⅛, plus 1-32@40 3-16; Belgian francs, 5.20⅝@5.20, less 1-16.

Following were the posted rates of the principal drawers of foreign exchange:

London	4.86½
Berlin reichsmarks	95⅛
Paris francs	5.16¼
Vienna crowns	20.30
Italian lire	5.13⅜
Scandinavian kroner	26.85

AFRAID OF NEW YORK BANKS

Chicago Financiers Buying No Exchange on Eastern City.

SWIFT & CO. STOCK FALLS.

Position of the Company Said to Be the Best in Years.

What New York banks may be expected to suffer from current disclosures there was shown yesterday by the fact that in Chicago there was no market for New York exchange. Not in many years has such a situation obtained. The absence of a market indicated that none of the Chicago banks cared to buy any credits on New York. There were no bids for exchange and the offerings were 50c discount, being the shipping rate.

No bank wished to increase the amount of funds it held in New York, and if it wished to draw down such as it had preferred to call for shipments by express. If Chicago banks are unwilling to increase the amount of funds they have in New York it is reasonable to assume that institutions farther west will also hesitate to increase their balances.

Swift & Co. All Right.

The market for Swift & Co. stock has created the suggestion that possibly there was something wrong with the company.

From sources other than those of Swift & Co. it was learned yesterday that the company's affairs were believed to be in the best financial condition they have been for a number of years. The last statement of assets and liabilities issued for the fiscal year 1906 showed current assets to be something like $20,000,000 in excess of current liabilities. Omitting plant account, surplus, stocks of subsidiary companies, and a few other items, the figures indicated the company had quick assets equaling two to one of its liabilities.

The position of Swift & Co. as a corporation must be differentiated from speculation in the stock of the company. The latter is a matter entirely apart from Swift & Co. earnings. It is generally admitted that those who have used the stock as collateral for loans have overreached themselves. This is a time difficult to borrow money, and the effort to hold the price above par was yesterday generally condemned. Should some of those operating the pool in the stock come to grief it would not affect the stability of the Swift & Co. corporation.

Speculation in the Stock.

Yesterday was an extremely active day in the shares on the local exchange and the price dropped to 87. The close was one point better. Total transactions were 8,613 shares. Belief was expressed in some quarters that an effort was being made to break the price of the stock. The selling and buying of the stock were general. The decline in the shares caused some perturbation among brokerage houses and banks which have been carrying and lending on the securities. But the fact that the company itself is regarded as being in strong financial position leaves the speculative feature a matter of inconsiderable moment.

Dividends Declared.

The Pressed Steel Car company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on preferred stock, payable Nov. 27. Books close Nov. 6, reopen Nov. 27.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable Nov. 15. Books close Oct. 31, reopen Nov. 15.

The American Light and Traction company has declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent each on its preferred and common stock, payable Nov. 1. Books close Oct. 24, reopen Nov. 1.

The National City bank declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, payable Nov. 1.

Financial Notes.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has lost $2,030,000 to the banks.

It is announced that the General Electric company has been gradually reducing its forces at Lynn and Schenectady. Within three weeks it has dropped 1,500 men. Since Feb. 1 it has dropped altogether about 8,000 out of 28,000 employés.

Chicago Stocks.

Aside from Swift shares, the local stock market was weak. Diamond Match made a new low record at 116. National Biscuit common dropped to 66 and the preferred to 105. For a small lot Chicago Telephone sold at 100, a new low price. Quaker Oats preferred dropped to 90, and Sears-Roebuck preferred sold at 80.

In the bond department Metropolitan L extension 4s sold at 80, while the first mortgage 4s sold at 84. Each pays 4 per cent and one is substantially as good as the other.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

There was a general decline in prices in all branches of trade in the stockyards yesterday. The cattle market was slow in the start. The sellers played a waiting game all day. Hogs went even lower than the day before. Eastern orders were slow. The sheep market was the last to feel the influence of the tight money market. There was a good demand early in the day, but this faded away. The receipts for the day were: Cattle, 25,000; hogs, 23,000; sheep, 32,000. The range of prices is as follows:

WHEAT RISES IN FACE OF FLURRY.

Good Gains Are Scored Despite Adverse Financial Conditions in the East.

EUROPEAN TONE A HELP.

Declines in Leading Foreign Markets Are Small Compared to Sharp Breaks Here.

Wheat values yesterday demonstrated their ability to look up despite the adverse financial situation in the east. While the soaring money rates, the run on the New York banks, the embarrassment of one of the leading manufacturing concerns, the further relapse in the stock market, and the closing of the Pittsburg exchange figured strongly in the general high strung nervousness, the sentiment and undertone of the market showed considerable improvement. Prices frisked over a range of about 2½c, ruling stronger except for a fleeting period early, when quotations were shoved to a shade under the previous close. Final figures were not far from the day's top, representing net gains of 2½c for December, 2½c for May, and 1⅜c for July.

Revival of the export demand and surprisingly mild response of foreign markets to the sensational declines here the day before combined with the unquestionably oversold condition of the market to work for firmness. Net losses abroad were ⅛@¼d at Liverpool, ⅝@1¼c at Antwerp, 1⅛c at Berlin, ¼c at Budapest, and 1⅝@2c since Monday at Paris. These showings compared to a local break of more than 3c the previous session. Advices from good sources indicated that foreigners were not worrying much over the financial difficulties in the east, and it was said that some of them were taking advantage of the unsettled conditions in Wall street to buy American cash grain.

Overnight Offers Are Accepted.

All overnight offers of wheat were reported to have been taken, and considerable buying of futures for foreign account was done here and elsewhere, the orders calling for both December and May. The action of the Europeans underlay much of the confidence of local traders. Millers of the northwest were reported sellers of futures here and at Minneapolis, and this sort of trading served as a checking influence. Receipts of wheat at the two leading northwestern centers were 855 cars, 91 more than were reported the corresponding day last year, the arrivals at Winnipeg—365 cars—exceeding the 1906 showing by 52 cars. Total primary receipts were 1,138,000 bu, against 887,000 bu a year ago, Chicago reporting 54 cars, a little less than expected. Clearances at the seaboard, wheat and flour, were equal to 737,000 bu.

Realizing on the Bulges.

An early advance of about 1½c was checked and materially trimmed by liquidation by longs and pressure from some of the more confident shorts. The break, however, witnessed a drying up of offerings and a scramble of shorts to get back what they had sold. Profit taking on the bulges and covering on the softer spots kept prices flitting within a reasonably broad range until near the close, when a brisk spurt of buying was prompted by reports of good export sales. Duluth No. 1 northern was sold in fair quantities to Liverpool, and sales of No. 2 hard at the gulf were reported at more than a cent over the previous price paid. Country millers were fair buyers of red winter wheat here, and Kansas City reported good sales for both foreign and domestic account.

The weather northwest was ideal for finishing and marketing, but advices from Saskatchewan were to the effect that harvesting returns were surprisingly poor, much grain not being worth the trouble to thrash. There were further advices indicating drouthy conditions in Russia, India, Hungary, and Australia, and one report that was considered significant by the bulls had it that the Russian government has appropriated $3,500,000 to relieve distress in import wheat producing provinces of the empire.

Guess as to Leaders' Play.

There was much speculating as to the position of Patten and his followers. Many traders, gauging by the character of the buying in the pit, were inclined to attribute much of the previous day's sharp pressure to short selling and not so much to big liquidation by longs. So far as could be determined yesterday, there was but little to indicate that the big bulls have forsaken their craft and jumped over into the bearish boat. Gossip dealt out by the house with which Patten is identified continued to bristle with bullishness. "Of course," said one trader, "a reaction after the sharp break was only natural, but there was much that seemed to me to indicate that a good deal of muscle was employed in bolstering prices."

Pressure on Corn Reduced.

It was apparent at the start that liquidation in the corn market had run its course, for the time being at least. Prices early displayed some weakness, but offerings were not large or pressing, and the slight concessions attracted enough buying to lift values to almost a cent over the previous close. The strength in wheat had a good influence on the market. Last prices showed net gains of ¾@⅞c for December, ⅞c for May, and ¾c for July.

Local arrivals were light at 192 cars, the estimate for today being 357 cars. Receipts at primary points aggregated 854,000 bu, compared to 671,000 bu a year ago. Shipments hence were 315,000 bu, or 183,000 bu less than those of a year ago. Clearances at the seaboard totaled 173,000 bu. The demand for cash corn was only fair, but sales for exports finally showed a respectable total. It was said that there was renewed effort to sell corn en route to the east. Weather was fine for the crop and for marketing, but there was the usual quota of unfavorable husking reports from important sections of the belt. Liverpool showed considerable weakness early, but recovered before the close.

Oats Are Relatively Weak.

Oats were relatively weaker than the more important cereals, although business in the market continued to be dull and almost entirely of a local professional character. The market gave moderate response to the developing firmness in wheat and corn, but the pressure of long grain took the wind out of the bulges. Final quotations represented net declines of ⅛c for December and ⅛@¼c for May, the July closing ¼c higher. The big interests in the market apparently did practically nothing. Local receipts were 398 cars, of which 14 graded standard, 25 more than expected, the estimate for today being 309 cars. Total primary arrivals were 1,134,000 bu, compared to 978,000 bu a year ago. Cash trade was only fair, and there was nothing doing in the way of seaboard clearances.

Provisions Are Hard Pressed.

Liquidation by packers and snappy pressure from scattered floor longs, combined with liberal receipts of hogs at western points—64,500, against 62,200 a year ago—and a sharp break in prices at the yards to work for further marked recessions in the provision list. The close showed net losses of 32½@35c for pork, 22½@42½c for lard, and 18@20c for ribs. Packers from the outside, as well as those identified with local interests, sold much more November lard than the support could digest. There was considerable selling of January lard, chiefly against purchases of the May, the packers also indulging in this sort of trading. Scattered shorts and some of the outside packers of less pretentious caliber provided most of the support. Some in the trade are figuring that the sharp declines at the stockyards the last few days will tend to lessen the hog movement from the country. The general cash situation was fair. Estimated local swine receipts for today were 18,000.

Rye Prices Are Unchanged.

Rye was unchanged and dull. Receipts were 11 cars. No. 2 free on board was quoted 83½@85c and No. 3 sold at 82c.

Barley again suffered a severe decline, prices being 2@3c lower, the extreme declines being for low grades. Feed was quoted 72@78c; malting, 75c@$1.00; screenings, 40@68c. Receipts were 42 cars.

Arrivals of flaxseed were larger, 97,000 bu coming in by lake and 3 cars by rail. Prices were ½c lower. No. 1 northwestern was quoted $1.22; No. 1 from the northwest, $1.20½; and No. 1 southwestern, $1.12.

Timothy seed was 20c higher for futures. October was quoted $4.50 and March $4.80, with country lots $3.50@4.50. Clover seed was $16.75 for contract October and $11.00@16.00 for cash lots.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

"News relative to supply and demand, and all other factors operative on grain values have been subservient to the financial distress and the inherent fear which has encroached on the country's prosperity," said W. P. Mackenzie of Love & Co., in a special résumé of wheat trade conditions. "Local sentiment, having in mind foreign demand and reduced surplus supply to meet the same, has shown a disposition to ignore money conditions and let the east work out its own salvation, irrespective of the borrowing difficulties surrounding the real merchants upon whom devolves the financial strain. Could we see in the immediate or even in the near future an easing up of money conditions, a prospective relief in banking facilities, we would be willing to accept a present price level of wheat as consistent with foreign requirements and domestic ability to meet the same, but, having in mind money conditions abroad, as well as at home, we cannot help but feel that much of the merit incident to the law of supply and demand now existing is neutralized, and we would like to see the ability of the foreigner to pay for what he has bought, in confirmation of his enthusiastic buying of late, demonstrated, before we can accept the belief prevailing that the situation is healthy. We look for a forced movement from the farms, a forced movement from primary points to the seaboard, and a sacrifice in price to meet the pressure which is being brought to bear to relieve the stringency now existing."

Interior millers were fair buyers here in the cash market and prices were relatively firm. The money situation is causing local dealers no little inconvenience, to a considerable extent curtailing eastern shipping sales. Seaboard exporters have been great bulls on wheat and have bought the cash stuff freely—so freely, in fact, that they are now having difficulty in securing funds to carry their present purchases, and this has operated to check current business. It is feared that a continuance of the monetary stringency will entail heavy reselling and cancellations of orders. Other markets were quiet. Kansas City reported a slow demand for cash wheat, with a large number of cars carried over. St. Louis and Minneapolis did a fair business. There was no disposition to increase cash premiums at Minneapolis, and dealers there are having their own troubles in securing bank accommodations. In corn the same factors as in wheat are operating against an active business. Prices were ⅛@1c lower. Country acceptances were light. Oats were easy, with values ½@1½c lower. Local sales were 50,000 bu wheat, 150,000 bu corn, and 100,000 bu oats. The seaboard reported sales of 600,000 bu wheat, 192,000 bu corn, and 32,000 bu rye.

Considering the sensational financial developments in this country, the buying of wheat on the break yesterday by foreigners was considered significant. The scarcity of spring wheat is creating an enormous demand from the other side for hard winter varieties, and the steadily hardening premiums for No. 2 hard at the gulf indicate an actual need of this variety. Yesterday this grade sold at the gulf at 10½c over Chicago December, or 1½c higher relatively than the previous day. Liverpool was a buyer of Duluth No. 1 northern wheat at New York, and the seaboard also claimed a fair business in No. 2 red, durums, and hard winters.

The Northwestern Miller's flour trade summary follows: "The Minneapolis flour output last week was less than 2,000 brls smaller than in the preceding week. The quantity turned out was 357,660 brls, against 316,730 brls in 1906 and 471,265 in 1905. Two less mills were in operation today, and should they remain idle all the week it would mean fully 50,000 brls reduction. That would make the week's output around 310,-000 brls, against 349,410 a year ago. With a wild wheat market and a decline for the week of 12c, trade in flour has been irregular but of fair volume. It is safe to say that sales of Minneapolis mills during the week exceeded the output by a liberal margin. The foreign trade displayed unusual interest in flour and made comparatively favorable bids. Even on patents the demand was pretty good, and a generous business would have resulted had not mills opportunity to sell on more profitable terms in domestic markets."

Bartlett-Frazier, Logan-Bryan, Scotten-Snydacker, Hulburd-Warren-Chandler, and local traders were the best buyers of wheat on the early decline. Later Dickinson, Lake, and Pringle-Fitch-Rankin were on the buying side. The local crowd was caught short early in the day and again after the decline in December to 99⅝c from $1.01⅛. On the bulges Logan-Bryan, Slaughter, Rankin, and Northern Grain company were the leading sellers. Comstock bought corn early, but later was a seller. On the advance to 60c Bartlett-Frazier were the heaviest buyers. Ware-Leland and Pringle-Fitch-Rankin were good sellers. Bartlett-Frazier, Shearson-Hammill, and Northern Grain supported oats. The selling was headed by Roberts, Ware-Leland, Hulburd-Warren, and Buckley. Packers bought May lard and sold January. Boyd-Lunham and Raymond were the leading buyers early, supposed to be covering shorts. Packers sold.

"There is not enough of the hard varieties of wheat moving to supply the demand, and it is sure that we cannot afford to let too much of our northern spring go abroad, even at the high premiums offered," said Bartlett-Frazier. "Europe must buy a lot more wheat during the next sixty days, and we will have to supply it. This will be a great help to the financial situation. The sterling credits involved are going to make a great change in sentiment, and probably will give higher values. Broomhall indicates the situation in Russia by saying that the Russian government has given $3,500,000 to relieve the distress in the wheat growing provinces. Russian drought continues, and the Odessa market ruled strong today."

Local cash men are wondering who is going to carry the cash wheat after Dec. 1. Banks are loath to make definite promises in regard to furnishing funds to renew loans after that date, and in fact one of the banks has refused to promise that it would renew the loan on cash wheat at all. Speculative buyers of December wheat are likely as a result to have the wheat delivered to them, with a poor prospect of getting bank accommodations except at prohibitive prices. As indicating the tendency of the trade to back away from the actual grain, October wheat sold yesterday in the pit at a discount of 3c under December, whereas the actual cost of carrying the grain from now until Dec. 1 is only about half that amount.

Broomhall cabled the following on Russian conditions: "In the southern region the drought is unbroken. Arrivals at the southwest are of poor quality, while in the southeast the arrivals are good. The wheat market at Odessa opened firm today, as a result of liberal buying owing to the continuance of the drought, but afterwards eased."

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ⅛@¼d off; Paris, 1⅝@2c off; Antwerp, ⅝@1¼c off; Berlin, 1⅛c lower; and Budapest, ¼c lower.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 76 cars; corn, 357 cars; oats, 309 cars; rye, 5 cars; barley, 51 cars; hogs, 19,000.

STOCKS IN EXCITED MOOD.

Wide Price Changes Mark Day's Session on N. Y. Exchange.

SOME RALLY NEAR CLOSE.

Good Support Given to Small Section of List by the Bulls.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—[Special.]—After a session marked by extreme gloom in sentiment and wide fluctuation in prices the stock market rallied to some extent late in the day and then became unsettled again, holding in that condition until the close.

One of the chief factors in the uneasiness was the closing of the Pittsburg stock exchange and the heavy selling orders which came from that source. Most of these were on stocks usually regarded as inactive, and forced rapid declines, due to lack of supporting measures.

There was a considerable fragment of the list of securities which was but slightly affected by the acute depression at other points and by the severe stringency of money. The resistance of these points in the list must have been due to protective measures. Their comparative stability suggested something of suspense also in the attitude of waiting for the working out of measures to fortify the situation.

The effect of the Westinghouse incident was particularly severe on the industrial securities generally, and many of these disclosed the artificial character of the quotations which have been established for them and the narrow market existing for any genuine liquidation in them. Support in this part of the list seemed out of the question.

Bonds were weak. The Westinghouse convertible bonds shared in the demoralization of the stock, and other convertible and speculative issues made wide declines. Total sales, par value, $4,126,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call in strong demand; 6@90 per cent; ruling rate, 70. Time loans, firm and nominal; 60 days, 6½ per cent; 90 days, 6½@7 per cent; 6 months, 6 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 7@7½ per cent. Sterling exchange, nominal, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85@4.8510 for demand, and at 4.81@4.8105 for 60 day bills. Commercial bills, 4.79⅝. Bar silver—61⅝c. Mexican dollars—48½c. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, weak.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 23.—[Special.]—Liquidation of speculative holdings continued in the Boston stock market today, and new low records were made in many sections of the list, despite a steady storm of small lot investment buying. The reports of the Westinghouse Electric company's financial troubles had a bearish effect on the coppers, as the company is a consumer of about 40,000,000 pounds of metal.

Swift & Co. closed at 87, a loss of 7½. Liquidation in this was said to have been for a Pittsburg account. United Fruit, another local investment favorite, suffered severely, dropping 3⅝, to 105. Calumet and Hecla lost 25, to 565; North Butte lost 8¼, to 32¼; Quincy, 2, to 73; Calumet and Arizona, 2½, to 90½; and Granby, 2, to 70. The market for New York, New Haven and Hartford was narrow, and it lost 5, to 135, on small sales. Boston and Maine sagged 1¼, to 138¼.

Call loans, 5@6 per cent; time loans, collateral, 6@7 per cent; time loans, mercantile paper, 7@7½ per cent; clearing house loans, 5 per cent.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The supplies of money in the market today were plentiful and slightly harder. Discounts were firmer. The Bank of England sold $125,000 in French gold.

On the stock exchange Americans continued to provide most of the interests. Prices rose half a point over parity in the forenoon, while the smallness of the account open here and the belief that there would be no trouble at the settlement assisted in the better tendency. Later, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific lost a point, and then various rumors caused prices to decline to 3 points lower. They finished at half a point to a point above the lowest.

The general market was little affected and prices ruled steady until the afternoon, when dearer discount rates and money fears caused consols to decline to ⅝.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The boerse was little affected by the disquiet in New York. Americans declined at the opening, but the market in general was firm.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—After a better opening, the tone on the local bourse became undecided, while awaiting the result of the financial developments in New York.

RENUMBER HOMES PLAN IS TAKEN UP

Council Committee Hears a Postoffice Man's Suggestion for "Even 100" in Block.

STREET NAMES TO REMAIN

Aldermen, It Is Said, Favor but Few Changes, So Confusion May Be Avoided.

The question of how to renumber and in some instances rename the streets of Chicago so as to facilitate business and make it easier for the delivery of letters came before the council committee on street nomenclature yesterday. Supt. Stewart of the local postal delivery submitted a report which was concurred in by Supt. Riley of the map department and the committee decided to study it before acting.

The committee did, however, change the name of Jackson Park avenue back to Stony Island avenue. Some time ago certain property owners thought "Stony Island avenue" too plebeian a name and induced the council to change it to "Jackson Park avenue." The trouble was nobody would ever use the new name, so in sheer despair a petition was sent in to restore the old one.

The Stewart plan as given the committee contemplates a renumbering of all streets on the north and west sides. On the south side the only changes will be with the east and west streets, the north and south ones remaining as they are. In short, it contemplates extending to the other sections of the city the plan now in use on the south side.

800 Numbers to a Mile.

The idea is to allow 800 numbers to a mile and as closely as possible 100 to a block. This latter subdivision will be possible except in some cases, especially on the north side, where the blocks are too short. With this average of 800 to a mile a number on one street will correspond with the number on a parallel street, so that the passenger on a West Madison street car who wants to go to a certain number in West Monroe street will only have to look at the Madison street numbers to know where to get off.

State street is to be used as the east and west dividing line and Madison as the north and south. For instance, Adams street east of State will be East Adams street and west of State West Adams. Halsted street north of Madison, North Halsted, and Halsted street south of Madison, South Halsted. On the north side after State street runs into Lincoln park there will be no east streets at all—they will all be west.

All diagonal streets will have no east, west, north, or south name, but will be numbered according to their general direction. Cottage Grove avenue will be numbered, as now, on the north and south basis and Colorado avenue as an east and west street.

Change Few Names.

Provision is made for changes in street names where there are duplicates. The plan is to make the name changes as few as possible. There are a number of instances where, as in Austin, for instance, a street has one name until it gets to the Austin line and another one afterwards. The plan is to continue the city name into the Thirty-fifth ward.

So there are broken streets, one notable instance being on the north side. The first street south of North avenue is known as Germania place at one place, as Lutz place at another, as Weed street at another, and so on through Keenon street, Ewing street, and Pierce avenue. The idea is to give all these disconnected streets one name.

PAY FOR DEATH BY "WIRELESS."

Relatives of Baby Victim Recover $1,000 from Western Avenue Station Owner.

Damages of $1,000 were awarded yesterday by a jury in Judge Kavanagh's court in the suit of relatives of Robert E. Wall, 3 years old, against the American De Forest Wireless company. A "wireless" wire caused the death of the boy on Aug. 14, 1905, while at the station at Thirty-second street and Western avenue. The suit was brought on behalf of Patrick J. Wall, father of the boy; Mary, mother, and Elizabeth, a sister.

ORDERS WALTON TO ANSWER

BOOKS MUST BE PRODUCED.

Prosecution Aims to Show Conspiracy in Management of Banks.

Ordered by Judge Bethea to give the answers he refused to give last Monday, Lyman A. Walton, through his attorney, L. E. Hart, announced that he would hold out no longer against the federal grand jury, but would answer as directed.

United States District Attorney Sims and his assistants, Fletcher Dobyns and Frank W. Childs, obtained the ruling from Judge Bethea, with a plea that the evidence desired might tend to prove the inception of a conspiracy in the manipulations of the affairs of John R. Walsh's banks.

The statements made to the court definitely disclosed that the purpose of the grand jury investigation was to inquire into this alleged conspiracy between Walsh and two subordinates.

Must Bring in Books.

Coupled with the order to answer, the court issued instructions to Mr. Walton to produce certain books of the Equitable Trust company, of which Mr. Walton is vice president. It was represented that the books could not be produced until this morning. Accordingly the grand jury adjourned for the day.

In the arguments before Judge Bethea Attorney Hart told the court the reason he had advised the witness not to answer was because he believed the present grand jury had no jurisdiction in reference to transactions of the Equitable Trust company before March 3, 1905, the date when the judicial redistricting law went into effect.

After Mr. Dobyns and Mr. Childs had spoken briefly Mr. Sims said:

"It is likely there was a conspiracy which might have been initiated before the new division was established. The grand jury has a right to obtain any evidence, no matter when it developed, if it bears upon the conspiracy or transaction they are investigating."

ABSENT FROM THEIR POSTS; NOT WORKING FOR CITY NOW.

Two Men Separated from Service—One Quit Because He Couldn't Get Furlough, Other Sent to Bridewell.

Two more men were discharged from the police department yesterday by the civil service commission for leaving their posts without permission. They are George Sanford, an operator, and George Ramsey, a janitor. Sanford quit work because he could not get a furlough, while Ramsey quit when he was arrested and sent to the house of correction for a year for larceny.

Cases against policemen were heard but no decisions rendered. Patrolman Patrick J. O'Rourke was charged with shooting Henry B. Rebmann, 2018 West Lake street, over a year ago. Recently O'Rourke was sentenced to sixty days in the bridewell. Despite this he appeared before the board and asserted that he had shot Rebmann only to save himself from an attack.

Mayor Busse has ordered an investigation of a complaint by J. F. Travis, 551 Chicago avenue, Evanston, that Martin Geffers, bridgetender at the Clark street bridge, imperiled the lives of a dozen persons Monday night by neglecting to warn an approaching street car that the bridge was about to turn.

LOFTIS HAS BROTHER INDICTED.

Diamond Merchant Charges Relative with Assault as Result of Attempted Shooting.

The grand jury yesterday indicted Joseph S. Loftis, formerly a member of the firm of Loftis Bros., diamond merchants. The indictment was made on the complaint of his brother, Samuel T. A. Loftis, president of the firm. It charges Joseph Loftis with assault to kill. Joseph Loftis attempted to shoot his brother early last summer at a meeting of the directors of the firm, at which the younger brother was ousted from his position.
